J. I. Hill Sustains Serious Operation at Hospital

J. I. Hill, prominent citizen of Meadows, is slowly recovering from a serious operation in a Winston-Salem hospital, when it was necessary to amputate his left arm half way between the elbow and the wrist.

The trouble was septicaemia, which developed after Mr. Hill had slightly scratched his arm with a rusty wire. He is 71 years of age, and the attack of blood poisoning was almost fatal.

Mr. Hill's many friends will be glad to know that the chances for his recovery are good.

Danbury Defeats Walnut Cove

Danbury came through with the first shut out of the season in the county league here Saturday afternoon at Riverside Park, winning from Walnut Cove by the score of 5 to 0. It was a pitcher's battle between James of the Walnut Cove team and Billy Paul of the Danbury team winning out. James held the Danbury boys until the seventh inning when the damage was done in that inning; Ray led off with double against the center field fence, then Shelton, I. Dunlap and Wall also came through with doubles and the ball game. Billy Paul sent 10 of the Walnut Cove hitters back to the bench by the strike-out route. Brown led the hitting for the Walnut team with two for four times at the bat, one of his hits being over the right field fence for two bases by ground rule.

The Rights of the Southern Farmer Will Be Practiced

Stunned by the death of the able and beloved Majority Leader of the United States Senate, J. T. Robinson, and with faces stern from choked emotions and suppressed tears, Senators prepared to close their ranks and carry on. Now at his final resting place in the state which gave him to the country for long years of useful service, Joe Robinson would have wished that the things he left undone be finished.

Far upon the list of things to which the Congress must give attention is the problem of farm legislation. The President has stressed its importance. The leadership of both Houses is alive to the fact that the demands of farmers that they share in the benefits from legislative approaches to crucial national problems are rightful demands. The farmer has every reason to expect action before Congress adjourns. And it should be sound and constructive action. Fortunately, legislation bearing Administration approval and supported by large farm groups, has already been introduced in the House. A companion measure, only a slight variance with the house bill, is ready to be introduced in the Senate. Hearing may develop shortly. At these hearings those familiar with the conditions and problems of agriculture in the South will see that the rights of the Southern farmer are safeguarded.

"BUNKUM" and the shorter word "bunk" both derive from Buncombe, the name of a county in North Carolina. During a famous debate in Congress many years ago the representative for the district insisted on making a rambling speech when the House was impatiently waiting for an opportunity to vote. The speaker explained his insistence by saying the people of his district expected it of him; so he was bound "to make a speech for Buncombe."

Do not say, "That is an entirely different matter than the one you have in mind." "That" indicates a comparison. Distinction or separation is indicated by "from." Say, "That is an entirely different matter from the one you have in mind."
