

ASHEVILLE TO HAVE WRAPPED, BREAD

Bakers and Grocers Willing If People Want It.

Since the people don't always appreciate the danger they run from various kinds of diseases, especially typhoid fever, on account of unwrapped bread, Asheville's watchful health dock. It was in 1919 that Asheville passed an ordinance requiring that bread be wrapped before being exposed for sale or for delivery over the city. But since that time, it appears, this ordinance has slept, waking only for short intervals. "Now," says the health officer, "this ordinance must be enforced."

The trouble seems to have been not so much with the bakers and grocers, but with the people themselves. They don't demand wrapped bread. Most of the bakers said they wanted to give people what the people wanted but they were not interested in clean bread enough to demand it. As to the increased expense of wrapped bread, there is no argument, since wrapping it on the wholesale plan or at the bakeries must be cheaper than on the retail plan or at the shops and groceries. The dear people as a rule already pay for its being wrapped at one place or the other, so it is largely a question of getting it wrapped before it gets dirty instead of afterward.

These bakers, be it said to their credit, did not object to bread-wrapping on the same score as did the bakers of Dayton, Ohio. The Dayton bakers based their objection on the ground that if the bread was wrapped at the bakery, by the time it reached the consumer the paper was so dirty that it ruined the sale of the bread.

There can be no question about unwrapped bread being dirty. Bacterial examinations of unwrapped bread as delivered to the consumer invariably show large quantities of bacteria and frequently filthy, sewage bacteria probably from the hands or coat or shirt sleeves of delivery boys, to say nothing of street dust, questionable baskets, or sales counter. Then, too, there is the occasional fall from the wagon, basket or arm of the delivery boy to even more questionable floors and sidewalks only to be picked up by the same hands that carry and drive the horse.

The danger from all this would not be so great were it not for the fact that as a rule bread is eaten without being washed or cooked, hence the rich field for typhoid by the contact method.

Asheville is to be congratulated. So is every other town that believes in eating clean food. From present indications it won't be long before many other towns fall in line.

Advice to Those About To Leave the Farm

We know that on account of conditions resulting from the European war, many white farmers and tenants will now be tempted to sell out and move to town. They ought to remember three things, however:

1. That practically all other farm products except cotton are bringing good prices, and low-priced cotton is only a temporary condition.

2. That the war has made an even bluer outlook for the town laborer than for the farmer, employment being difficult to get and wages low.

3. That if a man has property enough so that he can live in town without work, he had better move home comforts to the farm instead of moving to town to get these comforts. Paint, good walkways and driveways, light, waterworks, all cost money in town as well as in the country; why not have them in the country? Read Grant Slocum's article in our Christmas selections and resolve to stay at home. Make yourself a neighborhood leader and find new joy among old friends and neighbors, helping make your home and your community fairer and better, instead of going to town to rust out amid unfamiliar environments and uncaring strangers.

Think, too, of the greater independence of the farmer, especially the farmer who owns a little dirt. We came across a saying of the late Dr. Knapp's the other day that is worth noting in this connection. The farmer who becomes a town laborer, he declared, "voluntarily exchanges the rights and privileges of a free-man for a daily wage and the badge of service."

For sale or exchange, 60 acre farm lying in Meadows township and 40 acre farm lying in Yadkin township, Stokes county. Also a good 5 room dwelling and lot and 4 vacant town lots in King. Will sell all or a part, or will exchange for larger farm.

Richest City In World.

New York city has just completed the revaluation of her assessable properties and fixed the tax rate, or, rather, the tax rates, as there is a differing rate in each borough. The thing that strikes attention is the size of the taxable basis. It aggregates for this year $8,108,764,237 in real estate valuation alone. In the Manhattan borough the tax rate for this year is $1.87, in Brooklyn $1.92, in the Bronx $1.94, in the Queens $1.95 and in Richmond $2.24. New York will collect over $100,000,000 from real estate taxes this year, not to mention the receipts from franchise privileges and other sources, and will have a use for all the money paid into the municipal treasury. To pay the interest on her bonded debt alone will call for about $30,000,000.

New York is beyond a reasonable doubt, the richest city in the world. It is difficult to draw comparisons between New York and London in matters of finance because real estate valuations seems to be on a different theory of estimates in the two cities. Whitaker's almanac gives ratable valuation of real estate in Greater London under the 1914 assessment as $508,396,910. This rating must be regarded as only nominal. The gross debt of London, as stated in Whitaker, was at the end of last year $6,520,000 pounds, or, in dollars, $132,600,000. This is about $325,000,000 less than the debt being carried by New York. The city's expenditures for all purposes in the British metropolis last year seem to have been less than $57,000,000—or scarcely more than one-third the outgo indicated in the New York budget statement—Baltimore American.

When Anybody Finds a Cure He Is Generally Willing To Tell His Neighbor

¶ The willingness of one neighbor to tell another neighbor in a private way of the benefit received from Peruna, explains the popularity of Peruna more than all the advertising that has been done.

¶ The fear of the publicity undoubtedly prevents the majority of such people from writing a testimonial to be used in the newspaper. But in spite of that we are receiving fine testimonials continually.

ANEMIA—Mrs. E. A. DeWitt, Marion, Ohio, says: "I believe Peruna to be the best tonic. I recommend it for any run-down condition of the system."

SPRING COLDS—Mrs. Elsie Stephenson, Dunch, Iowa: "A cough, cold, croup, and I am settled on my lungs. Cough, cold, croup, and I am settled on my lungs. Cough, cold, croup, and I am settled on my lungs. Thanks to Peruna, I am a well woman today."

CATARH—Mrs. F. A. DeWitt, Marion, Ohio, says: "My little boy is entirely cured of catarrh of the eyes by Peruna. Am thankful for your good advice."

SPRING TONIC—Mrs. Wm. M. Johnson, Brown Valley, Minn.: "I have taken Peruna through the system, acts as a tonic. I consider Peruna a whole family medicine chest."

¶ How did they hear of Peruna?

¶ Simply because one neighbor is always willing to tell another one he has found a cure. Neighborly conversation of grateful patients has done more for Peruna than advertising. Much more.
