lows : The sermon that I am preaching to night is very plain and I hope very practical. The text is Acts 11:24, "Bar nabas was a good man; full of the Holy Ghost and of faith." The ideal Christian is first of all a good man or a good woman. Many people think they can be good Christians without being good folks. The Bible can sanction nothing of the Lawyers For Attorney Genkind. But there are people who seem to be able to fool themselves into believing that they can flirt with the devil and his imps all week and still be Christians. If they are members of the church and attend church on Sunday. They will never succeed in fooling God. And to be good does not mean to be goody-goody. good; goodness combined with silliness. silline

Really spiritually their makeup. The true test of a man's spirituality is not in the church, or in ducts himself when the preacher is around, but in the way he does business and the consideration with which he treats his family. The ideal Christian is a man of faith.

It takes a great deal of faith to be a real Christian. We need faith in ourselves. The world will never have faith in us as long as we have no faith in ourselves. I know some people who have a mighty good opinion of them-selves. Faith in God is most import-ant. The promptings of the Spirit often come to us and admonish us to launch out. And alas! What lack of faith! The ideal Christian will be a member of the church. You will notice that one of the results of the works of spirit-filled Barnabas was that many were added unto the Lord. A real Christian will want to join himself with that organized body of believing people known as
