MOREFIELD TAKES CHAMPIONSHIP

PRIDDY WALKS OUT OF ARENA REFUSING TO FIGHT, BUT IS LATER BEATEN UP BY MOREFIELD ON THE STREET OF WALNUT COVE, WHILE OFFICERS LOOK ON-DECISIONS IN OTHER BOUTS - ROY WILSON CHALLENGES MOREFIELD.

The fight for the heavy weight championship of Stokes county took place Saturday night at Walnut Cove, but with quite less decorum and ceremony than had been advertised. Corbett Priddy, the champion, refused to fight his challenger and walked out of the gymnasium. Some hours later Morefield assaulted Priddy on the Walnut Cove street near the cafe, beating him up more or less badly. Priddy, who was reported drinking, was knocked down no less than ten times by Morefield.

Two deputy sheriffs looked on while the affair was pulled off, but the mob refused to let them interfere.

There are many reports in regard to the affair. The Reporter is informed Priddy had demanded a showdown on the cash receipts before he would enter the ring, which Morefield and his friends refused. Priddy claims that in his former fight in which he met Roy Wilson, there were gross irregularities in the pay-off. Consequently he declined to be jumped again.

Roy Wilson now challenges Morefield, and says he will fight him any time anywhere, and that he will lick Morefield to a frazzle.

The secondary battle between Therman Collins and Charlie Morefield was decided in favor of Morefield.
