An Interesting Picture

Walter Boyles is shown in a wide-legged attitude of supreme satisfaction, wearing a tuxedo coat and white vest, his necktie fluttering in the playful wind, while his waist line bulges like a Senator's from Pennsylvania.

And who wouldn't be happy in Mr. Boyles' shoes as he receives a check for $2500 from Will Fulp, the popular general agent of the Security Life and Trust Company. This handsome check which Mr. Boyles lays his fingers on is in payment of a matured policy which he bought 25 years ago.

And Mr. Boyles' friends are happy for him, too, and congratulate him on his foresight and fine judgement.

Will Fulp is one of the Security Life's most successful and valued agents, and has written more policies just like the Boyles policy. Last week Mr. Fulp averaged one new policy written each day of the week.

See the handsome page ad in the Reporter, showing the two gentlemen participating in such a happy transaction.

Lawrence MacRae, chairman of home defense in the county, has received copies of a handbook on "First Aid" a copy of which he desires you should have. It is very interesting as well as important. Call on Mr. MacRae for a copy.
