McCanless-Gerner

Miss Mary Duval McCanless and John Fredrick Gerner, Jr., were united in marriage Friday afternoon in a private ceremony marked with utmost distinction and beauty. The vows were spoken at 5:30 o'clock in the presence of about seventy-five relatives and close friends at the bride's home in Danbury.

Dr. Raymond S. Hauptert, professor of Biblical Literature and Languages at Moravian College, Bethlehem, Penn., brother-in-law of the bride, officiated using the impressive marriage service of the Moravian Church.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her only brother, William Clark McCanless and had as her attendants a maid of honor, Miss Miriam Hall, of Raleigh and Danbury; a dame of honor, Mrs. Edwin Taylor, of Danbury; a ring bearer, Edwin Taylor, Jr., a flower girl, little Theresa Marie Anzelmi, daughter of the bridegroom's sister Mrs. Edward Philip Anzelmi, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The bridegroom was attended by J. E. Hutcherson, of Winston-Salem, as best man. Groomsmen were Norton Teneille and Jack Penner, both of Winston-Salem.

The vows were read in the drawing room before an improvised altar of ivy, fern and Queen Anne's lace. White tapers burned in silver candelabra on the altar and others were in seven-branched candelabra in the room. The kneeling cushion was of white satin.

Wedding music was presented by Miss Mary Taylor of Danbury as follows: "Because" (Huerter) and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." The bridal party entered to the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" (Wagner), and during the ceremony Miss Taylor softly played Liszt's "Liebstraum."

The lovely bride descended the stairway and was met by her brother. She wore for her wedding a gown of pastel pink mousseline de soie, Princess style. The skirt swept the tailored brocade and flared into a long train over which fell a veil of pink illusion. The veil was caught in the back by tiny pink pears as was the face veil which fell to her shoulders. Sleeves were puffed full to the elbow, and then tight, coming to a point over the hand. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and sweet peas.

The attendants wore identical frocks made along the same lines as the bride's gown, with matching bonnets. Mrs. Taylor wore pale yellow and Miss Hall blue, and their bouquets were of mixed garden flowers.

The bride was attired in a three-piece ensemble of aquamarine for travel, and her brown hat had aquamarine trim. Her other accessories were brown.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fredrick Gerner left for a bridal trip to Canada and on their return will be at home in Danbury.

Humphreys-Marshall

Winston-Salem, N. C., June 13—The wedding of Miss Frances Jarvis Humphreys, of Danbury, and Reginald S. Marshall, of Germantown, is being solemnized at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. John Meroney, 1341 Knollwood Avenue, with Rev. Howard Rondthaler officiating.

Miss Humphreys is the daughter of the late Judge John D. Humphreys and Mrs. Bertha P. Humphreys, of Danbury. She was graduated from Woman's College, Greensboro, with the present June class. She did her preparatory school work at Salem Academy, going directly from that institution to Woman's College upon graduation.

Mr. Marshall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Marshall, of Germantown. He has been connected with the United States Department of Agriculture, soil conservation division, since last September and is located at Greensboro. He did his preparatory school work at Germantown, graduated from Guilford College High School and afterwards was with the class of 1929. He taught school for six years prior to the time he went with the soil conservation personnel.

Mr and Mrs. Marshall will be at home to their friends at Guilford College after June 21.

The marriage of Miss Frances Jarvis Humphreys, of Danbury and Reginald S. Marshall, of Germantown and Greensboro, was solemnized at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. John Meroney, of Winston-Salem, Saturday afternoon, June 13, at 5 o'clock. Bishop Rondthaler officiated for the ceremony which though simple, was marked by beauty and dignity.

In the living room a marriage altar was improvised of white lilies and Queen Anne's lace, flanked by seven branched candelabra holding lighted white candles. Garden flowers in varied colors filled containers and formed a lovely setting for marriage rites.

