

THE ATTACK ON GOVERNOR KITCHIN.

Some of the enemies of Governor W. W. Kitchin are fighting hard to prevent his nomination for the United States Senate, charging that he has surrendered to the trusts since his election as Governor. The Governor's principal assailants are M. L. Meisenheimer, State Senator Lockhart and Josephus Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer. In Sunday's papers Gov. Kitchin replies, charging Mr. Lockhart with deliberate falsehood in trying to misrepresent his personal and political record. The Governor defines his position with regard to the trusts as follows:

"My attitude toward trusts has never changed. I am as anxious to aid in the destruction of private monopolies and the punishment of offenders as I ever claimed to be. I never said I could destroy the American Tobacco Co. or any other trust operating throughout the United States, if elected Governor. And yet you have tried to make your readers believe that. I never promised the people to use up the powers of the legislature or of the judiciary. I have always regarded the great trusts as pillaging plunderers of our progress and I shall do what I can to relieve the people from their oppression under the constitution of this state and the United States. These commercial pirates I have fought from my youth up to this day. I have always thought and still think that rich and great offenders should be punished as well as others. The charge that you make upon the recollection of a conversation two and a half years ago, in substance is that after my nomination and election I changed my attitude toward trusts. Fortunately for me the record quoted above disproves every syllable without having to resort to recollection of conversations. To that record the public will resort rather than to the product of the intemperate seal of another's advocate. In this state the three departments, the executive, judicial and legislative, are separate and apart. The governor of North Carolina is the only governor in the United States that has no veto power and the governor who is without power to veto legislation can have little power beyond the reason of his messages in securing legislation. You have constantly opposed giving the governor the veto power. A striking comparison of the power of governors is found between the governor of this state and the governor of New Jersey who has the veto power; who has the power of appointing the secretary of state, the judges of the supreme court, the district judges, the attorney general and the district attorneys. A governor with this power, disposed to use the "big stick" can be very effective in legislation, and yet the governor of New Jersey has not driven the American Tobacco Company

—one of its chartered institutions—from its borders. You may think that the governor of North Carolina without such power should try to browbeat a legislature into compliance with his wishes. I have no such conception of either my moral or constitutional duties in respect to the acts of a coordinate branch of the government which the people of North Carolina have created.

W. W. KITCHIN.
Raleigh, N. C., July 22, 1911.

Dr. A. J. Pringle, of Peter's Creek township, is agitating the idea of a county agricultural school, which the last legislature made within the reach of any county which will establish it, giving ample State aid. The proposition is a highly commendable one, and the Reporter hopes to give a good deal of space to the matter later. The education and training of our boys and girls is paramount to all considerations. With education comes knowledge, and knowledge is always accompanied by power.

Sprains require careful treatment. Keep quiet and apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely. It will remove the soreness and quickly restore the parts to a healthy condition.

The name To-bac-ton is derived from the well known weed tobacco, whose medicinal values have been known for over four hundred years and was used by the untutored savage long before the discovery of America. Our forefathers took the cue from the Red men of the forest, and it has been handed from generation to generation down to the present time and is still used in a crude way in the rural districts.

It remained, however, for Mr. S. A. Hutelbins, of the To-bac-ton Manufacturing Co., to seek out its medicinal value in diseases of the scalp by scientific investigation and by combining it with other meritorious ingredients whose merits were already established, we now have the finished product—To-Bac-Ton Hair Tonic, which we commend to your consideration and use under the proposition that it must meet the requirements of YOUR MONEY BACK. Ask your barber about it.
