O sweet, shy girl, with roses in her heart, And love-light in her face, like those that grow, Full of still dreams and thoughts that dream-like start
From its of solitude when not alone!
Gay dancer over thresholds of bright days, Tears quick to her eyes as laughter lips; A game of hide and seek with Time she plays.
Time lifting his eyes from hers in bright ecstasies, O gentle soul! how dear and good she is,
Blessed by soft dew of happiness and love; Cradled in tenderest arms! Her mother's kiss Seals all her good night prayers. Her Father's smile
Brightens her morning. Through the earth small move Her child-sweet soul, not far from heaven the while!

TENDERNESS OF MR. CORLISS.

Mr. Corliss, the famous engine builder, of Providence, not very long before his death, had occasion to build an addition to his big manufactory, a big "L," for additional machinery. To prepare the foundation for this L it was necessary to remove a ledge of rock by blasting. The men to do the work of the blast were employed and put on the pay roll; the material had been purchased and brought to the building, and the work of blasting had begun. The next morning Mr. Corliss passed by the place where the work was proceeding, when the foreman in charge, knowing his interest in pretty things, called him.
"See here, Mr. Corliss," said he,
"here's a bird's nest that we've found, and that's good to go."
He showed the manufacturer a robin sitting upon a nest that had been built, fast and snug, in a crevice of the rock, among some bushes that grew there.
The bird flew off her nest as the man came near, and showed five blue eggs that looked as if they had just been laid.
"Can we move that nest somewhere else?" asked Mr. Corliss.
"I'm afraid not, sir. We'd tear it to pieces getting it out, and it isn't at all likely that you could get the bird to go to sitting again anywhere else. We've got to go on, so we may as well rip it out and throw the eggs away."
"No," said Corliss, "we won't disturb her. Let her bring her brood right there."
"But we'll have to stop the work on the building."
"Let it stop, then."
And so orders were given that operations on the addition should be suspended. They were suspended; and the hands stood still, drawing their pay for doing nothing, or next to nothing, while the robin sat on her nest with an air of great consequence and zealous attention to business, and had her food brought by her mate, and at last hatched her brood. And then there were three weeks more to go by, at the least, before the young ones could fly. Corliss visited the nest frequently, not with any uneasiness or impatience to have the robin and young ones out of the way, but with a genuine interest in their growth. The old bird had all the time they wanted; and when at last they had sternly helped the clumsy, reluctant youngsters over the edge of the nest, and they showed themselves able to get about on their own hook, orders were given to resume the building operations; and the dull boom of the gunpowder tearing the rocks apart was heard where the birds had peeped.—Boston Transcript.

PHILADELPHIA MOURNING

PERIODS.

The usual mourning periods for near relatives observed in Philadelphia (and they are very rigidly observed here) are:
For a mother, father, grandparents, wife or husband, twelve months, six months black with crepe, four months black without crepe and two months half mourning; for a sister, brother, aunt or uncle, six months, black with crepe three months, black without crepe two months, and half mourning one month.—Philadelphia Times.

NORTH CAROLINA DEMOCRA-CY.

PLATFORM OF PARTY ADOPTED IN STATE CONVENTION AT RAL-PH, MAY, 1888.

We again congratulate the people of North Carolina on the continued enjoyment of peace, good government and general prosperity under Democratic administration of the State which has been broken for so many years upon the just and impartial enforcement of the law, upon the increasing efficiency of our common schools, and the progress made in popular education; upon the improvement and enterprise manifested in all parts of the State. We again challenge a comparison between the state of things and the outrages, crimes and scandals which attended Republican rule in our borders. We pledge ourselves to exert in the future as in the past our best efforts to promote the best interests of the people of all sections of the State. Affirming our adherence to Democratic principles as heretofore enunciated in the platforms of the party, it is hereby Resolved, That no government has the right to burden its people with taxes beyond the amount required to pay its necessary expenses and gradually extinguish its public debt; and that whenever the revenues, however derived, exceed this amount, they should be reduced so as to avoid a surplus in the treasury. That any system of taxation which necessitates the payment of a premium of $270 by the government on each $1,- 000 of its bonds, taken up with the millions that would otherwise lie idle in its treasury, and paid to bondholders who purchased in many instances, at less than par, is undemocratic, oppressive and inequitable and should be refunded.

The course of our Democratic Representatives in Congress, in their efforts to give relief to the people from burdensome internal revenue and tariff taxation, meets with the approval of the Democratic party of the State, and we respectfully recommend that it be find it impossible to give to the people all the relief they demanded, they support any just and practical measure presented in Congress that will afford a practical relief from such existing burdens.

