WANT OF CAPITAL.

We have said before that while North Carolina needs capital, her greatest want is enterprise, and we see it no place more manifest, than in our sister cities Greensboro, and Winston. (no doubt but they will think us quite presumptuous to say so,) both are prosperous, growing, young cities now. up to the times in most things, but as it seems to us, do not look far enough ahead, but seem content, to vie with each other. What does Winston, Greensboro, Durham, Charlotte, and such growing places expect to do in a few years, with their rapidly increasing population? railroads are springing up on every road to carry off their trade, their tobacco factories are good so far as they go, but do not give employment to their many hands long enough in the year, other smaller markets will take off a part of these in summer. What we want (in our opinion) is for these places to look a little further ahead, start other industries, that will give employment to our tens of thousands of idlers twelve months in the year.

We have the raw material here in North Carolina for manufactures that will give employment not only to our own tens of thousands, but thousands from other States. Come, you man with big, hard dollars, looked up in your eyes, cut loose, throw open the doors, and see if you cannot do something with your money, that will pay you, and at the same time, benefit your city, or State. We want to live to see one real, live, wide awake, manufacturing city in North Carolina, where the small boy, or girl, and the gray-headed man, or woman, may have employment every month in the year, not leaving out the able bodied of either sex, or color. Salem-Winston, Greensboro, Durham, Charlotte, not forgetting Raleigh, either have the location, being something of central points between cotton and tobacco, both powerful staples, while each has the coal on one side, with the very finest iron ores on the other, if we only had enterprise enough to get them to a central point, Stokes is a small county, but she can furnish the magnetic ore, 50 to 65 per cent metallic iron, hematite, and manganese, to manufacture all the steel rails the whole State will need for many years to come. Stokes has the raw material, but has nothing else, has not enterprise to follow one of her veins of coal twenty feet from the surface, or uncover her 3, 5, 8, or 10 feet veins of iron, that capitalists may see them, though it is known exactly where they are, just where their daddies of our tobacco markets left them, when the low prices at which rolled iron commenced selling, stopped the forges, and are only covered by the loose dirt which the rains and frozes have thrown in.

We have been growling, grumbling, fretting, fuming, saying that nature had done as much for Stokes county, as she had for any county under the sun with the single exception of giving us a man, we now say or are afraid we will have to say, the last of the whole State. Yes our Mitchells, Moreheads, Grahams of old are gone, gone over the river, and will not return until the tide comes in, when we will not need great furnaces, rolling mills, and cotton factories.

Many of our places have their local man but we want a State man, who will center his energies to one point, while he reaches out and grasps the four corners of our great State and draws them to a common center, making every body feel, that he or she is interested. We want one great manufacturing city. We want capital, but are worse in need of enterprise, "Push" physical energy.

STATE GLEANINGS.

Kernersville News: The increase in weight of this year's tobacco will tend largely to make up any lack of acreage.

The Murphy Bulletin says a Murphy man has the following posted in his field: "If any man's or woman's cows or oxen gets in these oats, his or her tail will be cut off, as the case may be. I am a Christian man and pays my taxes; but durn a man who lets his critters run loose."

Capt. Frank Brown, of Salisbury and his force of hands are working like beavers upon the navigation scheme of the Yadkin River, just below Peble's Ferry. The captain has an indomitable will, and the dwellers along the Yadkin trust there will be a speedy way for steamboats along their noble stream.

Davie Times: Durham will soon be the railroad center of the State. Last Saturday, the citizens of that town, voted a subscription of $100,000 to the Durham & Northern road; the vote being seven hundred and thirty-six for, to one against the proposition.

Twin City Daily: Last week the cash in the National Treasury was nearly $600,000,000. Now there has been a big payment of interest in advance, and a big purchase of bonds, but still the vaults fill up. Congress is to meet in a few weeks, and unless the majority take decisive steps it will be bad for the democracy in 1888. Promises have accumulated like the surplus revenue, and they must be fulfilled or there will be a protest.

Newton Enterprise: Our jailor has a little daughter who is learning one of the prisoners to read, and he is making remarkable progress. He was talking to an acquaintance a few days ago. Among other things he said, "If any of my friends inquire about me, tell them I am in Newton going to school and boarding at the hotel."

