North Carolina lost fifty million dollars through tuberculosis in 1922—just half of what the State lost in 1913. The fight is a winning fight. Help us to win.

Until further notice The Times-Tribune Office will give 10 per cent. discount on all orders for engraved wedding announcements and invitations, monogram stationery and Christmas cards.

The condition of Mrs. I. L. Davis, Jr., who has been confined to her home on North Union Street for several days by illness, is reported today as improved.

Only two cases were on docket for trial in recorder's court this morning. Several other cases were originally scheduled for trial today, but at the request of the defendants they were continued until Friday.

Mr. Reuben Glover has accepted a position with the St. Cloud Barber Shop. He succeeds Mr. Charles Linker, who has returned to the Central Shop, where he worked for several years before going to the St. Cloud.

Until further notice The Times-Tribune Office will give 10 per cent. discount on all orders for engraved wedding announcements and invitations, monogram stationery and Christmas cards.

Mrs. Mollie Elliott, who has been ill for some time, had a serious nervous attack Monday afternoon. She rallied quickly, however, and her condition today is reported as about the same it has been for the past several weeks.

We will send The Tribune and McCall's Magazine, both one year for only $2.60, if you live in the city or outside the State. If on the rural routes or in the State outside the city of Concord, the price will be $3.60.

Ed Morrison, of this city, has been placed on the basketball squad at Davidson. Morrison was picked from among the best class players at Davidson, and is putting up a hard fight for a berth on the regular team, according to reports from Davidson.

James E. Cordie, aged 44, died Tuesday morning about 5 o'clock at his home in No. 11 township. He is survived by his wife and three children.

Mrs. Floy Miller and son returned on Tuesday from Charlotte, where the child had his eye treated following an accident Friday when he was struck in the eye while playing. The condition of the child is reported as improved, a message from Mrs. Miller's home states.

The aldermen of the city will hold their regular December meeting at the city hall on Thursday night of this week. Members of the board declare that so far as they know now no business of unusual importance will come before the meeting. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock, the usual hour.

Only routine business is expected to be transacted by the aldermen when they meet at the city hall in regular session on Thursday night of this week. The meeting will be the regular one for December, and so far nothing of importance is scheduled to come up at the meeting.

The condition of Willia Marion Preslar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Preslar, who was burned several days ago while putting coal on a fire, is reported today as critical. The clothing of the child caught while she was placing the coal on the fire, and her body was severely burned in many places.

Mollie Cole, colored woman, 78 years of age, died Saturday and was buried this afternoon. Mollie was a member of a colored family that has always enjoyed a fine reputation among the people of Concord, and her children, one of whom is Ida Roberts, are respected by both white and colored people.

Three defendants paid fines totalling $47.50 in recorder's court Monday. In one case charging assault on a female the defendant was found not guilty and two cases, one charging rape, were continued. One defendant charged with intoxication was given 46 hours in which to escape a jail sentence.

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of Mt. Pleasant Collegiate Institute met last Tuesday with Rev. L. A. Thomas. Those attending were: Rev. J. L. Morgan, D. D., president of the N. C. Synod; Rev. J. F. Craigler, Prof. J. B. Robertson, H. B. Wilkinson, and Rev. J. C. Deitz.

Mrs. C. W. Byrd won in the golf match played Monday with Miss Mary Phifer Pemberton in the woman's tournament of the Country Club. Mrs. Byrd won 3 up and advanced through her third match. Several matches scheduled to be played Tuesday and today were rained out by the steady downpour of the past two days.

Sheriff Caldwell has heard nothing so far from his Ford car which was stolen on the streets of Charlotte Saturday night. Charlotte officers have kept a sharp watch for the car, but so far they have seen nothing of it. Local officers have heard nothing of Mr. L. A. Grieflin's car, which was taken from the streets here Saturday night.

Rev. M. L. Kester, pastor of Calvary Lutheran Church, has moved his family into the parsonage of the church. The parsonage was recently purchased by the congregation of the church, and has been changed and improved in many ways, including the remodeling and repainting of the structure on the inside and outside.

Miss Frances Gasele, county health nurse, is spending several days in Greensboro, taking an examination being given under the supervision of the State Board of Health for county nurses.

Patrolman Philemon returned Tuesday night from West Virginia, where he went to get a white man named Sutherland, charged with the theft of a Ford car here. The Concord officer returned with the prisoner and the car, which was the property of Mr. Paul Peacock, according to information at police headquarters. Sutherland will be given a hearing some time this week.

That basketball is increasing in interest here is demonstrated by the fact that one of the largest number of candidates ever turned out in this city is practicing each night now at the Y. Several of the men who are trying for the Y team had not played a game in several years until this season, and their interest probably means that the Y team this year will be an unusually good one.

Only routine matters were acted upon by the county commissioners Monday after Mr. W. P. Harry was sworn in to succeed his father. It was announced at the meeting that all maps submitted to the board hereafter must uniform in size and on uniform paper, which will be provided by the register of deeds. All maps now in the county's possession will be retraced and placed in the loose leaf ledger purchased for this purpose.

Quite a number of Concord people are going to Charlotte now on the paved road. The road is open from Concord to Rocky River and from Harrisburg to a point near Newell, but it is necessary to detour from that point to Charlotte. Several of the persons who have taken this road advise others to take the road via Brown Mill, which as a whole is better and shorter than the highway, because of detours on the latter.

DEATH OF MRS. LAURA GRAHAM TUESDAY MORNING

Beloved Woman Died at 12:15 O'clock After Lingered Illness.—Funeral Tomorrow Morning.

