Mrs. N. E. Snow, of Route 1, near Paris, Tenn., tells the story of her experience as follows:

CARDUI
The Woman's Tonic

"My youngest daughter was run-down, weak and nervous, and looked like she didn't have a bit of blood left—just a walking skeleton, no appetite and tired all the time. I gave her two bottles of Cardui. It built her up and she began eating and soon gained in weight and has been so well since."

ADVANTAGES OF A LARGE SCHOOL.

The advantages of a large school are similar to the advantages offered by any large enterprise. Any one who will stop to reason intelligently will recognize at once that a large enterprise can do many things, secure many benefits and afford many advantages not possessed by a smaller concern.

The large school attracts and secures better teachers. The larger school maintains better equipment.

The large school is because of its extensive acquaintance, called upon to fill more and better positions with its graduates.

The large school can, for economic reasons, give greater value than any small school can possibly give.

The inspiration that comes from numbers, the enthusiasm that comes by association with willing workers, the training afforded by competitive effort, are of a value that cannot be expressed or estimated in dollars. This valuable training is only possible in a large school and alone is sufficient to recommend a large school to any intelligent person.
