FATTENING HOGS.

C. W. Burkett, the State Chemist, Writes An Interesting Article On the Subject.

I think the reader will agree that the well regulated hog has at this season of the year some hogs that are in condition for fattening so as to make the winter's meat. It is not a question just now with those of us who have hogs in the feeding lot what breed they are, or what type they are. I am confident that if you will make a little test and observe the square set blocky ones you will find that they will come to maturity a great deal quicker and will weigh a good deal more, and consequently will be more profitable than the leggy ones or long nose, coarse type. Of course, we are interested now in the fattening of hogs we have of whatever type they belong to. How shall we do it? is a constantly growing question. If you had a little rye these hogs had been to run on a rye patch a past year, you would need of a case of fatness. rapid growth. I have, on whatever type whatever it is a sweet pot in patch we cheer for.

features in quick growth and early maturity. I believe if such quarters are provided the fattening hogs will respond by giving you a quarter or half pound more growth each day.

And another thing about these fattening hogs: I would not feed them too long. As the hog grows older and increases in size he increases in weight and at an increased cost in food. The time that the hog pays best for selling purposes or butchering purposes is somewhere between one hundred and eighty and two hundred and fifty pounds, live weight. We often read and hear about fattening hogs until they weigh three or four or five or even six hundred pounds. That is not unusual at all. The only thing is that the man who feeds the hog to that size has doubtless fed more corn than the hog is worth. Such a hog is worth twenty-five or thirty dollars we will say. He has eaten thirty dollars worth of corn and other products. There would be a deal more profit in having hogs, each weighing two hundred and fifty pounds than one weighing five hundred pounds. Two hogs to the total of five hundred pounds, than it would to a single hog up to an average weight. This big hog weighs five hundred pounds and increase two or more pounds a day, and at six cents per pound would gain an increase of fifteen or twenty cents per day, but you should bear in mind that it is likely to require twenty-five or thirty cents per day to feed him to do that. Consequently I do not believe in the big hog. It is a losing proposition to make him so, and then his meat is too fat. I like the smaller hog with the sweet, juicy, fleshy meat well marbled with fat and lean that weighs between one hundred and eighty and two hundred pounds. That is not only the most profitable hog from the standpoint of the farmer who feeds him, but it is the most favorable hog for the market demand.

These few suggestions that are made here show what a big field the feeding of hogs opens up. I am one of those who believes it takes more skill to properly raise, feed and fatten a hog than it requires to treat a cold, or plead a case before a jury, or even to prepare a sermon for the pulpit. I really believe that the farmer's business is one of those that requires all of the power and all of the skill and culture that one can acquire to make his business the power and success it demands.

"Checkers."

A preparation known as "Checkers," manufactured by the Checkers Medicine Company, in other words, the Casper Whiskey Company, of Winston-Salem, is the latest preparation of low grade liquor sold as a medicine in some sections. An analysis by the State Chemist made from a bottle purchased from a dealer in Mooresville, Iredell county, shows that the preparation contains 32.60 per cent alcohol. As whiskey contains from 40 to 45 per cent alcohol it will be seen that "Checkers" contains as much alcohol as whiskey.

STARTLING EVIDENCE.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentonsville, Va., serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by all Druggists. Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50c. and 1.00.

The Cost of Rural Delivery.

Postmaster General Wynne writes in the December World's Work: In 1897, when the rural service was started on probation, $40,000 was deemed sufficient for its trial. During the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1904, nearly $13,000,000 was expended for rural free delivery. For the fiscal year upon which we have now entered $20,816,000 has been appropriated for the continuance and extension of the rural mail service. There were 24,566 rural routes in existence at the end of the fiscal year on June 30th, last, 9,446 new routes having been put into operation during the fiscal year. On October 1, 1904, there were 27,135 routes established, and the service was being extended at the rate of about 800 routes a month.

Taking 450 people as the average number served on each route (a moderate estimate) the rural service in operation October 1, 1904, was bringing the mails within easy reach of the homes of 12,513,750 residents of rural districts.

RECTOR OF ST. LUKE'S.

ASHBURNHAM, ONTARIO, TESTIFIES TO THE GOOD QUALITIES OF CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

Ashburnham, Ont., April 18, 1903.—I think it is only right that I should tell you what a wonderful effect Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has produced. The day before Easter I was so distressed with a cold and cough that I did not think to be able to take any duties the next day, as my voice was almost choked by the cough. The same day I received an order from you for a bottle of your Cough Remedy. I at once procured a sample bottle, and took about three doses of the medicine. To my great relief the cough and cold had completely disappeared and I was able to preach three times on Easter day. I know that this rapid and effective cure was due to your Cough Remedy. I make this testimonial without solicitation, being thankful to have found such a God-sent remedy.

Respectfully yours,
E. A. LANGFIELD, M. A.,
Rector of St. Luke's Church,
To Chamberlain Medicine Co.
This remedy is for sale by all druggists and dealers.
