The nearest election at hand is that of Indiana, which occurs in April. "The Hoosier State" elects no officers then, but votes on seven constitutional amend ments, one of which changes the time for the general State election from October to November. This amendment, which is the only one of any importance,

The Democratic party has all along favored such encouragement to Southern interests, and such relief of Southern products from taxation as will place the South on a commercial footing with the North. The Republican party has been for years fattening the North at the expense of the South. Why shouldn't the South he solid? Many are saying that the Readjusters are going over to the Redical party. We think that next fall old issues will reunite old friends. A little conciliation on both sides will ef-

TWENTY-SECOND OF FEBRUARY.

The 22d day of Februry will soon be upon us. One hundred and 48 years go-on the 22d day of February, 1732 -George Washington was born. He is properly styled The Father of His Country It is truly said of him that he was First in war, First in peace, and First in the hearts of his country men. Of uninspired men, history bas produced no more sublime character.

It was his voluntary retirement from office at the expiration of his second term as President of the United States which gave the finishing touch to his fame and made it immortal.

Ever since the death of Gen. Washington it has been customary to celebrate the anniversary of his birth. This is usually done by suppers, balls, firedisplays, and other festivities on the evening of that day. There is particular reason why the day should be uni versally observed this year. For the first time in the history of the country a man has made his appearance on the stage of public affairs so craving, so greedy, so insatiable in his ambition. that all the military honors enjoyed by Washington, with even higher military rank, and two full terms of the Presi dency-the same as held by Washington -do not appease his hunger for place, but seem only to have whetted his appetite for office and p wer. He is now candidate for a third term, being the first man ever in the White House who has presumed audaciously and contemptuously to turn his back upon the grand example set by the Father of His Coun

There is nothing more lofty in human conduct than the setting of the seal of condemnation, by George Washington, upon the doctrine of permanency in

Let all who properly appreciate this great act, all who would do honor to the name of Washington, all who would preserve our free institutions in their pristine purity and simplicity, protected by the early traditions which surround them, unite in celebrating by appropriate festivities the approaching Twenty-Second Day of February.

Above the names of all Kings, of all Emperors, stands the simple, plain, un titled name of George Washington Above their distinction rises his fame He is more illustrious than they. They have been for themselves; he was always for his country and mankind.

In view of what is expected to played by the man now re-entering upon the stage of American politics, it is the sacred duty of every lover of liberty to show the world by their acts that they treasure the example and teachings of Washington as a rich legacy to be handed down to posterity without a single letter erased. Let them show to the world their contempt for a man, so low in the scale of human degradation, that would think it an honor to sleep in the chains of a beastly druck; th nk it an honor to enslave the liberty loving American people; thik it an honor to steal our public treasuries, and then raise his armed forces in order to strip the last remaining vestige of liberty from the people-in order to tear in shreds the s'ar spangled banner that now floats in triumph over this sun li: clime, and place in its stead one bear ing as its motto: "Ulyses S. Grant, the great Baal of the nineteenth century, the great lion who will immediately devour all who do not pay him tribute." Let us swell high the praises of prepared for new wants. To compete Washington on the 22d, thus, showing with other nations who, like ourselves. Let us swell high the praises of that this is entirely too early in the morning for the darkness of tyranny to is upon the soil, our farmers must emstride over the day of our existance.

Gen. Bob Vance has introduced a bill into the House looking to the ad nission of salt duty free. We hope this meas ure will pass Gen Vance has nade a very useful member of Congress, and has been of great service to his constit uents. He cannot render them a better service than by presenting this new bill of his to a successful issue. The Southern members will doubtless all stand by him. Let us have free salt. We have free quinine; free salt should come next The Democrats know what the needs of the people are. Give them relief.

are talking of "getting up a mammoth excursion party of filteen thousand Southern merchants," who may visit the Paris of America at dead-head rates. None but Southern merchants are wanted, and the shrewd business men of Cincinnati ought to pick out only such as want to buy bills of goods

The Prospects. The Republican leaders stick at nothing to win the prize for which they fight.