Twin City Daily: A gentleman who lives in north Liberty returned to his home last night after attending the marriage at Mr. Mickey's. Upon dismounting from his horse, he was met by a man armed with a large club. Fortunately his staff was near him, which he urged upon the fellow. The dog caught the man in the breast, and the gentleman ran in the house to get a pistol. While he was gone the fellow left.

OPINIONS OF THE STATE PRESS.

The man or woman who always reveals a cheerful spirit will succeed in life. The pleasant face will carry its possessor safely on in spite of every opposing power. Smiles will banish the darkness that gathers about every life path, and the sunlight will fall upon life's pathway wherever a cheerful spirit exists. The sunbeams will melt the iceberg and dispel the darkest night that ever brooded over the world, and so a sunny spirit will scatter the coldness and darkness of humanity, and bring brightness and blessings to those within its influence.—Goldboro Headlight.

Providence has certainly smiled on the people of our lands this year and especially old North Carolina. The oldest citizens cannot recall a single year of their lives when a more abundant crop of every kind of vegetation has been gathered from the ground. Each and every season has not only been perfect for the growth of grain and all other products of the farm but has been equally so for the harvesting and curing of the same. And now in return for these blessings why should it not be our duty as a favored people to set apart a day of thanks giving in the near future to Almighty God for the rich blessings He has bestowed upon us. We urge this matter and think it should be considered a very important one. It seems that we have almost forgotten the duty we owe to the Allwise Giver of good things. The people ought to wake up to a sense of their duty and turn a new leaf in the future.—Greensboro Patriot.

SAM JONES'S PARTY.

Sometimes a man gets where he is afraid he will hurt his party. I used to be a Democrat. I was born one, and raised one, and I stayed one as long as a Christian gentleman could. And then I pulled out, of course. And you Republicans need not be laughing God bless you, I thank God I never was a Republican. I belong to another party. The difference between me and the Democratic party, between me and the Republican party, if you will call it so, is that I am a mugwump and you are a jugwump.

Too much rain for cotton is reported in North Carolina; weather too cool in South Carolina; damage by worms in Arkansas and Mississippi.

WHEN A NOTE UNDER SEAL IS BARRED.

The question, "When a sealed note is barred by the statute of limitations," puzzled several of our best business men recently. One of them looked the matter up and handed a solution to the reporter, with the request to publish. It is copied from "The Law in North Carolina of Notes and Drafts, and is as follows:

"The statute of limitations bars an action on a bond or note under seal for the payment of money after ten years as to the principal and three years as to the surety. If, however, payments are endorsed thereon the time must be counted from the last payment.

"The statute of limitations bars an action on a promissory note not under seal after three years as to principal and surety alike, with the same proviso as to endorsed payments, as above."—Ex.

COFFEE AT 7 CTS. PER POUND.

LEMON SPRINGS, July 4, 1887.—I wish to call the attention of farmers in this section particularly to the fact—that they can supply their families with good, wholesome coffee for seven cents per pound, by using 1 good coffee and 1 rye, prepared as follows: Pour boiling water on a quantity of rye, wash and skim off all imperfect grains, dry thoroughly in the sun. Have a careful person to "parch" it over a moderate fire quite brown, but do not burn it, then mix and grind with one-fourth good coffee, and many of the old lovers of this beverage would never know the difference, and think they were drinking the best Rio.—Carthage Blade.

INGERSOL ON RICH AND POOR.

The rich have scorn and contempt for the poor; the poor have envy and hatred for the rich. There must be some way for the loving poor and the sympathetic rich to get acquainted. If there is anything that should bring mankind together it is a common belief, but in this Christian country there is no welcome in the velvet for rags. I would think much of any religion that would allow the rich and the poor to clasp hands, if only for one instant once a week.

EAST TENNESSEE.

Reports from East Tennessee say that the tobacco planting is about two-thirds short, but that it will be a heavy crop, and will come near weighing out with last year's crop.

John Grelish, of Toronto, who was sentenced to twenty-five lashes on the bare back and received them, says he would rather take three years' imprisonment than another such beating. He thought he could repress even a sigh, but at the third stroke heled for mercy.

The Social Congress is in session at Liege a large number of delegates, including the Archbishop of Rheims, are in attendance.

