Do you raise early or late potatoes? There's a difference between early and late varieties that should be considered in fertilizing. For the early kind use 1,000 pounds per acre of a fertilizer containing 10%

POTASH

5% ammonia and 8% phosphoric acid. Under average conditions, 500 pounds of 3-0-3 is the most profitable for late crops. Some growers double these amounts, for they are convinced that Potash Pays.

Caution: Be sure your Potash for potatoes on heavy soil is in the form of Sulfate. Write for Potash prices and for Free books with formulas and directions. We sell any amount of Potash from a 200-pound bag up.

TAKE CARE OF CHILDREN

Do Not Let them Play in the Heat of the Day—Have to Prevent Prickly Heat.

Summer months bring added anxiety to the woman in the home. The housekeeper has, perhaps more than the average share of worry, but when she is a mother as well her hands are full.

Children need careful attention in hot months, particularly young children. One rule should be made and rigidly adhered to by all mothers in the intense heat of the summer months. That is that young children should never be allowed to play out of doors in the middle of the day. The organizations of the child body is too delicate to endure the heat which completely prostrates many a grown man and woman.

The best thing to do is to send the children out for their play as early as possible in the morning, before this sun has had a chance to bake away the coolness. At 10 or half past they should come in the house, for by this time the heat has commenced in earnest.

A tubful of cold water brings perfect content to the hearts of young children if they are allowed to remove their clothes to splash about till lunch time.

An early lunch at 12 finds everyone hungry. After this a nap will serve to keep the children out of mother's way for some time. Then at half past four or five it will probably be safe let the little ones go out to play again. In this the mother must use her own discretion. If the heat is still intense at this hour, it would be wiser to keep the children in until late in the evening.

Young babies require careful attention during the hot spells. Sponging the body off in alcohol will do much to keep the little one cool. In the very hot weather this should be done as often as necessary. The baby's crib should be placed near some window where the sun does not shine and where a breeze will blow if there are any breezes.

Almost every child, and, in fact, many grown people, are subject to prickly heat in the summer months. This is a rash which spreads over any part of the body, most frequently the back of the neck and shoulders. It is attended by an itching and smarting, or pricking which is really painful for children.

Resolution of Appreciation.

Piedmont Springs, Stokes county, North Carolina.

WHEREAS, by and through the action of the County Board of Education of Stokes county and the courteous invitation of the Messrs. Pepper, it was made possible for this Institute to be held at Piedmont Springs, a popular summer resort, greatly to our pleasure and delight, and,

WHEREAS, Prof. W. R. Mills as Director and Miss Louise Lunn as Assistant Director, have come to us and have won our love and esteem by their sterling business qualities, their patience, their integrity, their clear-sightedness and the faithful discharge of their duties.

NOW, therefore, we, the student body, in committee, wish to express to Prof. Mills and Miss Lunn our sincere thanks and appreciation for the inspiration and the wholesome instruction they have given us for the past two weeks. We feel that we have been greatly benefitted, not only as teachers, but as men and women by the advice imparted to us.

We wish to thank, also, the management at Piedmont Springs for the hospitality shown us during our two weeks stay.

Suggested that a copy each be given to Prof. Mills and Miss Lunn and spread upon our minute book.

Done in committee at Piedmont Springs this the 19th day of June, A. D., 1914.

Meditation on God's Word.

"Noah walked with God." (Gen. vi. 9.)

Contextual reading, Micah vi. 6-13.

Life is not a couch, nor a wilderness, nor a wind-borne wave, but a pathway. It means activity, progress, and destination. It implies a whence and a whither. It suggests, moreover, the need of guidance and companionship.

"Noah walked with God." Let not such a word from that far-away time fall meaningless upon our ears. Often have we prayed: "When life's trials are over, take us unto thyself." Let us oftener pray: "In the midst of life's trials take us into conscious companionship with thee."

We may not cease to sing the Christian battle song:

"Fight on, my soul, till death Shall bring thee to thy God."

But neither must we forget that God is with us in this life, and that we may live in spirit as well as in physical fact very near to him here. When it was said to a dying man in a present-day story, "You will soon be with God," the answer was: "I have been with him all my life." So there is another song of the soul that has been given us to sing:

"Close to thee, close to thee, All along my pilgrim journey, Saviour, let me walk with thee."

"Noah walked with God." We thank thee, Lord, that even in that dark and godless day, when thou wast grieved in thy heart with a world that would none of thy ways, there were those who knew thee as the ever-present One. They had no Scriptures, they had no sacraments, they lacked the knowledge, culture, civilization, and Christianity in which, as in an atmosphere charged with great ideas and incentives, we have lived from the very dawn of life. Yet their hearts went a-search for thee, and thou found them, In the spiritual loneliness of life they felt the touch of a heavenly hand. And so they had power to walk life's pathway humbly, reverently, and hopefully with thee. May we listen to thy voice and tell thee all that is in our hearts, as did these ancient sons of thine! So in this holy converse will thy presence become a conscious reality.

Mr. Spurgeon Booker.

It may not be known that one of Surry county's brightest young men is blind, Mr. Spurgeon Booker, son of Mr. G. M. Booker, spent his early youth in Mount Airy. He attended the graded schools and acquired a practical education and began life with as bright prospects as most men. About the age of twenty-one years, a serious spell of sickness left him hopelessly blind. After a few months in the wretched state he began to adjust himself to the new conditions which faced him, and began life over by entering the school for the blind at Raleigh. For eight years he applied himself to the task of acquiring an education under the new conditions.

A few weeks ago his father had the pleasure of seeing him graduate with honors at that institution. He begins life now at the age of thirty-two as an accomplished and intelligent man. He is a skilled musician and uses the typewriter with as much proficiency as a professional stenographer. He can sit down to the typewriter and write rapidly, intelligently and at length, and never get a comma or a period or a letter out of place on the paper.

While completing his literary education he realized the importance of the skilled hand as well as the cultivated brain, and with this in mind, he acquired the trade of manufacturing brooms and mattresses. At the present he is at the home of his father west of Dobson, and in a small way, he will operate a broom and mattress factory. All necessary machinery for the business has been ordered and the factory building erected. Of course the business will be small in the beginning but here is hoping that his efforts will be crowned with abundant success. —Mt. Airy News.

Lumbago-Sciatica Sprains

"The directions says, its good for lumbago too,—Sloan's cured my rheumatism; I've used it and I know." Do you use Sloan's?

Here's Proof. "I had my back hurt in the Boer War and two years ago I was hit by a street car. I tried all kinds of dope without success. I saw your Liniment in a drug store and got a bottle to try. The first application caused instant relief, and now except for a little stiffness, I am almost well." —Flecker Norman, Whittier, Calif.

Instant Relief from Sciatica "I was kept in bed with sciatica since the first of February, but I had almost instant relief when I tried your Liniment." —H. H. Hawkins, Frankfort, Ky.

Sprained Ankle "As a user of your Liniment for the last 15 years, I can say it is one of the best on the market. Fifteen years ago I sprained my ankle and had to use crutches, and the doctors said I would always be lame. A friend advised me to try your Liniment and after using it night and morning for three months I could walk without a cane and run as good as any of the other fellows in my department. I have never been without a bottle since that time." —Mr. William H. Bruce, Central Islip, N. Y.