Resolved, That the details of the methods by which the equalization revenue tariff shall be graded, by reduced rates on subjects which the representatives of our people at the national capital must be trusted to adjust, we think the custom duties should be levied for the production, and not for the sale, of the commodities, and their adjustment should be such as will place the highest rates on luxuries and the lowest on the necessaries of life, distribute as equally as possible the unavoidable burdens of taxation, and confer the greatest good on the greatest number.

Resolved, That we as heretofore, favor, and will never cease to demand, the unconditional abolition of the whole internal revenue system, as a war tax, not to be justified in times of peace; as a grievous burden to our people and a source of annoyance in its practical operations. We call the attention of the people of the State to the hypocrisies pretensions of the Republican party in their platforms that they are in favor of the repeal of this onerous system of taxation, enacted by their party, while the Republicans in Congress are taxing their energies to obstruct all legislation inaugurated by the representatives of the Democratic party to relieve the people of all or a part of this odious system.

Resolved, That the course of the Democratic party, in furtherance of popular education, is a sufficient guarantee that we favor the education of the people, and we will promote and improve the present educational advantages so far as it can be done without burdening the people by the taxation of their property.

Resolved, That to meet an existing evil, we will accept, for educational purposes, from the Federal Government or pro rata share of the surplus in its treasury; provided, that it be disbursed through State agents and the bill for the distribution be free from objectionable features.

Resolved, That the United States being one government and ours a national party, we denounce the efforts of the Republicans to force sectional issues in Congress and elsewhere, and to promote dissension and ill will between the people of the different sections of our country.

Resolved, That it is due to the people of our eastern counties, who have so cheerfully borne their share of our common burdens, that the present or some equally effective system of county government shall be maintained.

Resolved, That the Democratic party is opposed, that any further extension of the "No fence" law, unless such extension shall have first been authorized by majority of the qualified voters within the territory to be affected thereby.

has overborne the party of the workman, and has never fostered monopolies, nor "trusts" or "combinations" or "pools" ever grown up under laws enacted by it. The contest in this country being between aggregated capital, seeking to crush out all competition, and the individual laborer, the Democratic party is, as it has ever been, against the monopoly and in favor of a just distribution of capital, and demands the enactment of laws that will bear equally upon all.

Resolved, That all taxation bears most heavily upon the laborer, it is the duty of the legislator, as a direct benefit to the workingman, to keep the expenses of our public institutions at the lowest limit consistent with wise and efficient management. The Democratic party opposes any competition between free and convict labor, but it insists that convicts shall not remain idle at the expense of honest labor.

Resolved, That ours being an agricultural State, it is our duty as well as our pleasure to promote any and all legislation that is best calculated to advance the interests of agriculture, and that in so doing we will most effectually advance the interests of mechanics, manufacturers and laborers.

Resolved, That the Democracy of North Carolina, cordially approve the administration of Hon. Alfred M. Scales as honest, patriotic and conservative.

Resolved, That the ability, wisdom, honesty, patriotism, independence, faithfulness to duty and manly courage of President Cleveland have won the admiration of all good men; and the interest of the country demand his re-nomination and re-election.

A HUNTER AND HIS DOG.

An old hunter in Mexico gave to the author of "Summerland Sketches" his experience with a favorite hound, which exhibited feelings that would honor humanity.

"You have no idea," said he, "how they get used to you if you are alone with them for weeks together; the worst of it is that it comes so awful hard on a fellow to lose a creature of that kind."
"I bought a fine Scotch deerhound in Baltimore in '66. I had him nearly 8 years, and I tell you, sir, I felt lost when I shot myself when I lost him. The Mexicans poisoned him because he wouldn't let them come near my smoke house at night."
"No square, straightforward poison, either, for it took him a whole week to die. It just went through me like a knife to hear him wail, and perhaps I ought to have put him out of his misery, but I was thinking of all the scrapes we had had together, and of how he had helped me in all my adventures in Mexico and Arkansas, and I couldn't kill him while there was a chance of his pulling through."
The voice of the old rough became inarticulate at the recollection. He had spread the dog's couch at the side of his own bed, and patted his shaggy coat till he lay silent and motionless.
But late in the evening, when the logs in the fireplace had flickered almost their last, the hound raised his head and placed it upon his master's arm, looked into his eyes and sank back dead, like the last pressure of a human hand, a farewell mutely spoken, but not easy to forget.—Ex.

TOO LIBERAL.

Tourist—What are your terms Mr.
Browne?
Landlord Browne—Twenty dollars a week, sir.
Tourist—And what am I expected to do?
Tourist—Why, you surely don't intend paying me twenty dollars a week just for staying here, do you? It's too high. Fifteen dollars would be enough.
—Harpers Bazar.

ABSENTMINDEDNESS.

