"LOVE IS A PLANT"

Love is a plant: The sap is fire; When the sap is dry, So dies desire.

THE ECONOMY OF THE MODERN BARN.

If we were to enter into a copartnership with the tobacco planter and agree to cultivate the tobacco and divide the proceeds equally, we think we would be justified in agreeing to take for our share of the crop what is now practically wasted by the present mode of culture.

The rule among planters is to plant 15,000 plants to the acre, they top at 14 leaves and prune off the four bottom leaves and leaving ten to mature in each plant.

Next comes the two leaves that are always allowed to waste on the plant, the logs that the enter finds dead and dry on the bottom of each stalk when he is cutting his crop for the curing barn.

Next comes the two trash logs that barely pay for handling. If these are taken off the stalk and cured at the right time there is no two leaves on the plant superior to them.

Next comes the two trash logs that barely pay for handling. If these are taken off the stalk and cured at the right time there is no two leaves on the plant superior to them.

Our partner may cure his part as he chooses on or off the stalk, he may wrestle with Jack frost and with the autumn storms, the worms and the frog eye, and have the full benefit of the heavy dews to thicken his leaf.

first of November if we choose. Now this may be considered rather strong talk, perhaps it is. One half is a big part of the crop.

Now this may be considered rather strong talk, perhaps it is. One half is a big part of the crop. Think of it, farmers, if any of you are not satisfied with the picture let us know wherein you dissent.

One more item saved, the labor in curing is reduced to 4 pays time and one hand will cure 4 times the tobacco that he can cure on the stalk; now, are these all the advantages?

We will guarantee a decided improvement on every leaf bulked down in the proper condition, a running rod in damp weather, no fear of May sweat, the aroma shall be perfect and you shall class and hand up when you choose, without regard to the weather.

One Point more. Mr. Editor, and we are done. Tobacco cured with the stalk in the field is far superior in flavor both for smoking and chewing than any tobacco can be when cured with the stalk in the curing barn.

A strictly first class Modern barn will cost $225, it will cure 25 acres in one season, but this is too costly says a planter, if so then we reply you can't afford to grow tobacco without one.

Next comes the two trash logs that barely pay for handling. If these are taken off the stalk and cured at the right time there is no two leaves on the plant superior to them.

High Point, N. C., Jan. 4th, 1888. W. H. SNOW. SAVE YOUR CORN. From the statistics issued by the Department of Agriculture at Washington, the present corn crop of the United States amounts to 1,433,000,000 bush.

els, which is shorter by two millions of bushels than last year's crop, and shorter than any crop since 1881. The crop in this State is unusually large. It behooves the farmers of North Carolina to guard well their corn supply.

VERY IMPORTANT TO MAGISTRATES.

The justices of the peace would do well to take notice of the following statement: It shall be the duty of each justice of the peace to order the delivery of every crop of the Superior Court of his county to the clerk of said court with a list of the names and addresses of all parties to and fully disposed of by each justice of the peace, together with the papers in each case, in all criminal actions since the last term of the Superior Court, etc. - 1 vol. Code, sec. 955.

FARMERS SHOULD EXCHANGE WORK AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE.

In a great steel mill, whose operations we once inspected, there were employed about two thousand men, divided into three turns or shifts. Between these men there was a generous rivalry which made each turn anxious to get out more work than either of the others.

So, the sort of competition that is often set on foot, when a number of men who do not habitually work together do chance to work together a time, is very apt to stimulate all to greater exertions and they turn out more work than they otherwise would.

And it is not the accomplishment only that is to be considered. This thing of working together and associating intimately adds a great deal to the enjoyment of life on the farm, which is human, drum enough at best. Our relations to our fellow men constitutes the ground of most of the enjoyment of life in this world.

PIKINGS.

From the Wilmington Star. Texas is piteous. It has $1,727,000 surplus in the Treasury.

A SAD AFFLICTION.

Gleefully—"Sad affair over at Jenes." Gus De Smith—"What's the matter?" "One of the twins has died." "That is an affliction." "Yes, and the worst of it is the people don't know which one of them is dead, they look so much alike."—Texas Siftings.

DEBUT OF A MIDGET.

The youngest human being in public life, without doubt, is Millard Filmore Brown, a wee little bit of humanity, about six weeks old, which was exhibited this afternoon at Horticultural Hall.

There is talk of a new negro exodus. A negro exodus is one of the many plans by which a few negroes make money and a great many meet death.—Atlanta Constitution, Dem.

The colored debating clubs at Central, Ill., recently discussed the proposition: "If my hen flies over into your yard and lays an egg and your hen hatches a chicken from it, which hen is the mother of the chicken?"

Good evening, Mrs. Ownhair, how did you like the entertainment last evening? "I was delighted." "And how did you like the olio?" "I beg your pardon, Mrs. Smith, but we use only the best creamery butter."—Boston Transcript.

Interesting arguments were made yesterday before the Senate Agricultural Committee on the bill to tax adulterated lard.

Bismark's speech on the war situation continues to excite comment in Europe; official and diplomatic circles concede that while the Czar may desire peace influences are at work which he cannot resist, and which compel him to work in the direction of war.

PUNGENT SNUFF.

Clark (who belongs to a Shakespearean Lyceum, and whose dramatic bent has rather the better of him, reaches the office at 10 a. m.) greeting his employer—"Good morning, sir." Employer (something of a business man)—"It is nearly, indeed. Hereafter, sir I would like to have you get around in time to bid me good morning."—Judge.
