Examinations For Fourth Class Postmasters.

Washington, 1.—There will be no scarcity of applicants for the 589 postmasterships in North Carolina of the fourth class paying between $180 and $1000 a year, which are to be shaken up by the holding of examinations within the next few months, judging from the thousands of letters of inquiry being received in Washington by the Congressmen from those contemplating taking the examinations.

There has been a continual flood of letters from people all over the State regarding these examinations ever since President Wilson on May 17 issued an order providing that all fourth class postmasters should submit to a competitive Civil Service examination. But this stream of letters has been more than tripled since the passage of the Urgent Deficiency Appropriation bill about two weeks ago carrying the funds to defray the expenses of the examination. The letters of inquiry are varied in their character and ask for all sorts of information such as: Where will the examination be held; When will it be held; Where shall I get the papers; Am I too old to take the examination, etc.

Andrew, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Duggins, had the misfortune to stick a nail in his foot one day last week. His foot is reported to be in a very serious condition.
