

LOCALS

Canie Mabe of Route 1 was a Danbury visitor today.

Among the countymen in town this week was J. W. Moser of Rural Hall.

Mrs. A. E. Reynolds, Mrs. W. H. Hobson, Mrs. Herford Wolfe, and little Miss Mary Bern Wolfe, all of Salisbury, were guests at Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reynolds' here Sunday.

Jim Rumley of King was a juror here this week.

Among the Walnut Cove citizens attending court: Frank Dunlap, popular ex-sheriff of Stokes; Bill Fulton, prominent business man and all-round good fellow.

Banner Joyce of Walnut Cove attended court.

Among the Lawsonville visitors this week: B. O. Sheppard, Walter Lackey, R. L. Lawson, J. L. Moore, W. W. Smith, Cleve Lawson.

Alex Southern of Flatshoal was a court visitor.

Joel Y. Southern of German-ton was here this week.

Dan S. Priddy of North View spent a day or two in town this week.

Wiley Southern of the Meadows community was over Tuesday.

Reid Forrest, Jr., superintendent of the county's road forces, and Reid George, one of the attaches of the State highway prison camp, were among the throng at the court house.

John D. and Edgar Fulk, Bob Plinchum and China Fagg, all of the Hardbank neighborhood, were Danbury visitors this week attending court as spectators or witnesses.

Joe Alley of King was noted in the court crowd.

H. T. Corn was here this week, having business.

Dixie and Will Wood, both of whom reside in the North View community, are each quite considerable raisers of chickens. Dixie has 100 hens, and Will 300. Both are good livers, with plenty of good things to eat. They were both in town this week.

Thompson Rogers of Asbury, probably one of Stokes county's finest tobacco raisers and most successful farmers, spent several days at court as a witness. Mr. Rogers is up in years—maybe 75—but is in good health. He has been a hardworker in his day, and is an honored citizen of Big Creek township.

Mrs. Louise Joyce and son, Mike, who for some time have been making their home in Greensboro, were here with Mr. and Mrs. William Joyce a few days this week.

REPORT OF GRAND JURY

FIFTY TRUE BILLS FOUND—PRISON CAMP, COUNTY HOME, JAIL AND COUNTY OFFICES VISITED—EFFORTS FOR DANBURY HIGH SCHOOL ENDORSED.

State of North Carolina, County of Stokes, To His Honor, Zeb V. Nettles, Judge Presiding:

The Grand Jury for the October term 1939 Superior Court of Stokes County most respectfully submits the following report:

We acted on 50 bills of indictments, all of which were found to be true bills. There were no presentments.

Presentments of all criminal nature known to our body were made and acted upon.

We, the members of the grand jury, as a whole visited the Prison Camp, located near Meadows, and had the pleasure of having dinner served to us by the authorities in charge. We most respectfully compliment the management of this prison camp upon its neatness, cleanliness and the order in which we found the same.

A committee from our body visited the County Home and found it well kept from a standpoint of sanitation. We found the wash house in need of repair.

A committee visited the County Jail and found the condition good from every standpoint.

A committee from our body visited the various offices in the Court House and found them to be kept in a very efficient manner and the records well kept.

We, the members of the Grand Jury, and representing a cross section of the citizenship of Stokes county, learn with pleasure the efforts of the citizenship of Danbury, which is the county seat, in endeavoring to have established here in Danbury a high school, and we desire to commend the citizens of Danbury and its surrounding community in its efforts to obtain a high school and most respectfully urge all county officials, either directly or indirectly interested in same, to use all efforts to see that our county seat and the children of Danbury and immediate vicinity are provided with a creditable high school, thereby eliminating the necessity of hauling a large number of children from 10 to 15 miles and lessen the danger of travel by shortening the route to their school.

A committee from our body visited the public schools of the county and found all the school buses in good condition and with efficient drivers. The buildings are all in good condition, except for some repairs which are being made as fast as possible.

O. M. FLYNT, Foreman of Grand Jury.
