WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 1913.

Rain this week fell in many sections of the drouth-infested west, where the corn crop has been cut short millions of bushels.

The happy season of the year on the farms is here—tobacco-curing time. It is a little bit early yet, but soon from a thousand hills flames will crackle in the flues, and the hue of the fires will be of gold.

There seems to be an impression that the road improvements have been called off, and that the movement is dead. This is entirely unfounded. It is law, and you can depend on it for sure—Danbury, Sauratown and Meadows will have good roads. The bonds will be issued next month. The money markets are easy, and there should be no difficulty in selling Stokes bonds at a good premium.

The Danbury Reporter's correspondents will take a day off and enjoy a picnic and reunion at Piedmont Springs on Saturday, August 30. There will be an interesting program of exercises, music, dinner, and social intercourse, and an enjoyable occasion is expected. The invitations will be mailed out this week. Should any of the regular correspondents not have received a letter from the Reporter ere this, they will oblige the publishers by notifying them at once.

Henry Clews, the well known financial expert and writer of New York, says there is not the slightest danger of any panic or monetary stringency. The change in the tariff laws has been largely discounted, and money is easy. The offer of the Secretary of the Treasury to lend $500,000,000 to Southern and Western farmers to move their crops with, forestalls the usual tightness in money at this season of the year. The prospects for good business and great prosperity as a result of the splendid crops, were never brighter.

A Good Dirt Road Is Better Than Poor One of Rock. Why Segregation of the Black and White.

My county has been making the mistake of building rock roads when we have not had money enough to build a real dirt road. The result is that after five years of this policy we have about 25 miles of macadam roads, which are going to pieces in 12 months after being built because enough stone was not put on the road, and our supervisors picked up from a class of men willing to take an office that pays not over $90 per year for the honor is it. No matter how honest they are, they are, from the lack of experience, incompetent to direct road building. The roads are not properly drained and no one looks after them after being built. Instead of making what they do make first-class, they attempt to stretch the road as far as possible.

The dirt roads are in worse shape than they have been for years. There is not a road-drag operated in the county, so far as I know, and I travel all the roads.

My conclusions are that had we spent the same money grading, bedding, and draining dirt roads properly, we would have benefited more people, and the roads with the aid of gravel, etc., which could easily be procured would be in better shape for most of the year at least than they now are.—C. H. Riley, in Progressive Farmer.

We favor segregation because it is necessary to give our white farmers and their families a satisfying social life.

We favor it because it will insure them greater safety and protection.

We favor it because it will give them better schools and churches.

We favor it because it will open the way for co-operation and co-operative enterprises—work in which it is almost impossible for whites and blacks to work together successfully.

We favor it because it will improve moral conditions in the relations of the races.

We favor it because it will give the rural South what it sorely needs—a greater proportion of white people. (1) by stopping the crowding out of white farmers by Negroes, and (2) by providing all-white communities such as white people from other sections will be willing to move into.

We favor it because ambitious young white men will then be willing to go into these all-white communities as tenants, work and save, and become good farmers and good citizens, whereas they are unwilling to go in and compete with Negro tenants.

We favor it because it will provide certain sections in which these ambitious white tenants can buy land without having to compete with a Negro to get it and beat the Negro making a reckless bargain for it.—Clarence Poe, in The Progressive Farmer.

Getting Rid of Fleas.

The flea reveals the bedbug in sociability and as with the cockroach and bedbug, only unceasing devotion to them on the part of man—or rather woman—will cause them to depart. They live and feed on any warm-blooded animal, from rat to human. In fact, the plague is spread by the agency of fleas on rats and rabbits. The first thing to do is to eliminate the source of supply, the cat or dog, if possible, or, at least, the nest. The flea lays its eggs among the hairs of animals. These drop off and hatch into tiny white worms which secrete themselves in cracks, under the nest, or in any other convenient place waiting to turn into the adult with the strength of leg to "seek whom it may devour." They object to hot soapsuds or lye getting into the crevices where they are enjoying themselves, dislike the liberal use of lime or insect powder, are extremely uncomfortable when moistened by gasoline or kerosene, and will not tolerate fumigation. It is said that sticky fly paper with a small piece of raw beef in the center, placed under the bed will do effective work. Sometimes cats and dogs and chickens can be rid of fleas by sprinkling insect powder among the hair or feathers. A wash of two teaspoons of creolin for cats and four for dogs, with a quart of water, is recommended. If fleas are on the head or neck of chickens, lard will kill them, but carbolated vaseline will not only kill them but will heal the skin.—Mrs. W. N. Hutt, in The Progressive Farmer.

MEXICAN Mustang Liniment

The Best Emergency Remedy for armers, Stock-raisers and Household use. Speedily relieves Spavins, Swinny, Harness Sores and Galls, Shoe Ails, Strains and Lameness in Horses; Aged Udder and Sore Teats in Cattle and Ailments of Poultry.

SAFE AND SURE.

Being made of oils it soaks down straight to the bone, banishes pain and saves suffering. Only oil liniments can soak through muscle and issue. Alcohol liniments evaporate before they can be absorbed by the flesh besides they are dangerous when used near a fire or lamp. Mexican Mustang Liniment will not burn even though a lighted match be applied. Mexican Mustang Liniment is THE SAFE as well as the CURE-TO-CURE remedy.

COMMENDED BY A FARMER.

GREENSBORO, GA. As long ago as I can remember I have known of Mustang Liniment. I always keep it in my house and if any of my family get injured in any way, such as sprains, cuts, bruises, and, in fact, in many accidents that happen I always use Mustang Liniment. On my horses and stock I never think of using anything else—it is far cheaper than doctors' bills. I commend it to all farmers; it will keep their families and also their horses and stock in condition. Very truly yours, I. L. ANDREWS, farmer.
