THIS WEEK IN DEFENSE

to complete. The Navy will put gun crews of from 12 to 18 men on all ships as fast as they are armed.

The Maritime Commission reported the keels of 21 Liberty ships were laid during October to bring the total to 76. Four of these cargo ships were launched in October, compared with three for September, and three more are scheduled to be launched this month. The Commission added four ships to its six-ship training fleet to help turn out 15,000 trained seamen for the deck, engine and steward's departments during 1942 and 1943.

Navy

The Navy announced capture by the U. S. cruiser OMAHA in Atlantic equatorial waters of the German ship ODENWALD which was sailing under U. S. colors. The disguised merchant ship was on its way from Yokohama to Bordeaux with a cargo of 3,000 tons of war rubber and American-made automobile tires. Secretary Knox told his press conference the ODENWALD was one of a number of German vessels which had been chartered to Japanese interests.

Three destroyers, a submarine and the battleship INDIANA were launched—making a total of three battleships, 18 destroyers and 13 submarines launched so far this year. The three destroyers were five months ahead of schedule and the submarine three months.

Civilian Supply

Director of Civilian Supply Henderson announced passenger car production during February, 1942, will be reduced by 56 per cent. as compared with production in February, 1941—from 396,000 cars to 174,000 cars. An OPM automotive committee recommended the effective date for the order banning bright work from automobiles be postponed from December 15 to December 31. The OPM made tentative allocations of 112 airplanes to U. S. commercial airplanes during 1942.