The bride and bridegroom entered together. She was attired in tailored white lace on navy taffeta, a large leghorn hat and other matching accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of pink roses, sweet peas and valley lilies.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left by automobile for Washington, D. C., and other points north.

Mrs. Marshall, a life-long Danbury resident, is the elder daughter of Mrs. Humphreys and the late Judge J. D. Humphreys. She received her education at Salem Academy and Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, where she graduated June 1, 1936.

Mr. Marshall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Marshall, of Germantown, and received his education at Guilford College and is connected with the Soil Erosion Conservation program of Guilford county.

After the bridal trip Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will be at home, during the summer at Guilford College.

"BABY BONDS" BEING ISSUED

THE TREMENDOUS JOB OF THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT AT WASHINGTON — VETERANS BEING SUPPLIED.

Washington, June 15. — With a few hitches, the government's bonus distributing machinery today dropped "baby" bonds into the waiting hands of about three million war veterans.

This done, the treasury and postoffice departments made ready for the next step—to cash all bonds turned in for payment.

Secretary Morgenthau told reporters at his press conference there were "bound to be" some errors in the bonus shipments, with three shifts of emergency workers laboring at top speed, but added he did not believe the

The postoffice department was reported to have sent out a list of 15,000 bonds which were shipped by mistake. Postmasters were instructed not to certify those for payment.

In a few cases, it was said, shipments were stopped because the packets had been improperly addressed or because packets contained the wrong number of bonds. Some cases were reported, too, in which veterans, fearing that their original applications had been lost, had sent duplicates to the veterans administration.

Postal officials said veterans probably would begin receiving government checks in exchange for their bonds on Wednesday and that these payments would be fairly well completed by the end of the week.

Although about $1,650,000,000 worth of bonds have been started to the veterans, officials said some probably would hold their bonds for a time, to draw interest at 3 per cent. a year.

The checks will be sent out in a separate mailing from 248 paying postoffices to those veterans who return their bonds to their local postoffices and have them certified by workers.

Most veterans received small checks, each for less than $50, in their packets today. With his allotment of bonds—each worth $50—the veteran was sent a check to make up the difference between the highest $50 unit and the total due him on his adjusted service certificate.

In metropolitan centers, where the bond packets were delivered to veterans today, arrangements were made for certifying bonds tomorrow. Checks probably will go into the mail Wednesday. The bonus checks, like the original packets, will be delivered only to the veteran himself, officials said, to avoid the possibility of erroneous delivery.

Veterans in some cities worried today over reports that bonus packets had been ordered held up and returned to treasury offices. The veterans administration here said these orders did not stop shipments to veterans entitled to the bonus.

Most of the "stop" orders were issued in cases where veterans had been reported dead since their application, had been declared incompetent, or where other irregularities had cropped up.

Probate judges in some cities have sent to postmasters lists of veterans declared incompetent, with instructions that bonus packets should not be delivered to them.

COURTESY — "THE GENUINE ARTICLE"

There are two kinds of courtesy in modern business. One, is politeness, which is good. The other, is "the genuine article," which is better.

To the Norfolk and Western Railway Family, courtesy means more than mere politeness. It means friendliness toward the manufacturer and the farmer along the railroad's lines, and toward the traveler. It means a sincere interest in their problems. It means a sincere desire to serve them faithfully and efficiently. And it means a sincere appreciation for their patronage. This is "the genuine article." It is genuine because it springs from something deeper than simply the desire to sell freight and passenger service.

Employees of the Norfolk and Western Railway—all the way through the ranks—have grown up with the railroad and the territory it traverses. The railroad's success is their success. Its achievements are their achievements. And in its progress, and the progress of Norfolk and Western territory, they have a real pride. These are the elements of the spirit of the Norfolk and Western Family. And, from this spirit, comes Norfolk and Western courtesy.

So, when you ship or travel over the Norfolk and Western, you will get more than mere politeness. You will get that which distinguishes the Norfolk and Western Family—courtesy that is "the genuine article."
