properties in great cities.

Both are owners of considerable estates in London which, in places, have fallen into decay and become almost slums, owing to the neglect of sub-landlords. Both, now that the houses are reverting to them under the conditions of leases for a term of years, wish to erect modern buildings instead of the existing dilapidated structures. But both have been met with the difficulty of housing old tenants while re-building takes place.

The difficulty has been met by the erection on the Prince of Wales "Duke of Cornwall" estate in South London of the "Old Tenants' House." This has been built particularly for aged women and poor cripples. It suits their needs so well that many will be disinclined to quit.

Imagine a quiet quadrangle with little houses ranged in two stories, with balcony entrances giving complete privacy. In most of these the tenants are Darcy and Jean couples paying six shillings ($1.50) per week for two rooms, with lighting free. Other old women are paying one dollar a week for a living room with an alcove bedroom. The tenants have complete freedom of action and are treated as though they were owners of the highest-priced apartments in the city.

What Of It? "See the spider, my son spinning its web," said the instructive parent to his small son. "Is it not wonderful? Do you reflect that no man could spin that web no matter how hard he might try?" "Well what of it?" replied the son to date offspring. "Watch me spin this top. No spider can do that, no matter how hard he might try."

CABARRUS CAN GROW BLUE GRASS AS WELL AS STATE KENTUCKY

County Agent R. D. Goodman Writes About This Fact From Raleigh Where He Has Been For Week.

Kentucky may have more thoroughbred horses than Cabarrus but when it comes to blue grass this country will send out just as fine samples as that commonwealth which carries the nickname of "The Blue Grass State". In other words Cabarrus can have just as fine pastures as Kentucky, according to County Agent R. D. Goodman who writes from Raleigh where he is attending the meeting of county agents at State College.

Mr. Goodman went to Raleigh last Sunday and returns to Concord this evening. He reports in a communication that the meeting has been a great success in every respect.

Mr. Goodman writes, in part: "On visiting the farm of William L. Morris during last May, J. R. Sams, extension pasture specialist of North Carolina, collected some of the finest blue grass, he says, he has ever seen. Mr. Sams has been in Kentucky and a number of other states. Mr. Sams sent a sample of the grass to the Western North Carolina Fair at Asheville, and it was honored with the prize of being the best blue grass exhibited, giving Cabarrus credit with growing blue grass three feet and four inches high.

"This is an eye-opener, showing impressively that blue grass may be grown as successfully in the cotton section as in Kentucky. Perhaps, a bit of explanation of how easy Mr. Morris got this grass would be of order. He tells me that when he moved to his present farm about 20 years ago he fenced up an area which surface was broken at places with litches and on which broom-sage and briars flourished. The cattle soon grazed down within this area. No seeds of any sort were planted in this territory by Mr. Morris. However, there appeared blue grass and Japan clover and in places Bermuda grass.

"A pasture can be had more quickly by preparing the land and sowing seed. Any farmer can have a pasture if they try and this is one of the cheapest ways to care for livestock, the raising of which the Piedmont section is making rapid progress.

KIWANIANS VOTE TO AID YULETIDE FUND FOR NEEDY

Gifts and Christmas Cheer Will Be Distributed to 20 Opportunities by the Civic Organization.

Yes, children, there is a Santa Claus! Tiny faces, pinched and white from an uneven struggle against grim poverty and destitution, will brighten and smiles of joy will displace lines of despair Christmas morning as a result of the action of the Concord Kiwanis Club members, who, at their regular weekly meeting Friday, decided to play Santa to six of the Yuletide opportunities offered by the King's Daughters.

The sad hearts of a score of young unfortunates, some of them bed-ridden for life with incurable diseases, will be gladdened almost to the bursting point and glassy tears of thankfulness will flood their faces Sunday morning when they awake and find, instead of bleak emptiness, a room filled with shiny, nice things to eat, to wear and to play with.

Following the unanimous vote of the members to take Opportunities 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10 as selected by Welfare Officer Ray McEachern and presented by the King's Daughters, Drs. R. M. King and Greenlee Caldwell and Joe Pike and Ray McEachern, the committee on the Underprivileged Child, were instructed to see that the needs embodied in the opportunities were fully cared for. The report will be made at the last meeting before Christmas, next Friday.

The program for the meeting Friday was in charge of the publicity committee, composed of J. B. Sherrill, who presided, and J. P. Cook, who, appropriately enough, made an interesting, amusing and enlightening talk on "How to Treat Editors."