If law and precedent are in their way they are trampled under foot. If the people cast a majority of votes against them at the polls the returns are cooked by fraudulent devices and the minority is converted into a majority. If constitutional provisions operate against them, these are ignored and utterly disregarded. Courts are prostituted into mere machines to register the edicts of corrupt politicians Nothing is too sacred to be overthrows if it militates against Republican plans and interferes with Republican purposes. These are statements substantiated by facts in the memory of our readers, and needing no illustrations to prove their correctness. For the past six years it has been evident that the people of the United States desire a change in the administration. The popular majority turned against the Repub lican leaders in 1874 and has ever since been on the increase rather than on the wane In 1876 Tilden was chosen Presi dent by 166 000 majority The Repub lious have since that time had agreat hopes of success at the potls. late October election New York was regarded as a pivotal State, and every ef fort was made to wrest it from the Democrats but the result clearly demonstrate that the Empire State remains true to her old allegiance. The only hope of the Republicans now lies in a flank movement. They propose, since they cannot carry New York, to split up the vote of that State by letting each district vote as a district This is their last chance, and it is a dangerous game The result will not be to assure them of success. Tilden's real vote in the electoral college was 293, Hayes' 166. Leaving out New York the vote would be 168 for Tilden If the Republicans carry out their plans for dividing the New York vote, the probabilities are that the Democrats would get eighteen votes there to the Republicans seventeen That is, we have sixteen Democratic districts in New York which we would corry, and we will carry the State at large, thus obtaining two more electors. This would give us 186 votes, against 183 for the Republicans. In this count we have considered South Carolina Florida and Virginia as Democratic States. It is possible that we may lose the first two of them, which would give the Republicans 194 votes against 175 for the Democrats; but if Seymonr or Bayard is nominated, we would stand a good chance to carry Massachusetts, Oregon, Colorado and California. If we should carry the last three, the result would stand, Democratic votes 187, Republican 182 The probabilities are however, that the South will be solid, as in 1876, and that we will carry, in addition to the Northern States voting for Tilden, Colorado, Oregon and California, making 180 Democratic votes. Add to these eighteen electoral votes from New York and we have 198, against 171 for the Republicans So we see nothing to annoy us in the projected division of the New York vote, which the Republicans are now bent on accomplishing. The Democratic nominee, whoever he may be, will be elected, and more than that, he will take his seat.—Raleigh Observer

AGRICULTURE IN THE PUTURE .agricultura' resources will be far greater than they have been in the past, and new methods and new systems must be devised and employed to meet them. The yield of the land now under cultivation must be increased, and new fields ploy greater skill and exercise greater care in their work. The requirements upon them will continue to increase.
Ther, too, the drudgery of the farm should be lessened, and the farmer relieved from many of his hardships, this toil lightened, and his comforts increased through the promulgation of new ideas and the employment of labor-saving machiners. All classes are interested in the accomplishment of these ends, for upon them depends the prosperity of all, and it is, therefore the duty and interest of all to promote the accomplishment of these ends, for upon them depends the prosperity of all, and it is, therefore the duty and interest of all to promote the accomplishment. est of all to promote the growth of agriculture and the comfort of its follow-

The Wytheville Enterprise says: A gentleman from Glade Spring informs ns of a crime committed at that place on Friday evening last, which is so atrocious that our mind faiters, and our pen trembles, as we pen it for publication The names of the parties were not ascertained, but Friday evening, about 3 o'clock, a negro brute, weighing 200 pounds or more, visited a house about a half mile from Glade Spring in which was a little colored girl, nine years of age, watching an infant, the old members of the family being absent. Availing himself of his opportunity and brute force, he raped the little girl, and then attempted to escape He was captured on or near the railroad by the Sergeant of Glade Spring and carried back to the point, hands and 'eet tied. When he reached the place, loud cries of 'swing him to a telegraph post" were heard, coming from his own color, but he was protected from richence at the time. The girl's injuries are very serious and physiciaus think she may be ruined for life.
