Weather Gossip.

One trouble about mild, open weather in January is that it is sure to bring bad weather, generally causing a late spring and playing smash with the fruit crop, declares Col. Joe Reece, who keeps tab on the weather. January and February last year were anything but "open," with the result that when it did moderate it remained so and we had an abundant fruit crop.

Finds Cure for Epilepsy After Years of Suffering

"My daughter was afflicted with epileptic fits for three years, the attacks coming every few weeks. We employed several doctors but they did her no good. About a year ago we heard of Dr. Miles' Nervine, and it certainly has proved a blessing to our little girl. She is now apparently cured and is enjoying the best of health. It is over a year since she has had a fit. We cannot speak too highly of Dr. Miles' Nervine."

MRS. FRANK ANDERSON, Comfrey, Minn.
Thousands of children in the United States who are suffering from attacks of epilepsy are a burden and sorrow to their parents, who would give anything to restore health to the sufferers.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

is one of the best remedies known for this affliction. It has proven beneficial in thousands of cases and those who have used it have the greatest faith in it. It is not a "cure-all," but a reliable remedy for nervous diseases. You need not hesitate to give it a trial.

The Effort to Revoke Taft's Civil Service Order Fails in House.

Wash'n, Jan. 12.—An attempt to revoke President Taft's recent order placing fourth-class postmaster under civil service, and to remove the classification from assistant postmasters and clerks in first and second class post-offices by amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill, failed in the House today, but the bill carrying $278,000,000 was passed.

The amendment to revoke the President's order was lost 141 to 106.

The bill shows an increase of seven million over the appropriations for the present year, due largely to the parcels post.

Parcels Post Opportunities By Aid of Advertising.

Some of our readers may profit from the following which appeared in the Greensboro News Wednesday:

In Asheville the parcels post has reached such proportions that wagon service for delivery has already been mustered in. The new system has wonderful possibilities, for the producer, the consumer and the merchant alike. The producer now has a way of delivering his products directly to the consumer while the merchant can deliver his wares at the farmer's mail box. For the merchant to get the most out of his rural trade, he should advertise the most intelligently who will get the most customers. Quote the prices, so the farmer and his wife, in sitting by their evening fireside, may see just what the merchant offers and at what price. Intelligent advertising will work just as effectively for the farmer, who cannot spare time to come to town to peddle his eggs and butter and other products. By advertising his fresh, pure products, he can work up a nice mail order business. Oftentimes, it would be much cheaper for the farmer to pay a little postage than to lose a whole day from his farm work. In England where the parcels post has been established for years, farmers have become great users of advertising space.

As we said yesterday, the parcels post is now in the experimental stage but its success is assured and the individuals and the firms who quickly grasp its full significance will be the ones who will realize the most from it.

Hunt For Surry Outlaws Temporarily Abandoned

Greensboro News.

The hunt for the Surry county assailants of Deputy Marshall Harkrader and Sheriff Davis has been temporarily abandoned and Deputy Blaylock and Deputy Carroll, who were dispatched to the scene upon report of the affair, have returned to the headquarters here. Deputy Blaylock says that there is little new in the way of particulars of the attack, the newspaper reports carrying substantially the same facts as gained by the investigation of the officers.

He says the prisoner in custody of Deputy Harkrader and Sheriff Davis at the time of the assault was Mack Todd and that the only two men known to have been engaged in the fight were C. E. Todd, a brother of the prisoner, and Frank Brooks. There were several whose identity has not yet been established. All of these men have taken refuge in the wilds of the mountains and the officers consider it useless to continue the search for the time being. Mr. Blaylock says the Mt. Airy soldiers ordered out by the Governor were recalled before they reached the scene, the impracticability of soldiers marching about the mountains in search of a struggling band of outlaws being quickly recognized.

Mr. Blaylock reports that Deputy Harkrader is getting along well and that he will recover and have little to show in the way of scars for this experience.

Signs of Prosperity.

News and Observer.

The crops in most parts of North Carolina have been very good for the past few years, and the prices of farm products have been higher than in many years. The farmers are generally more prosperous than before. The Kinston Free Press prints this item showing a practical result of prosperity:

"In one week since the holidays, J. O. Suggs, the register of deeds at Snow Hill, cancelled over $150,000 in mortgage on Greene county real estate. The sign of prosperity is attributed to the county's being exclusively a farming community and experiencing with the other counties of the section, the most favorable crop conditions and harvests during 1912 that it has in years."

When farming pays the farmers pay their debts, cancel their mortgages and the money goes into circulation. So prosperity goes all around.
