High School.

Rev. J. A. L. Miller and Mrs. Miller Celebrate Fiftieth of Mrs. Paul Smith and Paul Smith, Wedding Anniversary at Tuesday morning. Old Home Church.

SUNDAY AT BETHEF

Concord and Cabarrus citizens will read with interest the account of the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the marriage of Rev. J. A. L. Miller and Mirs. Miller at Bethel Lutheran church, Fanklin township, Rowan county, last Sunday. Mr. Miller has on a number of occasions preached in churches of this county, and has a daughter and son living in this city, Mrs. J. W. Pike and B. A. Miller. The Tuesday edition of the Salisbury Post had the following account of the celebration :

er Creek, the placid plaything of the HUNTERSVILLE MAN youngsters, was sent sloshing from its banks by a veritable cloudburst. For several hundred yards on either side of its banks the creek roaren along, rising more than eight feet in the short time of a few hours.

From the Archibald yard the creek was visible and Nate, his cousin Jack Hooks, and several other youngsters hied there, anxious to test the water while it resembled . a raging river more than a mere creek.

They were cautioned not to go into the water but Jack, nine years old and less than five feet tall, couldn't resist the temptation. While the others were engaged on one side of the highway bridge he crossed to the other side, stepped into the backwash of the stream and started across what had been a few hours before a mammoth corn field.

now; however, and the youngster soon found this out. Into an irrigation ditch that fed the field he went, into water nine feet deep.

As he went under there was a wild cramble for the side of the ditch and a hearty shout for help. Nate sized up the situation at a glance. Into the swollen stream he waded, treading water above his knees, but always eeling with his feet for the treacherous ditches. In a few seconds he had reached Jack, just as the youngster started under for the second ime, and kneeling into the water that aroomed off his shoulders, Nate pulled his pal to safety.

Again there was no wild acclaim The boys walked back home as though nothing had happened, though Jack was profuse and sincere enough with his plain words of thanks. But the ther kiddies were not so quiet. They started the story around and friends f this quiet, almost timid youngster iave started a movement to secure im due recognition for his calmness. anity, courage and quickness of acion under fire.

STORE IS ENTERED THIRD TIME: $100 GOODS ARE STOLEN

Again A. W. Moose Co., of Mt. Pleasant, Is Prey For Prowlers.-Robbed Three Times Lately.

Robbery of the A. W. Moose Co., of tives for several weeks. Mount Pleasant, for the third time during the past few months, occurred some time during Monday night. The unknown prowelers entered the estabishment through the back door, after breaking the lock, and carried away goods valued at more than $100, according to estimates of Hoy Moose. The robbery was discovered early Tuesday by Hoy Moose, who oened the store for the day. Immedi ately authorities were notified of the case, and efforts were being made this afternoon to apprehend the thieves. Some four or five weeks ago the store was robbed, a quantity of merchandise being taken. A reward of $50 was posted by A. W. Moose at that time for the apprehension of the guilty.

Among the merchandise taken by the Monday night prowlers are in-cluded: Cigars, cigarettes, pipes, cigarette cases, stationery, compacts, razor blades, kodaks and kodak films, and about $5 in small change and pennies from the cash register.

The theory has been advanced that the A. W. Moose Co. has been robbed these three times by the same parties. and judging from the variety of goods taken there is strong indication that the guilty are white men or youths.