The Reporter-Post should be a regular weekly visitor to every family in this county both for the good of the families and for our own sake, and for this one, among a number of reasons; we are endeavoring to do a good service by acquainting the people with the county's history and resources, thereby instructing our people in what they ought to know, and at the same time drawing the attention of individuals from abroad who may be induced to make investments here and introduce industries among us. And while we are working for the interest of the county, at large, we feel we ought to have its substantial support in the way of a liberal subscription list, for as Bradford who published the first Bible in America under the colonial government, at Philadelphia, aid in his subscription prospectus 'printing is costly,' and when we say 'printing is costly,' we are not taking into account any remuneration for the preparation of the matter for the paper, and for conducting the business.

We furnish a paper which to say the least will not suffer in comparison with any county paper in the State; indeed there are original articles, covering a vast and varied range of subjects, regularly contributed to this paper which we consider would do credit to the more pretensions city dailies of the State. Much attention is given in its columns to matters of more than passing interest to the farmer, and the farming interest of this county affects every one of its inhabitants it is as yet paramount to every other interest in this county. The very latest general and state news is given on the columns set apart for that department; and its miscellaneous selections are carefully sifted from its sixty exchanges.

Sample copies sent on application. Send on your money as once and then talk to all your neighbors afterwards and try to get them to subscribe.

FAITH CURE FAIRLY BEATEN.

Chaplain Hall writes the following remarkable letter:

For many years my wife had been the victim of nervous dyspepsia, of the chronic, distressing and apparently incurable type from which so many of her sex suffer, languish and die. It was all the worse because the tendency to it was inherited. She had been under the systematic treatment of many of the best physicians in New York and Brooklyn and elsewhere for twenty years with only temporary relief. In fact, there were few, if any, kinds of food that did not distress her, so diseased, sensitive and torpid were all the organs of digestion. The usual symptoms of dyspepsia, with its concomitant ailments, were all present—bad taste in the mouth, dull eyes, cold feet and hands, the sense of a load upon the stomach, tenderness on pressure, indigestion, giddiness, great weakness and prostration, and fugitive pains in the sides, chest and back. I have often risen in the night and administered stimulants merely for the sake of the slight and transient relief they gave.

Intermittent malarial fever set in, complicating the case and making every symptom more pronounced and intense. By this time the pneumo-gastric nerves had become very seriously involved, and she had chronic Gastritis, and also what I may be allowed to call chronic intermittent malarial fever all at once. For the latter the physicians prescribed the good, old-fashioned, sheet-anchor remedy, Quinine gradually increasing the doses, until—increased as it may seem—she actually took THIRTY GRAINS A DAY FOR DAYS IN SUCCESSION. This could not last. The effect of the quinine was, if possible, almost as bad as the two-fold disease which was wearing away her strength and her life. Quinine poisoning was painfully evident, but the fever was there still. Almost every day there came on the characteristic chill and racking headache, followed by the usual weakness and collapse.

About this time I met socially my friend Mr. Norton, a member of the firm of Chauncey Tins & Company, brokers, of Albany, who, on hearing from me these facts, said: "Why, I have been through almost the same thing, and have got over it." "What cured you?" I asked eagerly. "Kaskine," he said, "try it for your wife." I had seen Kaskine advertised, but had no more faith in it than I had in sawdust, for such a case as hers. Mrs. Hall had no higher opinion, yet on the strength of my friend's recommendation I got a bottle and began its use as directed.

Now recall what I have already said as to her then condition, and then read what follows: Under the Kaskine treatment all the dyspeptic symptoms showed instant improvement, and the daily fever grew less and soon ceased altogether. Side by side these diseases vanished, as side by side they had tortured their victim for ten years—the dyspepsia alone having, as I have said, existed for twenty years. Her appetite improved from week to week until she could eat and digest the average food that any well person takes, without any suffering or inconvenience. With renewed assimilation of food came, of course, a steady increase in flesh, until she now looks like her original self.

She still takes Kaskine occasionally, but with no real need of it, for she is well. I consider this result a scientific miracle, and the "New Quinine" is entitled to the credit of it, for from the time she began with Kaskine she used no other medicine whatever.

If you think a recital of these facts calculated to do good you are welcome to make them public.

(Rev.) JAS. L. HALL, Chaplain Albany, N. Y., Penitentiary. P. S.—Sometimes letters of this kind are published without authority, and in case any one is inclined to question the genuineness of the above statement I will cheerfully reply to any communications addressed to me at the Penitentiary.
