Issued Wednesdays at Danbury, N. C., and entered at the Danbury postoffice as second class matter, under act of Congress.

Danbury, N. C., March 19, 1936.

Landon Cross-Examined.

In the celebrated case of Intrenched Privilege vs. F. D. Roosevelt and his administration, star witnesses are Al Smith, Herbert Hoover, J. P. Morgan, the Du Ponts, the Steel Trust, the Power Combine, Governor Alfred M. Landon et al etcetera.

One of these stars shines so brilliantly that he is now being acclaimed for the Presidency himself—we bespeak Governor Landon who has made such a "commendable" record as the chief executive of Kansas. His record is of course satisfactory to the barons, who dote on low taxes and balanced budgets, whatever these "balanced budgets" may cost (others).

In the case of the Kansas candidate, the defense would introduce the following evidence, as reported by the Associated Press:

A telegram was sent to the Governor of Kansas by officials of several national scholastic organizations in annual convention in St. Louis the other day, asking his position on education "if elected President of the U. S."

To date Governor Landon has not replied to the telegram, which read as follows:

"It is commonly reported in this great gathering of many groups of American educators that you have helped 'balance your budget' in Kansas by reducing funds for education and human relief.

"Official reports show that many Kansas schools have been closed for many months; that thousands of Kansas teachers and administrators are receiving notoriously low salaries and that school terms and educational facilities for other thousands of Kansas children are restricted.

"If elected President of the United States, would you approve 'balancing the budget' by similarly restricting education for American children and relief funds for American families in need? I will report on your response to this telegram to the American Federation of Labor, with which the American Federation of Teachers is affiliated."

On the floor of the convention Dr. Givens and various other speakers showed that according to official records large numbers of teachers in Kansas are receiving salaries of less than $350 a year. They pointed out that under Kansas law local communities cannot borrow funds for school purposes and the county, township and school district authorities have had no support from the State government.

"Parents and teachers have a right to know where every candidate for the Presidency stands on this issue," Dr. Givens declared. "Does Gov. Landon wish to restrict the schools in the Nation as in certain countries in Europe governed by dictators, and put youths in labor camps where it is of course much cheaper to maintain them, or is he prepared to seek readjustment of the economic situation so that young people can look forward not only to better educational opportunities but for the opportunity also to earn a living after leaving school?"

Governor Landon's budget balanced at the expense of education, and at the price of human suffering, is doubtless sufficient in the eyes of the Liberty League to make him an ideal President.
