It is announced by Supt. of Schools J. C. Carson that the high schools of the county will open on Sept. 11th, the public schools opening on Oct. 9th. Mr. Carson is of the opinion that this year there will be enough teachers who have met all the requirements of attending summer schools, etc., to fill the schools without using any teachers who have not met the requirements. A great many of the schools have already secured their teachers. The prospect for good attendance and efficient schools was never better than at present.

This week marks the close of the Stokes summer school, which has been in session here since July 17th. Danbury people have enjoyed having the large number of teachers here and their presence will be greatly missed after Friday of this week. There is no doubt that they have been greatly benefited by the able and patient instruction received at the hands of Prof. C. L. Weathers, Miss Nannie Pigg and Miss Grace Taylor, the faculty of the summer school. A number of social affairs have been given in honor of the instructors and teachers since they have been here, which have been enjoyed by both the school and the town people alike.

Harry H. Leake Weds Miss Elsie Sprinkle

Winston-Salem Route 7, Aug. 25.—A very pretty wedding occurred Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sprinkle, near Bethania, when their eldest daughter, Miss Elsie, became the bride of Mr. Harry H. Leake, of Danbury.

On arriving the guests were received by Mrs. Carl Hine and Miss Eva Sprinkle.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Alice Spens sang sweetly, "O Promise Me." As Miss Ethel Sprinkle, sister of the bride, began the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, little Miss Francis Sprinkle, in a frilly frock of white organdy, came in bearing the ring in the heart of a rose. She made her way to an improvised altar. A double archway of white entwined with jessamine and clematis. The arch was reinforced by tiny spokes from which glowed a mellow light from many candles. On either side stood a white pedestal bearing a tall brass candlestick with lighted tapers. Next came the bride and groom who were met at the altar by the bride's pastor, Rev. J. W. Vestal, before whom were spoken the sacred vows which united them in holy wedlock.

The bride was a picture of loveliness in a gown entraine of duchess satin and pearls with bridal veil caught in coronet fashion with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

Following the ceremony, a salad and ice course was served by Misses Grace McCollum, Lillie Sprinkle, Louise Holland, and Rachel Speas. After a trip to Baltimore, Washington and other points north, Mr. and Mrs. Leake will be at home in Danbury, where the groom is assistant cashier of the Bank of Stokes County. The bride wore a going-away gown of midnight blue canton crepe trimmed in steel cut beads, with accessories in mode.

Mrs. Leake is a popular young woman, having been a very efficient teacher in the State, after having been educated at Guilford College, Harrisonburg, Va., Normal College and the University of California.

THE THEATRE A CERTAINTY

Half the $5,000 Capital Subscribed—Building To Be Erected At Once.

Danbury's academy of music, show-house, play-house or theatre, whichever you choose to call it, is a certainty. At a mass meeting held in the court house Monday night, citizens, ladies and gentlemen, subscribed nearly half the allotted capital for the enterprise.

It is proposed to erect a $5,000 building, equipped with modern fixtures and appointments, and the enterprise is deemed not only a great thing for this section from an educational and entertainment standpoint, but the promoters believe it will pay well financially.

Odell Jones and N. E. Pepper were appointed a committee to solicit further stock subscriptions, the shares to be issued in denomination of $25 each. It will be the policy to enlist as many small stockholders as possible throughout Danbury and Peter's Creek townships, the territory intended to be principally served. It is expected that the building will be built by early fall.
