

LEGISLATURE NOW IN SESSION

STOKES MEMBERS OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY LEAVE FOR RALEIGH — BIG PROBLEMS AHEAD FOR THE LAW-MAKERS.

S. Gilmer Sparger, Senator, and A. R. Phillips, members of the lower house left this week for Raleigh to begin their sittings with the General Assembly, which formally met Tuesday morning.

Big problems of legislation will confront the 1933 General Assembly, chief among which are taxation and prohibition.

Faced with the burden of balancing a budget running in arrears at the rate of millions of dollars annually and with most of its members as well as Governor-elect John C. B. Ehringhaus pledged to remove the 15-cent ad valorem tax, a difficult time awaits the legislators. A deficit of some $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 also must be cared for.

From every part of the State legislators have expressed the feeling that drastic cuts must be made in the cost of government and that salaries of public employees should be further lowered.

With all present sources of revenue steadily shrinking, including gasoline, income, franchise, license and other taxes, the legislators will be hard pushed to find a source from which to gather the approximately $3,800,000 which the 15-cent ad valorem tax was called on to furnish for school support.

Sentiment toward any form of sales tax is not strong, answers to an Associated Press poll of all members showed, but many members who oppose such taxation frankly stated they did not see how the budget could be balanced without some such tax levy.

Reports among the wide issues expected to be brought up during the session include prohibition, prohibition, prohibition, prohibition.

Nelson—Mitchell

Shirley Mitchell, of Madison, and Miss Dorothy Nelson, of Walnut Cove, stole a march on their friends Saturday afternoon by motoring to Rocky Mount, Va., where they were united in marriage. Mrs. Mitchell is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Nelson, of Walnut Cove, while Mr. Mitchell is a popular young business man of Madison. Both enjoy a large circle of friends.

Lost $350.00

H. J. Greagan, of Madison, who was operating a fireworks stand on the High Point road, just out of Greensboro, suffered the complete loss of his stock a few days before Christmas, when a customer lighted a firecracker in the building and it exploded before he could throw it out of the building. It caused a fire that gutted the entire building. Mr. Greagan's loss was about $350.00.

Methodist Services

Rev. J. B. Needham, the pastor, will occupy the pulpit at Davis Chapel M. E. Church next Sunday A. M., and at Danbury M. E. Church Sunday night, at the regular hour. The public is cordially invited.

Death of Kelly W. Sisk

Kelly W. Sisk, aged 74, died at 4 o'clock this (Thursday) morning at his home at Lawsonville.

Mr. Sisk had been desperately ill for several months, and his death, though a great shock to his relatives and friends, had been expected for some time. He suffered with a heart affection.

The deceased is survived by two daughters, as follows: Mrs. P. C. Campbell, of Danbury, and Mrs. Fletcher Smith, of Lawsonville, and by one son, George, of Lawsonville.

Interment will be at the home graveyard near Lawsonville at one o'clock, Friday.

Next Tuesday The Limit

Don't operate your car with old license after Tuesday, Jan. 10. If you want to stay out of trouble with the State, that's the limit fixed.

Schools Get Another Week

The public schools were slated to start following the Christmas holidays on last Monday, but owing to the impassable state of many of the roads, making it impracticable to operate school buses, another week of holiday was given by the school authorities.

Danbury In The Spotlight

Under the magic manipulation of J. J. Booth, and stimulated by the late rains, Danbury's electric lighting system is functioning amply to the pleasure of everybody who has electricity.

School Board In Session

The regular monthly meeting of the Stokes County Board of Education was held Monday at the Board's room at the court house. Chairman J. R. Forrest, R. B. Hutchinson and J. W. Priddy, with Superintendent of Schools J. C. Carson, were present. Outside of the regular routine, such as payment of bills, etc., no business of interest was transacted.

Colored Runners Run In

Two negroes, of Winston-Salem, giving their names as Jas. Jones and one Robbins, with a cargo of 15 burlap bags of hooch, were caught by Detectives Mack Wall and Carl Ray, Monday, on the highway between Danbury and Walnut Cove. On failure to furnish bonds of $300 each, the accused were locked up to await the spring term of court. Justice N. A. Martin heard the matter.

No Hydrophobia Shown

A pet dog belonging to little Julia Pepper bit J. D. Faulk and Jack Smith Monday, and though no one believed the dog was mad, through abundance of precaution the animal was killed and decapitated, and its head was examined in the laboratory of Dr. Carlton, city health department, of Winston-Salem. No evidence of rabies was disclosed by the examination.

Dr. J. L. Hanes, of Pine Hall, was among the visitors here Monday, at the regular meeting of the county commissioners.

MRS. B. J. SAVAGE TAKEN BY DEATH

WELL KNOWN RESIDENT OF GERMANTON DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME.

