

A Lady's Comment On Medicine and Religion

The following letter is from a lady whose name I am not at liberty to use. If I should mention her name she would be known by almost every reader. She writes in part:
Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:
 "Your article entitled 'Medicine and Religion' has been read and re-read by me many times. It seems to me that the article contains the substance of all that has been said about Christian Science, new thought, suggestive therapeutics and other forms of mental healing.
 "I am very much pleased to observe that you are putting out into the world such useful literature. It will do untold good, without doubt; not only for those who take medicine, but for those who try to get along without taking medicine. Your article is terse, to the point, and will be read by thousands.
 "Medicine and religion have always been very closely associated. Only in very recent years have the two been regarded as separate professions. I am glad you brought this out so clearly. The tendency of to-day is strongly in the direction of medicine and religion coming back together again. With your immense facilities for spreading useful information I am sure you will greatly assist the progress of the times in sending out broadcast such articles. I want you to know that your efforts are appreciated.

 "As to Peruna, I have nothing to say. I very seldom make use of any medicine. But I assure you that your article has so enthused me with the good advice it contains that if I have any need for medicine I shall certainly buy a bottle of Peruna. I shall not neglect to recommend it to others also."
PERUNA SOLD AT ALL DRUG STORES.
SPECIAL NOTICE—Many persons are making inquiries for the old-time Peruna. To such would say, this formula is now put out under the name of KA-TAR-NO, manufactured by KA-TAR-NO Company, Columbus, Ohio. Write them and they will be pleased to send you a free booklet.

King, June 9.—We are well pleased with the good showers of rain that is falling which are needed very much.

The farmers are doing some planning for the next few weeks which will bring a lot of hard work. There is some wheat being cut. The wheat crop has a lot of smut. Some fields looks like it is nearly half smut. There is a large crop of tobacco being planted this season.

Mr. C. H. Lunsford will have about 80 acres planted in tobacco on his farm this season, which will take about 300 bags of guano.

There is a lot of sickness in this section at present.

Rev. P. Oliver of King Route 2, who has been very sick for quite a while, is now improving, as his many friends will be glad to learn.

Mr. Eugene Tuttle has a very sick baby at this writing.

Mrs. J. W. Webster is reported on the sick list.

Mr. R. G. Gentry of King Route 2 is suffering very much with rheumatism. Hope he will soon be well again.

Mr. W. G. Slate, who has been very sick for a good while is reported as not much improved, but hope he will soon be well again.

We report that dogs are killing a lot of sheep belonging to Mr. C. H. Lunsford.

Mr. D. F. Edwards of King Route 2 has his new house about completed.

How to Grow Late Cabbage.

A reader asks: "What kind of cabbage will be best to sow for late cabbages to head in November and December? When to sow and how to grow?"

Seed for late cabbages should be sown at dates suited to the particular section. My correspondent is in southeast Virginia, and there I would sow the seed in late June or early in July. Make a very rich bed convenient to water, and then see that the plants never suffer for lack of water. For late setting we want stout plants with stems as large as a lead pencil to live well. Further south, I would sow the seed later. I have grown them very finely in Raleigh, North Carolina, by sowing the seed the first of August and setting them last of that month.

Having good plants, they should be set in land naturally moist and more inclined to clay than sand, if there is any choice. But if the soil is rich and heavily manured, they can be grown in the lightest sand. Cabbages are gross feeders and need plenty of food, and the late crop can be grown anywhere in the South by starting at the right time and growing them fast. During the growth of the crop a dressing of nitrate of soda will help push them, and two separate application will be still better.

As to varieties, a good strain of the Late Flat Dutch is good and grows large. The Danish Ballhead makes a smaller round head, but very solid. For very late planting in the far South, Fottler's Brunswick will be found good. It is a quick growing and large-heading sort of a drumhead class.

The main things in making late cabbages in the warmer parts of the South, are good plants at the right time, heavily manured soil, rapid cultivation and plenty of moisture. There is a notion in some places that cabbages should not be cultivated during "dog days," and, of course, if they are then neglected, the crop is ruined. I was once growing late cabbages on a large scale in Piedmont Virginia, and the neighbors all told me I would ruin them by cultivating them in "dog days." But I kept on and had a fine crop while they had worthless ones, by following this old superstition. It never pays to neglect the cultivation of any crop and get it stunted. No amount of after fertilization and cultivation will atone for an early stunting.

FIRST CULTIVATION OF TOBACCO

R. R. Slate Gives Some Interesting Information to The Tobacco Growers As to How to Replant and Regulate the Ripening of the Weed.

Early, rapid and thorough cultivation is necessary to produce first class tobacco. The old turn-plow is still being used on my farm for most of this work. Tobacco thrives only on a dry soil and the use of the turn-plow will keep the land better drained. Then in cultivating tobacco the soil is always worked towards the plants. From the above it can be seen that the cultivation of corn and tobacco are practically opposite.

This is a day of machinery. Every year farmers are adding time and labor saving machinery to equipments. Herein lies an opportunity for some ingenious farmer to invent a machine which can compete with the hand, hoe in cultivating tobacco. My advice to the farmer is to put in only what he can properly care for and continue to do his work with his hands. This will insure its being done thoroughly.

