Death of Mrs. Isaac Fagg

Mrs. Sarah D. Loving Fagg, 88, wife of W. I. Fagg, Danbury, Route 1, one Stokes county's best-known women, died Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock at her home. She had been in ill health for about one year. Her condition had been critical for two weeks.

Mrs. Fagg was born in Stokes county and spent her entire life in the county. She and her husband made their home in the Buck Island hills, just north of Danbury. Mr. Fagg is one of the best known tobacco farmers in the county. She had been a member of the Primitive Baptist Church for more than 40 years. Surviving are the husband, Isaac Fagg; three sons, M. J. and W. R. Fagg, of Danbury, Route 1 and Elder J. A. Fagg of Winston-Salem, widely known Primitive Baptist elder; four daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Sawyers, Mrs. Ida Hall and Mrs. Maggie Jackson, all of Danbury, Route 1 and Mrs. Isabelle Bolden of Madison; 55 grandchildren, 91 grandchildren.

The funeral was held at Piney Grove Primitive Baptist Church at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Elder Ed Priddy of Amelia county, Va., officiated. Burial was in the family graveyard near the home.

Mt. View News

Mt. View, April 2.—Born unto Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Barr an eleven pound son, Joseph Roosevelt, Friday March 31.

Cary L. Carroll made a business trip across the mountain Sunday.

A large crowd attended the music and singing contests at the Community Club House Friday night. The King String band carried away first prize in the musical events, while the Carolina Rangers won top place for the singers.

Tobacco plants are doing fine. U. V. Sizemore and "Crick" Barr have the forwardest plants north of the Sand Hills.

Rev. Hovis filled the regular appointment at Mountain View Baptist Church Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Barr made a business trip to Danbury Monday afternoon.

As usual there are very few court visitors from this peaceloving community this week.

COTTON COMMERCE

1938 Figures Show Ranking of Markets for Staple

New Uses Sought to Increase Domestic Consumption

Department of Commerce statistics for the 1938 calendar year, now available, show that shipments of American cotton were made to 41 different countries, with Japan, United Kingdom, and France the largest foreign buyers in the order named.

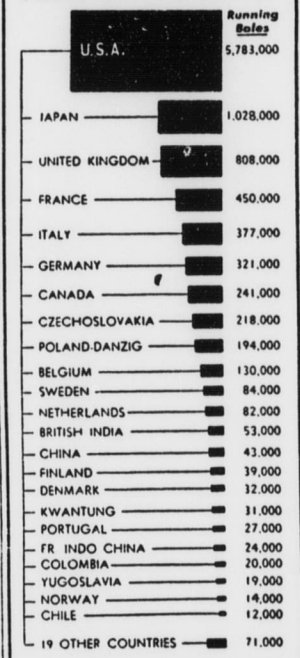

The total exports to all countries in 1938 were 4,316,000 bales, which compared with 6,221,000 bales, the yearly average for the previous five years and an average of 7,641,000 bales for the five-year period 1927-1932.

Government agencies and leaders in the trade are working toward policies which, it is hoped, will bring about a reversal of this trend. In the meantime, the relative importance of American industry, as the chief consumer of American cotton, has been increasing.

In view of the unfavorable export situation, efforts are being redoubled to increase domestic consumption, which in 1938, amounted to 5,783,165 bales. Chief among these are the promotions behind National Cotton Week, May 22 to May 27, and the extensive research work being done to develop new uses for the staple.

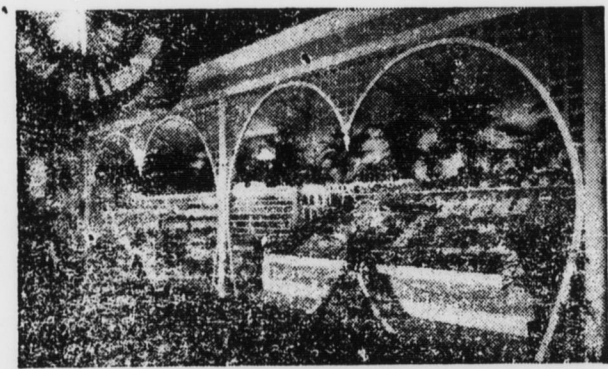

In the latter connection, encouraging progress is reported, according to a review in the current issue of The Arcadian Grower, farm magazine published by the distributors of Arcadian nitrate of soda. The Grower further points out that among the recent developments, which today are increasing the domestic consumption of cotton on a scale large enough to have significance, are cotton for road construction . . . for wrapping cotton bales . . . for lining irrigation ditches and canals . . . for packing fruit and vegetable products . . . for bagging commercial fertilizer . . . nitrate of soda, raw sugar, other heavy commodities not before packed in cotton.

Magnificent Exhibits of Tropical Fruits and Vegetables at Great DeSoto Exposition

Florida counties are making ready to show the world the choice farm products harvested during mid-winter months, and here is one of the magnificent displays that will add color to the Pan-American Hernandez DeSoto Exposition which opens in Tampa on January 31 and continues through February 15. Many Latin-American nations will also have elaborate exhibits.

Lawsonville High School Announces Commencement Program

Kurfees Defeated

The contest for mayor of the city of Winston-Salem between candidates Marshall Kurfees and Fain, Democrats, resulted Tuesday in Fain's being nominated and Kurfees' defeat.

Kurfees is a Stokes boy who ran for Congress in the election of the fall of 1938, and was defeated by A. D. Folger, the present congressman of the Fifth district in Washington.

Latin Club Meets

(Contributed)

The Caesar Latin Club held its regular monthly meeting on March 27, at the home of Mrs. J. Spot Taylor with Mrs. Taylor as hostess.

The meeting was called to order by the president Marion Fulton, and the minutes read by the secretary, Angela Taylor. The program consisted of three most interesting talks. Betty Easter gave the first talk on "Why We Study Latin", Vaughn Linville gave a talk on "Roman Life", and Ellen Kate Pepper also gave a talk on "Roman Religion". After the program a floral contest was enjoyed with Ellen Kate Pepper being the winner of a World Atlas.

The members were then served very delightful refreshments.
