LOCAL PEOPLE ARE MAILING CHRISTMAS STUFF VERY SLOWLY

Postal Officials Request Patrons to Please Co-operate by Mailing Packages as Soon as Possible.

Although it is obvious that the people of Concord and Cabarrus are shopping early, local postal officials are distressed over the lethargic manner in which the populace is mailing Christmas packages. Postmaster J. F. Harris and Assistant Postmaster S. S. Neal beseech the patrons of the Concord postoffice to co-operate with them in order that all Christmas stuff may be dispatched in plenty of time to reach its destination by Christmas Eve.

Besides additional help the United States Postoffice department will add several thousand additional employees to expedite delivery of holiday mail, but even with the extra clerks to avert a jam in delivery it is essential that the public co-operate by mailing packages, cards, etc., as early as possible.

Besides additional help the United States Postoffice department will add hundreds of extra mail cars to trains throughout the nation. These extra cars will be put into use Saturday. Between Charlotte and Washington 24 extra cars will be in use on trains. To further alleviate the possibilities of a tie-up in mail service, Trains Nos. 136 and 45 will carry mail cars on December 18th and 25th. These trains do not carry mail cars on Sunday under ordinary conditions.

Assistant Postmaster Neal asks that patrons not only mail their Christmas packages at once but also to wrap securely as well as plainly address them, giving street number. It is also important that the return address be placed on each package. The slogan of the U. S. postoffice throughout the nation is "Help our boys enjoy their Christmas dinner at home."

Mr. Neal states that on Monday following Christmas that one full city and rural delivery will be made and windows will be opened at designated hours during the morning but afternoon the postoffice will be closed hard and tight.

THRILLING FIRE SCENE IN LATEST FILM

Wonderful Spectacle in "Moon of Israel."

There have been few more thrilling films than FBO's "Moon of Israel," which is soon to appear at the Concord Theatre. It is a production which deals with the Exodus of the Children of Israel from Egypt, and the romance of Merope, an Israelite maiden, and Seti, Prince of Egypt. From beginning to end the picture is crammed with marvelous scenes and startling effects, such as changing of Moses' rod into a snake, the dividing of the Red Sea to allow the Israelites to pass, and the roaring flames that spring up in the path of the charging Egyptian chariots. This scene in particular is one of the most majestic that has ever been screened. Two thousand chariots with wildly shouting drivers and rearing excited horses charged across the plain to where the cameras are grinding. Then from a trench in the ground springs a curtain of crimson flame. Instantly there is a chaotic upheaval of frightened horses and drivers, a scene that impresses the watcher as few have done.

Michael Curtiz, who directed the picture, has done one of the best pieces of work this year, and the cast as a whole is exceptionally fine. Maria Coslin, Arlette Marchal and Adelqui Miller are splendid in their roles and Henry Mar as Moses deserves great praise.

loving hands his bodily frame gradually weakened over an extended period of infirmity, which he bore with remarkable patience and fortitude.

The funeral service was conducted at St. Stephen's Lutheran church, on Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock by Pastor W. H. Dutton, being assisted by Rev. M. L. Kester, of Concord, and Rev. C. P. Fisher, of Rockwell. The interment followed in the church cemetery.

He was united in holy wedlock to Miss Camilla Nussman, January 5, 1871; to this union was born eight children, three of whom are deceased. He was bereft of his wife on the tenth of March, 1901. Later, on December 24, 1893, he was united in marriage to Miss Camilla Frieze, with whom he travelled life's pathway until the end of his earthly pilgrimage.

He is survived by his widow and the following children: Mrs. W. W. Cline, Mrs. W. J. Cline, Cabarrus county; R. W. Lentz, of Rockwell; Mrs. J. C. Isenhour, and Mrs. J. W. Hammill, of Cabarrus county. Also there are twenty-five surviving grandchildren, one is deceased; and five great grandchildren, one is deceased. There are two surviving brothers, V. C. Lentz, of Cabarrus county; and A. S. Lentz, of Allemarle; and one surviving half-brother, G. C. Lentz, of Cabarrus county.

Early in life he was made a member of St. Stephen's E. L. Church by holy baptism, and was confirmed by Pastor J. A. Leyin in the year 1860. He served the Lord faithfully in St. Stephen's church; he ably assisted in erecting the first church building; he was elected deacon in 1873 and again in 1878; as elder in 1883 and again in 1903; he served as secretary of the congregation from 1904 to 1917, which office he was compelled to give up by reason of failing strength. Then he was elected an honorary member of the church council. He was also treasurer of the Sunday School for a long while. The presence of a large assembly of people at the funeral service, the tributes of former pastors, as well as the beautiful floral offerings, attested the high esteem and love in which the deceased was held.