Mrs. Lillie Jones Savage, 55, passed away suddenly Friday afternoon at 12:40 o'clock at her home, Germanton, while working at her sewing machine. She apparently had been in good health until she sustained a heart attack while sewing in some clothing.

She was born at Pinnacle, June 29, 1877, a daughter of the late Jim and Susan Idol Jones. She resided at Nome, Alaska, for a number of years and for the past twenty-four years had made her home at Germanton. Her husband, B. J. Savage, passed away ten years ago. She was a member of Germanton Baptist Church.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. G. H. Wilson and Miss Lillie E. Savage, of Germanton; three sons, Hyde, B. J. and Kemp Savage, of Germanton; three grandchildren; five brothers, C. M. Jones, of Walnut Cove; M. C. Jones, of Winston-Salem, Solicitor John R. Jones, of North Wilkesboro; Jim and Sam Jones, of Pinnacle; and two sisters, Mrs. R. W. Young, of Winston-Salem, and Mrs. C. M. Bernard, of Pilot Mt.

The funeral was held at the home Sunday morning at 10 o'clock a.m. and at Pinnacle M. P. Church at 11 o'clock. Rev. A. L. Hunter and Rev. E. L. Smoak conducted the services. Burial followed in the church graveyard.

Captured Still

Deputy Sheriff Mack Wall and Carl Ray captured a still, a few miles southwest of Danbury on the road of N. A. Martin Saturday. About 3 gallons of hooch were found with the outfit.

It probably never occurred to you that fish can climb ladders, but since salmon has come into so great prominence as a source equal to cod liver oil for vitamin A and approximately twice as good as a source of vitamin D, more trouble than ever is being taken in the cultivation and propagation of these fish. The latest thing is fish ladders which are enabling Columbia River salmon to get over the great Rock Island Dam across the river near Wenatchee when they come home to spawn after years in the ocean. These ladders consist of a series of pools twenty feet wide, ten feet long, and rising one foot above the next. The total rise is fifty feet in a distance of five hundred feet, and ease of the sights of Central Washington recently has been watching big salmon leap from pool to pool at a rate faster than a man can walk up the adjoining incline. Don't Lose Breath The fish don't even lose their breath as they roll up the ladders, but the word "breath" reminds us of the French word "soufflé." Here is the recipe for a delicious Salmon Soufflé: Turn one 10 1/2-ounce can of strained cereal into a double boiler, and heat. Then add the flaked contents of a one-pound can of salmon and three tablespoons butter. Add three well-beaten egg yolks and salt to taste. Fold in three stiffly-beaten egg whites, and pour into a buttered baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°, for thirty to thirty-five minutes. Serve at once. Serves eight.

Persistent Peas

PEAS can persist practically all the way through the meal, and are equally good in almost any course. You can start a dinner, for instance, with this Cream of Carrot and Pea Soup: Make a white sauce of two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon flour and three cups milk. Press the contents of an 11-ounce can of peas through a sieve, reserving a few for garnishing. Add the pureed peas and the pea liquor to the white sauce. Add one-fourth cup carrot pulp, boiled and pressed through a sieve. Season to taste, and add the whole peas. Serves six. Combine Two P's Or, if you want your pea dish a little later in your dinner, try combining peas and pineapple in Pea Puff with Pineapple: Drain the peas from a No. 2 can and press them through a sieve. Make a thick white sauce of four tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour and one cup milk, and add the pea pulp. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Add three well-beaten egg yolks, and fold in three stiffly-beaten egg whites. Pour into a buttered baking dish, and set in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven—350° to 375°—until set and a delicate brown—about twenty-five to thirty minutes. While baking, cook together until rich and thick two tablespoons butter and the contents of an 8-ounce can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Spread this over the baked puff, and serve at once. This makes eight to ten servings.

Better Breakfasts

BREAKFAST is your first big opportunity of the day. It is your opportunity to send off the family bread-winner with a smile on his face. Or, if you are the bread-winner, it is your opportunity to leave home each morning wearing the aforesaid smile. Try This Canned Figs with Cream Ready-to-Eat Cereal Corned Beef Hash with Baked Eggs Toast Coffee The main dish is served in individual ramekins, and here's the way to make it. Corned Beef Hash with Baked Eggs: Moisten the contents of one 10 1/2-ounce can corned beef with three teaspoons water, and divide among four wide, shallow, buttered ramekins. Cover with buttered crumbs, and place in the oven until browned on top. Drop a raw egg on top of each, sprinkle with salt and pepper, return to oven until the eggs are done. Just an imaginative touch or two makes such a difference! The canned figs with cream and the eggs in an unusual form are what give a special appeal to the following breakfast. Such imaginative touches make even the most familiar dishes taste different. Here's the menu.