Interspersed with humorous incidents, this brief dissertation gave valuable inside information on the ways and means of establishing favorable relations with the men in charge of keeping the public posted in recent intelligence.

After Mr. Cook's talk, Secretary Brevard Harris announced that all members were present, giving the club its second 100 per cent. attendance for the month. Z. A. Morris, Jr., was introduced as the guest of L. T. Hartsell, club president.

The attendance prize for the week was drawn by Noel Reid.

POSTAL RECEIPTS OF YEAR PROBABLY SHOW INCREASE OVER 1926

Bright Prospects For Receipts of Local Postoffice to Better Record of Last Year.

With the bulk of the Christmas volume yet to reach the postal channels for delivery, every indication points to the receipts of the Concord postoffice for 1927 to surpass by a slight margin the 1926 receipts.

Through December 15th, the local postal receipts for 1927 total $33,194.21. The 1926 receipts aggregated $30,500.15, showing that to better last year's record the remaining weeks of the month must bring in more than $2,000.

Postal receipts for December at the local postoffice seldom goes below $4,000, showing that the possibilities for bettering the 1926 receipts are very bright. Postal receipts in one sense is a barometer of a city's business condition, obviously indicating that during the past twelve months this city and adjacent sections have enjoyed prosperity.

The 1927 postal receipts by months through December 15th follow:

Table with 2 columns: Month, Receipts. Rows: January (2,517.10), February (2,721.33), March (2,507.78), April (3,492.93), May (2,971.49), June (2,518.78), July (2,745.19), August (2,823.58), September (2,787.61), October (2,819.95), November (2,704.89), December (1,623.24). Total: $33,194.21.

COLORED MAN'S BRAVERY RIDES CITY OF MAD DOG

Courageous Attack Prevents Hydrophobic Animal From Chewing Young Rita Wallace to Bits.

West Corbin street residents may well be thankful that the dusky skin of Haywood Weeks encloses a superabundance of that quality called courage.

Quick action on the part of the colored man relieved that section of a mad dog and prevented its literally chewing up Rita Wallace, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Wallace, who is taking Pasteur treatment for the single bite on the hand, inflicted before Weeks saw what was going on.

Haywood was driving leisurely up West Corbin Thursday morning, whistling a melancholy tune of blues and thinking about the dinner he'd choose for Christmas if somebody gave him the opportunity. As he passed the Wallace home he smiled at the scene of evident happiness presented by the tiny girl and the dog. On closer scrutiny, however, he read a look of terror on Rita's face as the dog jumped at her in a frenzied attack.

One bound took Haywood from his wagon to the street. Another, and he had picked up a piece of iron pipe lying nearby. The dog, hearing the oncoming rush, turned to meet it, but all in vain. One well directed blow with the pipe sent the frothing monster to the ground, others broke his neck. The head was immediately removed and sent to Raleigh and reports from there confirm the belief that the animal was suffering from hydrophobia.

WILDCAT WRESTLERS OVERWHELM CONCORD Y TEAM FRIDAY NIGHT

More Experienced Collegians Defeated the Local Grapplers, 25 to 0.—Burrage Stars.

The Wildcat wrestlers of Davidson College put the shoulder of the Concord Y grapplers to the mat in a wrestling meet at the Davidson gymnasium Friday night, winning by the overwhelming score of 25 to 0. Burrage and Physical Director Charles C. Nixon shared the honors for the local team.

Flythe, of Davidson, defeated Stierwalt in the 118-pound match in the space of four minutes, while Casey Burrage, of Concord, battled Pritchett to a draw in a terrific match that required two extra periods. Frank Brown, Davidson man, defeated Blackwelder in the 129-pound class in a six-minute and 30 second go. Hanes's shoulders were put to the mat after a struggle of over eight minutes with Brohardt, of Davidson. Erwin lost to Hill in the 175-pound class, and Charles Nixon yielded to Captain Garrison, of Davidson, with less than five second to go. Nixon recently hurt his back and was not in the pink of condition for play last night.

Falling ill sometime ago with measles and subsequently pneumonia developing, Earl Franklin Gray, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gray died early Friday morning at the home of its parents near Franklin Mill village.

This is the second death recently whose cause has been pointed out to measles' brethren. Funeral services were held at 2:30 o'clock Friday from the home, interment was made at Union. Rev. Mr. Little conducted the services. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gray sorrowed by the untimely death of the little boy.