Mrs. Laura Whitlock Graham, wife of the late Walter Graham, died Tuesday morning at 12:15 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Fisher, with whom she had made her home for the last nine years. She had been ill for several weeks and her condition had been so critical during the past several days that no hope was entertained for her recovery.

Funeral services were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fisher Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. C. Rowan. The body was taken to Shelby after the services here and interment was made there about one o'clock. Mrs. Graham will be buried beside her husband, who died a number of years ago and was buried at Shelby.

FIRST MEETING OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE NEW ORGANIZATION

Governing Body of Chamber of Commerce Met Monday Night in Office of the President, Dr. Spencer.

PALMER CHOSEN NEW TREASURER

In Future J. L. M. Smith Will Be Secretary Only—Directors to Meet Twice Each Month in Future.

Several matters of pertinent interest to the organization were discussed and acted upon at the first meeting of the directors of the Concord Chamber of Commerce held Monday evening in the office of the chamber's president, Dr. T. N. Spencer. Ten of the twelve directors were present at the meeting, and officers of the organization were keenly pleased with the interest shown by the directors in the various matters that came up for consideration at the conference.

The directors voted to meet twice each month in the future, the meetings to be held on the first and third Monday nights in each month. All of the meetings will be held in the office of President Spencer, where headquarters are to be established upon authority of the directors.

The office of Secretary-Treasurer, which was given to Mr. J. L. M. Smith at the mass meeting held last week at which time the chamber was organized, was split by the directors Monday night and Mr. A. B. Palmer was chosen Treasurer. Mr. Smith will continue as secretary.

Directors Palmer, Niblock and Jarrett were appointed a committee to draw up the by-laws and constitution of the organization and also to secure the incorporation papers, it having been decided to incorporate the chamber.

One of the first tasks of Mr. Smith will be the preparation of an attractive pamphlet which will be mailed out to each person or firm which makes inquiry about Concord. The pamphlet will contain a map showing the location of Concord and its tributary cities and towns.

The directors also instructed officers of the chamber to confer with garage and filling station owners and ask them to prepare Concord tags to be distributed to Concord auto owners.

The directors suggested that a speakers' bureau be maintained by the chamber so that when the occasion arises, there will be speakers available to represent the city at local gatherings or at meetings in other cities.

But the creation of a new town of homes is not the greatest of Concord's distinction. The people who occupy these new homes must have business occupations and the volume of domestic development indicates a similar development of business enterprises. New factories dot the area covered by the town, while the business section, in recent years considerably transformed, is now entered into the sky-scraper stage, one conspicuous projection in the sky line being a handsome apartment building, granite, concrete and steel, a bank, home and office building, advantage of a corner position at the courthouse lawn. There has been a general remodeling of store fronts and the business section of Concord has been converted into one of the most attractive show-window effects in the State. There are store fronts in Concord that would make good company for the best in a big city. Transmogrification has suggestive interpretation in the dictionary in the things to be seen today in Concord it has interpretation of the practical and illuminative sort.

CONCORD PEOPLE ARE DOING ALL THEY CAN FOR FELLOW SUFFERERS.

Concord testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Concord who suffer from back and kidney ills. Let any sufferer doubt this evidence of merit, we produce confirmed proof—statements from Concord people who again endorse Doan's Kidney Pills—confirm their former testimony. Here's a Concord case: Mrs. Lillian McIntyre, 134 Franklin Ave., says: "I suffered from a dull ache in my back and sometimes the pains were knife-like when I stooped and almost took my breath. I had dizzy spells and specs came before my eyes. I was all run down and felt tired. My head ached and I was nervous, too. My ankles bloated and my hands puffed up. My kidneys were weak. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them. My back felt like new and my kidneys were regulated." (Statement given May 10, 1918).

On January 23, 1922, Mrs. McIntyre added: "Don't have never failed to help me when my kidneys have troubled me."

Wade Harris in Charlotte Observer.

Taking either area or population as the basis of calculation, it is a very good possibility that Concord could figure up a larger mileage of paved streets than any town in North Carolina. The old town was laid out on two cross roads, these eventually becoming residential and business streets, each a mile long. Main street, extending from the McDonald factory to Blume's Old Field, traversed the ridge or backbone of the town from north to south, and until recent years all business fronted on it. The other ran up one incline from the old Dr. Dan Fink settlement to ridge pole at the crossing of Main street, thence down the western incline to depot. In the earlier day of the town all that was to be seen of it was to be seen on these two streets. The cross streets were lanes and the side streets maintained the characteristics of country roads. The visitor to the town today must get, off the two principal streets to come into appreciation of the actual scope of expansion. The surfaced streets constitute a newly-created town that is perhaps three times as large as the original town; there is more paving and more buildings in the new parts of Concord than in the old. The town first began developing toward the south; then the surveyors, graders and pavers began opening avenues and cross streets. In the meantime, contractors and builders followed—and Concord has been transformed beyond recognition by "the old inhabitant." To the north it has been built out a mile beyond the head of the street where it split around the factory settlement and where the factory, later the Odel plant, was once the bounds of the town, it now finds itself fairly well into the midst of it. Not more than a dozen years ago Buffalo Creek, which flows by the west, was a mile from the nearest house; the Three-Mile branch flowing by on the east, was even more remote from the nearest house. Now, at one point in the northern section, one of the streets has been pushed to the creek, which is spanned by an ornamental bridge, and solid rows of houses built up to the very banks. One of the developments on the east has reached the Three-Mile branch, at another point. The time is not far away when the waters of these two streams will flow through built-up sections, for Concord expansion has reached an impetus is not to be stopped. Across the lower part of the town a built-up street, two miles long, extends from the depot by Allison's corner out by the Lutheran church and down the hill to the Three-Mile branch. As an example of the fast-growing town Concord may safely invite attention of the State to itself.
