· A Growing Sentiment.

Uncle all the signs are at fault the repeal of the internal revenue system may be regarded as one of the certainties of the near future. It is advocated not odly by prominent Democrats but by some of the leading Republicans of the country, and by them with an earnestness and vigor which show that they mean what they say. When this movement was favored by Democrats only it did not make much headway, but now that it is divested of partisan surroundings, it encounters but little opposition and is moving right long. Thure will be, of course, when it is proposed in Congress, opposition to it by these who will look upon its repeal as a blow at the life of the Republican party, of which it has proved such a powerful support in the years gone by, but it is believed that a sufficient number of Republican Senators and Congressmen can be tound who will take a broader view than a mere party one and give it their support and votes.

Were it not for the fact that the abolition of the system would displace such a large number of active and useful partisan workers there would be but little or LO opposition to it. It is one of the doomed institutions, and if it be so that it fail, in the next Congress. from partisan, it will not be long delayed for the people are moving in that diree. tion, and moving in earnest, too-Char. The untutored mind has often a short way of taking hold of truths which men of culture might well cover. Here is an illustration touching the order of nature. A minister asked an old negro his rea-Sons for believing in the existence of God. "Sir," said he, "I have been going hard upon fifty years. Every day since I have been in this world I see the sun rise in the east and set in the The north star stands where it west. did the first time I saw it; the seven stars and Jacob's coffin keep on the same path in the sky and never turn out. It isn't so with man's work. He nakes clocks and watches; they may run well for a while but they get ont of fix and stand stock still. But the sun aud moon and stars keep on the same way all the while." The heavens declare the glory of God.—Sabb th Reading. Reading.

ADVANTAGES IN THE SOUTH -An intelligent northern writer, showing the disadvantages of northern cotton mills compared with those of the South, says Bagging and ties, paid for, per $1; storage and insurance, 750; dravage, 20c; sampling, 20c; compressing 75c; commissions and storage, $2; freight and insurance, $5 waste by dirt stealings, careless handling etc, $3 being a loss to the New England mill over what the southern mill has to pay of over ten dollars a bale. The water pow er of the South is not so costly as at the North ; the cost of living is not so great; the wages of operatives are less ; taxa-tion was not so oppressive; the wea her is not so inclement, and our winters are neither so long nor so severe "

A Virginian farmer says : "About tweaty-five years ago I commenced to pick out a small quantity of the best ears of corn when hushing. The corn thus selected was planted by itself, and had Ever since I have been saving more each year, picking out when the corn was husked, and spreading it in a loft un-til spring. When I first commenced saviong seed, it took 600 ears to make a barrel. Wdile in the last few years it has taken but 285 ears to make a barrel The corn is white, flinty, and weighs ovor filty-six pounds to the bush-

Young Men.

100 · All and and in the second

Why is it that so many young men would rather deal out sugar, draw up syrup or measure cloth than become mechanics? Do they consider it more honorable to measure calico, sell tape and pins, than to become industrious work-men, producers of the nation's wealth? Do they think that because their hands are soft and their hair parted in the mid dle, that they are any more respectable than he who labors and assists in mak-ing the earth habitable? To the intelliing the earth habitable. To the hereits gent, dilligent young man who devotes himself to the mechanical arts, especially in the South, there is a boundless field that will bring a rich reward Fame and fortune beckon him onward in his career His bands may be hard and soiled, it matters not. A stain on the hands can be removed far easier than the stain which shows on so many of those who despise manual labor. A stain on the hand or coat is far better than a stain upon the reputation.

GRASS.—The leading crop of the American farmer is grass. Either in the form of pasture or meadow, the va-rious grasses, including elever (which is not a grass according to the botany). furnish an amount of food that could We are sometimes inclined to overlook the importance of the grasses, because they are, as such, so little represented in the markets. There is much truth in the Biblical expression, "All flesh is grass," and likewise not only the various meats used for home consumption and to go abroad to feed the hungry of other nations, but also all other products of farm animals are largely due to the growth of grass. Wool can be consider-ed as a product of the pasture and the meadow, and as for milk and butter, they are still more directly the condens ed forms of grasses. The farmer who would be successful must keep a sharp eye upon his land that is down to grass If it yields him a good grop of har If it yields him a good crop of hay, or furnishes him a rich pasture for his ani mals, he may be quite sure he is on the road to success. On the other hand, if the meadow is light, and the pasture furnishes only a scanty picking, there is little hope that the year will be a profitable one.

It is said that the girls in Switzerland, Germany and Norway devote themselves to the cultivation of their hair as reso lutely as a farmer does his crops. Once a year the merchant, very often an old woman, arrives in the village and a brisk trade is carried on. The Swiss girls make the most, as nature hastbes towed on them an abundant crop of the blonde color, which is hardest of all to blonde color, which is hardest of all to obtain, and the climate is evidently pro-pitious to its growth. The price obtain-ed depends upon the length of the re-dundant tresses. Hair eight inches long is worth twenty-five cents an ounce, while that thirty-six inches in length will bring the furturate processor (199 will bring the fortunate possessors beauty and thickness even $35 an ounce may be realized.

However highly be esteemed the character of Judge Pearson for legal acumen and ability, yet the people of North Carolina are not yet prepared and prob-bly nevor will be to forget all the errors committed by him in in a most moment-ous era of the State's history, when he forsook the cause of the people and, at beck of a military despotism, prostitued the powers of his high office for the promotion of partizan ends. When Judge Dick predicated the defence of his friends. Judge Pearson, upon a quasi aspersion of the motive of those who differed with him at that period, of men who stood up manfully at that time for the rights of the people he laid himself liable to severe criticism, and he need not be surprised that it has come. — Oxford Fres Lance.

Heavy damage to the wheat crop of Minnesota, Dakota, North western Wiaconsin and Norihern Iowa is reported, by the heavy rains that have prevailed in those sections almost continuously since the grain was harvested. It is estimated that the loss in Minnesota alone will amount to several million of dollars, and a corresponding injury and loss will be suffered in other localities. In Northwestern Missouri the corn crop has suffered greatly from the same cause.

The Scientific American gives the following recipe for getting rid of stumps; "In the antumn or carly winter bore a hole one or two inches in diameter according to the strth of the stump and about eighteen inches deep. Put into it one or two ounces of salpetre, fill the hole with water, and plug it close. In the ensuming spring take out the plug undignite it. The stump will moulder away, without blazing, to the very ex-tremity of the roots leaving nothing but the asker." Try is and give us the result next spring.

Work has been urdered stopped upon the extension of the Western North Carolina depot at this place. It is sup-posed that this change of purpore on the part of the authorities of the road is in some way connected with the recent purchase by the Richmond and Danville people of the Charlotte and Statesville Railroad.-Statesville Landmark.

A drunken man was killed by the ears in Illinois. His widow has sued fifteen saloon keepers for damages to the amount of $10;000. Now we will show how far saloon keepers are responsible to the law for murder by the sale of liquor. We shall watch the case.

Eastern Carolina is fortunate in nav-ing bountiful crops this year. The coun-ty of Currituck will raise enough corn to supply the State. Her immense corn fields look like praires in their vastness and gladden the eyes of those accustom-ed to look upon the drought scourged fields of middle Carolina. Cotton is. also about the average.