"I'll never give up my seat in a street car to a woman again as long as I live!" he said emphatically.
"Didn't she thank you for it?" asked his wife.
"She not only didn't thank for it, but two minutes afterward she shoved a nickel at me and said: 'Conductor stop the car at Forty second street.'—N.
Y. Sun.

A SUCCESSFUL WAY TO PUT
IT.

"No, Mr. Smith, she said, gently but firmly. "I can never be your wife." Then he struggled to his feet, and said in broken tones: "Are all of my hopes to be dashed to pieces? Am I never to be known as the husband of the beautiful Mrs. Smith?"
"This was too much for the girl; and she succumbed.—Harpers Weekly Bazar.

A GOOD REMEDY.

Citizen (carelessly): Oh, by the way, doctor, what do you give in the case of a cold on the lungs?
Doctor: Advice.—Life.

PUNGENT SNUFF.

A SIGHT TO SEE.

A curious sight was to be seen during the rain a wet umbrella leaning against the wall outside a railroad office on Washington street. A country visitor did not wish to carry the dripping hood protector within the premises of the office and there it remained for fully a half hour without molestation. Hundreds were the questioning glances cast at the tempting article, and occasionally some pedestrian unprovided with such protection would advance a step or two toward it, but would then draw back and go his way, evidently thinking it was a trap. Had the countryman left it inside the door in any less prominent place it would undoubtedly have disappeared almost immediately upon leaving his hand, but there it was secure, and has probably settled the vexed question as to the safest place to leave an umbrella.—Boston Budget.

QUITE A DIFFERENCE.

Mistress (severely)—Marie, didn't I hear you make use of the expression "you little brat" in the nursery just now?
Marie (a French bonne)—Yes, ma-am; but Mmes Flossie do vexes me so!
Mistress (less severely)—Oh, I thought you were speaking of Fidot.
Send Flossie to me at once.—Epoch.

THE LAST STRAY.

He had been walking up and down the room with the baby for two hours.
"John, said his wife, from among the pillows, "you don't look very well of late. I'm afraid you don't get exercise enough."
John laid the baby in the crib, with its feet on the pillow, and went to sleep.
—Harpers Bazar.

KEEPING UP APPEARANCES.

"Now, John," said a wife who was going on a journey, "when you bid me good-bye on the train, you mustn't lift your hat or kiss me."
"Why not?"
"Because people will think that you are not my husband."

LOOKING FOR THE BOUNCE.

Friend (who is entertaining Mr. Ham, the eminent tragedian at dinner)—Ham old boy, why do you cast such furtive glances over your shoulder?
Mr. Ham—S'd'ra, ra' were it not so I would not tell ye. It comes from eating free lunches.—N. Y. Sun.

SETTLING.

"I think an egg would make that coffee settle, Mr. Scadgers," said the impetuous boarder, heedlessly.
"If the recipe is a good one, pray let me offer you an egg, Mr. Slops," said the landlady severely, and then the conversation languished.

A WARM PROCEEDING.

Brown—What's the matter, Dumley; you look hot about something?
Dumley (angrily)—Hot! I should say so. I was around at the Eagle just now, and that fool Featherly dropped a chunk of ice down my back.
Enough to make any man hot!—N.
Y. Sun.

EARLY TOBACCO CURING.

Yesterday morning Mr. Bagwell, son of the late W. S. Bagwell, residing at Garner's, this county, finished curing his first barn of tobacco from the present growing crop. He reports a fine success in this curing and a fair prospect for a good crop.—Raleigh News and Observer.

The five stones erected to mark "Mason and Dixon's line" between Maryland and Pennsylvania, have had their annual visitation by commissioners, who report one in good condition, one lost, one broken, one dislodged by mining operations, and the fifth, which bears on one side the arms of Pennsylvania, on the other those of Lord Baltimore, badly damaged by vandal relic hunters.— Ex.

NOT IN.

Dudley (who is not as big a fool as he looks)—Did you, ah, give my card to Miss Bondlipper?
Servant—Yes, sir.
Dudley—What did she say?
Servant—She told me to tell you, sir, that she was very sorry that you was not in.

Dudley—Ah, indeed! Please tell mistress that I said I was glad I did not call.

APPRECIATED.

"And you saw cordwood for a living?"
"Yes, sir, and it is an honorable employment."
"No doubt, no doubt."
"Yes, sir, so honorable that my insults are universal y applauded."
"Appreciated?"
"Yes. My work is always on order."
—Boston Courier.

PROCEEDING GRADUALLY.

"Well, Edith, did Mr. Lambrequin make you an offer of his hand last night?"
"No, mamma, he's so shy, you know, has never got any further than offering me his arm, so far."—Exchange.
