HAS RUN AT A LOSS

Rockingham County Dry Prizery May Be Moved To Danville And Consolidated With Plant At That Place.

AN OFFER TO BUY

Has Been Received From the Danville Concern—Book Value of the Reidsville Stock, Considerably Below Par.

The following is taken from the last issue of the Reidsville Review, dated May 30:

A quorum of the stockholders failed to attend the called meeting of the Reidsville Co-operative Tobacco Company here Saturday. A few of the stockholders attended and discussed the plans of consolidating the plant with the Danville dry prizery, but no action was taken owing to the lack of a quorum of the stock.

It developed at the meeting that the dry prizery has been run at a loss for a year or more owing to the amount of tobacco brought in for storage not being large enough to pay running expenses. The Danville Dry Prizery (The Producers' Tobacco Company) offers to buy the machinery of the Reidsville plant at cost, less a reasonable deduction for depreciation, and issue stock of that company to the stockholders of the Reidsville Co-operative Tobacco Company pro rata for the amount of the purchase price agreed upon the machinery.

The Danville company also proposes to maintain a receiving plant in Reidsville and make advances on tobacco brought here for storage. This tobacco to be shipped to Danville for redrying, storage and sale. The building and storage shed here belong to another company (not incorporated) known as the Farmers Union Warehouse Company. This property would not be affected by the proposed deal with the Danville Dry Prizery, but it is understood that the Danville company can make satisfactory arrangements with the private company to use the building for a receiving plant.

The Producers Tobacco Company of Danville is said to be in a prosperous condition and is paying annual dividends of 6 to 8 per cent. on all of its stock. It is thought by some of the stockholders of the Reidsville plant that the arrangements proposed would be a good thing for the latter stockholders, as the volume of business likely to be secured here for some time can not be large enough to make the operation of the plant profitable, and that later on if it is seen that business will justify it new machinery can be bought and the plant started up again.

The Reidsville company has outstanding 900 shares of par value of $10.00 each, or a total paid up capital of $9,000. The book value is said to be between 80c. and 90c. on the dollar. At the meeting held Saturday it was suggested that the board of directors secure a definite offer or proposition with price agreed upon for the machinery of the Reidsville company and submit to a meeting of the stockholders to be held here Saturday, June 7. It is hoped every shareholder will arrange to have his or her stock represented either by person or by proxy at that meeting. Only written proxies will be valid.

People are not done planting tobacco yet, as we have had so much rain.

Some of our anti-good roads men seem to be getting out of heart about good roads. They say they don't believe those townships that voted bonds will ever work any on the roads because they have not done got them built.
