they, during the winter, conserve the maximum food value at the least possible cost and produce the maximum amount of milk at the least possible cost.

DEATH OF A GOOD WOMAN

Mrs. Kathleen, Wife of Sheriff John Taylor, Passes In Winston-Salem Hospital—She was a Leader In Social, Civic and Religious Life In Her Sphere

The people of Danbury as well as other communities were shocked and saddened by the untimely death of Mrs. Kathleen Simpson Taylor, wife of Sheriff John Taylor, Tuesday at a Winston-Salem hospital.

Not many people knew of Mrs. Taylor's illness. She had been in her usual good health until Friday preceding her death on Tuesday, she suffered a heart attack. This being followed by a second on Sunday, she was taken to the hospital where it was found her condition was extremely serious. Early Tuesday she died.

Mrs. Taylor was a daughter of the late John T. and Lula Johnson Simpson of Winston-Salem.

During her residence of 19 years at Danbury she endeared herself to all people by her splendid womanly qualities. She was at all times a leader in social, civic and religious activities. She was a consistent member of the Methodist Church, and was devoted to Sunday school and Missionary work.

She was President and one of the charter members of the Danbury Fine Arts Club.

Mrs. Taylor was a graduate of Salem College. She was married to Sheriff Taylor June 3, 1922.

Survivors include the husband, two daughters, Angela and Nellie Louise; her stepmother, Mrs. John T. Simpson, of Winston-Salem; a brother, James R. Simpson, of Charlotte; four half brothers, William, John, Dick and Joe Simpson, all of Winston-Salem; and three half sisters, Mrs. J. L. Harper, Mrs. Robert Parnell and Miss Virginia Simpson, all of Winston-Salem.

The body was taken Wednesday night at 8 o'clock to the home of Sheriff Taylor's mother, Mrs. J. Spottwood Taylor, at Danbury, where the funeral services were conducted Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Dr. W. A. Lambeth and Rev. J. L. Love. Burial was in the Danbury Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Robert Parnell, J. L. Harper, W. B., Joe and John Simpson, Ed, Paul and Dr. Spott Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Taylor of Winston-Salem were guests of Mrs. J. S. Taylor Sunday.

First Sales In Georgia

Pleasing To Farmers

Tobacco Starts Even Higher Than The Government Guarantee—Some Sales Made

Valdosta, Ga.—Gold-tinted cigarette makings became cash for growers throughout the Georgia Florida bright leaf tobacco belt Tuesday as auctioneers in three market centers chanted steadily on bids "in the twenties."

Buyers following the picturesque sales in warehouses apparently kept their prices well ahead of the 19 1/2 average set by the United States Department of Agriculture as a guaranteed minimum. Correspondents of the Associated Press told of strong bidding in the 22 to 26 cents-a pound brackets.

There were individual instances of bids much higher, up to 10 and 50 cents for particular choice tobacco. At the other end of the scale, there were baskets brought for as little as one cent a pound. But growers generally were cheered by the consistent bidding in the 20-30 cent range, and the frequency with which good quality leaf sold even higher.

At Douglas the market hit a top of 54 cents for one basket, 32 at Valdosta, 34 at Tifton, 4 at Waycross. Associated Press reports on the opening day sales by markets included:

Adel: W. T. Shytle found the market stronger with best grades going as high as 38 cents and "growers optimistic over the first start."

Baxley: Warehouseman Barnes said the bulk of sales ran around 24.62 cents, with some selling up to 35 and other baskets as low as one.

Blackshear: Sales Supervisor Kirk Sutlive announced the bulk of the tobacco sold here in the 23 cent class, but ran as much as 4 and as low as 2 in other grades.

Douglas: With two sales going on here, one warehouse reported sales running near 23.40 and the other near 22.50. The top for the 54 cents was bid here.

Hahira: On the first 160,000 pounds sold, Supervisor W. R. Salter announced a range of five to 35 cents and the bulk of sales within 24 to 28 cents.

Hazlehurst: Auctioneer Eugene Simmons said he was finding the bulk of sales around 22 cents, with some baskets going at 32 and others at 6.

Metter: Warehouseman Jeff Hemsley said bids were running five to 32 cents and higher.

Moultrie: Grades which sold at 26 and 27 last year were going at 30 to 34 this year. Warehouseman J. E. Ladson Jr., said, and grades which sold at 22 a year ago were up to 27 and 29 yesterday.

Statesboro: Warehouseman R. E. Sheppard reported sales running between 2 and 41 cents with much of the leaf going around 22.

Tifton: Two Warehouses reported a range from 3 to 35 and most of the offerings going around 22 cents.

Valdosta: The 2 to 32-cent range was indicated for this market on early sales.

Vidalia: Warehouseman Will Brown announced best cigarette types here going at 30-33 cents and the range on the morning round between 3 and 35 cents.

Waycross: Warehouseman L. C. Pruitt said most of the first round here was in the 22-26 cents range.

Raleigh.—North Carolina farmers and tobaccoists are cheered by the average price of 20 to 22 cents per pound paid for flue-cured leaf on Georgia tobacco markets opening Wednesday, W. P. Hedrick, tobacco marketing specialist with the N. C. department of agriculture, said last night.

The tobacco price average last season was $15.60 per hundred-weight in Georgia and $17.27 in North Carolina, according to the U. S. agricultural marketing service.

"While it would not be expedient to predict the price that will be paid for North Carolina tobacco this year," Hedrick said, "it is generally agreed that opening prices on the Georgia markets are about up to expectations of the growers."

All flue-cured growers participating in the AAA program are guaranteed an average of $19.50 per hundred for their crop this year. Hedrick pointed out, describing that figure as representing 75 per cent. of parity.

W. S. O. C. S. To Meet

The Womens Society of Christian Service will meet Monday night, August 11, at 8 o'clock at the Methodist Church.

In this time of world crisis, we are proud to get together and discuss our problems in a group and associate one with the other. This is just what over a thousand 4-H club members did at Raleigh last week. These members were under able leadership and guidance.

Not all of the time was devoted to talks, discussions or class work but some time was devoted to recreation and getting along with people. One of our 4-H club members stated, "This was a place where every 4-H club member had a chance to get acquainted with other member of the state." We had such speakers as Dr. Frank Porter Graham, Governor Broughton, and Dr. J. O. Howard, Bureau of Economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

Two afternoons were devoted to dairy and food demonstration and judging. Each morning from 10:30 to 12:00 the 4-H members attended various classes. The Stokes County group was especially interested in the Dairying and Song Leadership classes, both of which are essential to a healthy and sane society. Those attending from Stokes County were Nancy Priddy, Polly Ann Gordon, Hazelen Smith, Joe Ayres, Roger Covington, Waldo Hawkins and Garland Baker.

The 4-H club members are looking forward to attending the Short Course next year. It is our aim to carry at least twice this number to the Short Course next year, so start now making your plans to attend.

Because of the increased interest in dairying in Stokes County, many farmers are studying various types of silos. On August 2, the county agent, accompanied by R. C. White, J. Ed Mitchell, A. M. Ordell and J. S. Lawson went to Iredell County to study silos and silo construction. The farmers on the tour were especially interested with the box-type silos. The box-type silos are usually the shape of a trench silo but are made of cement or wood and are built on top of the ground. They may be put under the barn shed or at any other convenient place. It has been prove to be both a practical and an economical way of conserving and preserving green feed. These farmers agree that a silo, of any of the various types, is essential for more profitable dairy farming. Because
