BANKS AND BANKERS

encouraged to present himself at the flat-topped desk next day and ask a little favor.

But alas, it's Mr. Hyde you are dealing with today. If your collateral looks good, you are shoved a note pad and instructed to affix your appellation, while a teller pushes out the pesetas for your bill fold.

But if your offering is not of the approved variety Mr. Hyde inform you suavely that the committee passes on all applications. You will be advised by mail.

Your footsteps have not ceased to echo down the corridor before Mr. Hyde has dictated to his stenographer the committee's reply.

Next day when you read it and your worst fears are confirmed, you go down to the nearest bootlegger and shoot yourself.

Monday, March 15, 1933, was a sad day for the mules and the cows, the popcorn, gourds and cats. The chattel mortgage was a useful thing in its way, but it did not weigh enough.

One of the most beguiling places in the world is the fish fry. There the banker is one of the boys, slaps you on the back and laughs loudly and long. You are intrigued by his plebian ways, his hail-fellow-well-met condescension and his hiccup.

You are on hand early next morning at the bank to get a loan.

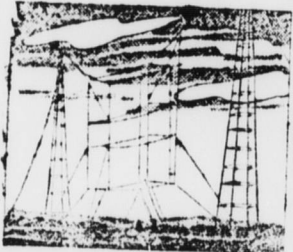

Alas, you are again doomed to a cruel disillusion. The East wind is blowing. You are invited to get the hell out of there.

But successful bankers are useful citizens. They conserve their depositors' money, pay their stockholders dividends, build affluence and opulence for themselves and usually die and leave a comfortable cash fortune because they couldn't take it with them.

How they fare when they present themselves at the Gate to Paradise, we don't know, as St. Peter, too, is particular about collateral.

Towers of Truth

Chicago, Pittsburgh, Toronto, Detroit, St. Paul, Minneapolis in more than a dozen tongues go out from the towers of General Electric stations WGBA and WGEQ, Schenectady, and WGBE, San Francisco.

1. They provide authentic war information for news stations located around the globe, entertainment in U.S. homes abroad. These G-E news wave stations...

2. ... have special antennas "pointed" at Australia, South America, China, Europe—making reception there almost as strong as from local stations.

3. They provided the only U.S. programs that reached Britain. People in conquered lands risk their lives to listen. Smuggled letters say they bring hope of release.

4. Some announcements are regular G-E production magazines, working on war work. They tell people in their native lands that America is determined on victory.

General Electric believes that its first duty as a good citizen is to be a good soldier.

Training for Victory

By Rufus T. Strohm

Dean, International Correspondence School

INDUSTRY must continue to expand if it is to produce all of the goods required for war and civilian uses. More and more trained persons will be needed to keep production lines moving. And industry is finding it increasingly difficult to carry out satisfactory training programs.

These facts are important to every individual, especially the man who may be willing to devote his spare time to preparation for a more responsible job. He undoubtedly will profit by self-help, and his employer may not be able to provide a complete training program. Training is the key to success and adequate only when it is a combination of self-study, a plant and study that will do the job. The best correspondence instruction plan provides for individual differences of temperament, capacity and aptitude. The student maintains his own particular rate of progress, without regard to the abilities or tendencies of others. Most of us have our work planned for us, but we are wasteful with our own time. If we could be half as ambitious and sincere in utilizing the hours that are spent away from the work bench, we would not need to be reminded that "there is less time than you think."