In giving tobacco the first cultivation, the old soil containing the grass should be plowed into the middle of the row, the soil around the plants should be slightly loosened, and some fresh dirt pulled up to take the place of that which has been taken away. The field that has been in cultivation for several years will require more work in cultivating than soil that has been recently cleared.

Along with the first cultivation comes the replanting. With most of us this is a big job while in other cases, where the plants are properly set, the work is very small. The replanting should commence as soon as possible after the first plants have died. The season should not delay this work. If a rain does not come at the time your tobacco needs replanting, plant by an artificial season.

Replanting is the cause of tobacco's not ripening uniformly, and this adds extra labor to the growing of the crop. None of us care to have our whole crop ripen at the same time, but it would be much better if the uniformity of ripening could be arranged by fields instead of being scattered throughout the crop. To a certain extent, there is a way to prevent this trouble. Treat the backward plants with nitrate of soda or with a mixture composed of one-half nitrate of soda and one-half sulfate of potash. Apply in the afternoons when the plants are dry, at the rate of from one to two tablespoonfuls to each plant. This top-dressing should be sprinkled beneath the bottom leaves. Never allow it to remain upon the leaves of the plant. The above is one of the best methods I know of for helping the plants ripen uniformly.—R. R. Slate, in Progressive Farmer.

Right Here Is Your Chance To Buy That Typewriter!

This is a Straight-from-the-Shoulder Typewriter Talk by a Typewriter Man to the Readers of the Reporter.

No other typewriter built—regardless of any claims made—is the equal of the new Fox Visible Typewriter either in material used, or in workmanship, or in the number and convenience of its special features. There are many good typewriters being built and sold, but we claim for the New Fox Visible Typewriter that it is better than the best of these, and that its automatic features combined cannot be found in any other typewriter. The New Fox is a typewriter that will meet with the approval of the most critical user. A single demonstration will convince you—we will make it at our expense. If you will permit us.

Whether you have had the use of a typewriter or not, you have paid for one many times over! Yes, sir, we mean it: every day you continue using the old, slow method of writing with a pen you are unconsciously paying for a typewriter. The farmer who cuts his grain with a scythe pays with every drop of sweat for a reaper. If you are neglectful of your wearing apparel and expose yourself unnecessarily to the rain and cold you are paying for the very things that would have kept you well and comfortable. Remember this and mark it well: You must Pay—Pay for the necessities of this life, whether you use them or not.

THIS IS THE NEW VISIBLE FOX "BETTER THAN THE BEST OF ALL OTHERS" Sent on Free Trial, Express Pd.

Look at the illustration of our New Fox Visible Typewriter, shown above, and compare it with any other typewriter you have ever seen or used. Here is a really VISIBLE typewriter—note that the printing point is on top in plain sight, and that the type bars rise from where they are lying and strike the platen in full view of the operator, and in a direct line of vision, and that all of what you have written remains in full sight until the paper is removed from the typewriter. Compare this with those old style typewriters, that some firms are still advertising as visibles, but on which the printing point is beneath the typebars, and you have to look down into them—or between them—to see what you have written. Touch a key in the keyboard and you change the color of your writing instantly from black, blue, or purple to red. Press the Tabulator Key at the left (in front) for paragraphing, writing the complimentary closing, etc.; also for all kinds of billing. At the right (in front) is our Back Space Key. This moves the carriage backward for making corrections, or putting in punctuation. This key also enables the operator to erase a word of three letters and write one of four in its place. Press the Stencil Key shown at the left (front) for making stencils from which thousands of duplicate letters can be made. Four rows of keys reduce the shifting one-third. The right Shift Key locks automatically for writing in all caps. A positive automatic Line Lock prevents you from writing beyond a predetermined line. The ribbon travels in a "zig-zag" line—not straight across from spool to spool as on others—thus using all of the ribbon and making it last three or four times as long as on other typewriters. The ribbon automatically re-winds itself from one spool to the other without any attention from the operator. Carriages are interchangeable, and run on ball bearing tracks. Platens are removable, so that both a hard and soft platen can be used on the same typewriter. Extremely light touch. "No falling leaf is lighter than the touch of the Fox Typewriter." Choice of Elite, Pica, Condensed Roman, Medium Roman, or Italic Type—we carry more than three thousand special type in stock, of our own manufacture, and can furnish keyboards for any language. The Fox has an easy, almost noiseless action, is very durable, and is sent complete with cleaning outfit and metal cover with hard wood base.

This is the Fox, the typewriter we manufacture—this is the typewriter that we will send to any one anywhere in the United States on Free Trial, all express charges fully paid—no "red tape"—no delay—no obligation to buy. If purchased after trial you can pay a little down—whatever you can spare—and the balance in small monthly payments.

Reader, in all sincerity we can honestly say this proposition has never been equaled by any other typewriter company, and all we ask is that you write us TODAY—NOW—giving us your name and address so we can send you our catalog and write you personally about our typewriter and Free Trial offer.
