NEWS and FACTS ... of Statewide Interest

The 8th Birthday of One of North Carolina's Biggest Taxpayers!

On May 1, 1933, beer was re-legalized in North Carolina. Since that time, it has paid taxes as follows:

To The State Treasury	$6,777,854.76
To North Carolina Counties	993,750.00
To Our Cities and Towns	377,500.00

This $8,149,104.76 total is in addition, of course, to federal taxes amounting to about $7,000,000. Thousands of new jobs have been created, moreover, bringing in a new stream of income and a re-vitalization of trade in North Carolina.

Social Benefits, Too

Important as well are the social results. The American brewing industry has promoted a vigilant campaign to protect the public against abuses in the retail sale of beer—a campaign to see that the reputation of the thousands of retailers operating legally and decently is not smeared by the relatively few who would use a beer license to shield illegal activities. In the past two years, for example, the North Carolina beer industry's "Clean Up or Close Up" program has resulted in the elimination of 155 undesirable outlets.

The brewing industry submits this record to you because it takes justifiable pride in it. Your support has made the achievements possible; your continued support will make results even more outstanding.
