

SUMMARY.

The total wheat crop of Minnesota and for this year is estimated at 38,497,700 bushels, valued at $30,000,000. New York bakers have agreed to advance the price of bread. A son of W. T. Sherman, a nephew of Stonewall Jackson are in the law office of Senator Everts. New York State gave Butler 100,000 votes this year these votes will go to Cleveland. A New York man while on a street car and horses. John Sullivan swears off and says he has had enough of drinking spirits and is going to live a different life the balance of his days. Judge Thurman is in Indiana. Cleveland says he is for Cleveland tooth and nail. It is said there will be but half a crop in South Carolina this year. One of the few counties in the State has no independent candidates. No one has as much cause to be angry as those who go into them. A colored woman dies while shouting in a church at Xenia, O. A Batavia N. Y. lady commits suicide on account of the cruel treatment of her husband. A French mission-ary returned from Central Africa is of opinion that Stanley is still alive. The profits of the Western Union Telegraph for the year ending June 30th., 1888, was $7,070,751. Three Federal regiments celebrated monuments at Gettysburg Satur-

The twenty-one thousand miners who quit work October 1st. in the Illinois coal mines, were getting 49 cents a ton for mining and raising the coal to the mouth of pits. Coal is a "protected" article, yet these men are not paid wages sufficient to support them.

ROSCOE CONKING wrote a letter to a Republican friend in 1866—just one year after the great struggle—in which he charges that one James G. Blaine made between $40,000 and $50,000 out of the bounty industry of Maine afforded by the war. This was Blaine's original capital, and out of nothing but speculations in politics he has swelled that amount to something like $20,000,000.

TOWN TALK.

—Rev. Sam P. Jones Saturday night, the 20th.
—The Durham Fertilizer Co. has an exhibit at the State Fair.
—Return tickets to the State Fair, including admission, $1.30. Tickets good returning upon any train until and including Sunday.
—Our business men are reminded that all our banks will be closed to-morrow in order to afford the employees an opportunity to attend the State Fair.
—Cannot arrangements be made to run special trains to Durham during the visit of Rev. Sam P. Jones? If so, many will come who cannot otherwise do so.
—The Richmond & Danville railroad authorities have not given our business men any through freight rates over the new road. Why is this, gentlemen?
—The Alamance Gleaner says: "THE DURHAM DAILY TOBACCO PLANT is nothing if not enterprising. Last Saturday it was issued in eight page form—an Exposition edition. It was handsomely printed in colors and illustrated."
—"Durham does big things for a comparatively small town," says the Wilmington Star. So, she does, brother, and she hopes to do bigger things in the future than she has ever done in the past. Onward is our motto and onward we go.
—The special train for the State Fair passes here at 10:35 a. m., and arrives at Raleigh at 12 m. Returning, leaves Raleigh at 5:00 p. m., and arrives at Durham at 6:21 p. m. Connection is made here with the train on the Durham and Oxford road.
—What do our merchants say to the proposition to close their places of business at 7 o'clock, p. m., during the meeting under the auspices of Rev. Sam P. Jones? We want as many as possible to get as much good as possible out of these meetings, and we hope the merchants will attend them and afford their clerks an opportunity of attending. Let all places of business be closed promptly at 7 o'clock during the services.

EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

Vote for Felix Markham for sheriff. He oppressed no man while sheriff of our county.
The unavoidable postponement of Rev. Sam P. Jones' visit was a great disappointment to our citizens.
Remember that registering your name for town elections will not entitle you to vote at the coming election.
The wheat trust raises the price and reduces the size of the poor man's loaf of bread. Trusts are the bane of the Republican party.
NEWARK, N. J., goes Democratic for the first time in twenty years in Presidential year. The Democrats carry it by 525, a gain of 2,029 on the total of 1884.
The Senate is ready to adjourn, but declined to do so with the tariff question standing as it is. Mr. Allison says the Senate bill cannot be passed at this session.
NEWARK, N. J., is a great manufacturing town and as the factory vote so the town goes. It has become Democratic. This shows that Northern hands think of high prices.
From South Carolina comes the report of suicide by a negro man on account of unrequited love. This is said to be the second case on record of suicide among the colored people of the South.
There were great demonstrations among the prisoners of Sing Sing penitentiary one day last week on the pardon of a man who for twenty years had been a prisoner for a life sentence.
MATTER how often you have voted in town elections for town officers, railroad subscriptions or on the question of local option, if your name is not on the county registration books you cannot vote November 1st.
The Chief of Police shot and wounded a cadet of Wythville Academy the other night. A party of cadets were singing and cheering and he ran. He shot at them and wounded one.
SAYNER, of the Federal Circuit Court of California, has affirmed the constitutionality of the recent Chinese exclusion act, and holds that all Chinese now on the harbor, as well as those on the way from the west, must be sent back.

Mr. William Boylan's little boy is improving.
Miss Dora Matthews is on a visit to Raleigh.
Senator Ransom's family were on the noon train.
Mrs. R. I. Rogers attended the State Fair to-day.
Mr. E. C. Hackney went to the State Fair to-day.
Mrs. Geo. E. Lougee went down to Raleigh to-day.
Mr. Walton Busbee attended the State Fair to-day.
Miss Julia McCall is improving, we are glad to learn.
Maj. John W. Graham came down on the noon train.
Mrs. V. Ballard went to Raleigh on the special train this morning.
One of Mr. J. D. Goodwin's children is about well, the other is very sick.
Mr. J. S. Carr left yesterday evening on a business trip to Philadelphia.
Mr. J. J. Mackay was with Durham's delegation to the State Fair to-day.
Mr. N. B. Broughton, of Raleigh, was on the west-bound train yesterday evening.
Mrs. P. W. Vaughan is quite indisposed, we are sorry to learn. Her many friends wish her a speedy restoration.
Messrs. J. F. Slaughter, Jr., Hal Durham, and J. C. Englehard are among the marshals appointed for the State Fair.
Mr. Pat Lunsford, our Register of Deeds, and his clerk, Mr. I. A. Paschal, are both confined at home by sickness, we are sorry to hear.
Dr. William Lynch is still confined to his bed; we are sorry to learn that his fever, which his Doctor succeeded in breaking, has returned.
Mrs. Dr. J. D. Roberts, who was in declining health when she left here some days ago on a visit down the country, is improving, we are very glad to learn.
R. H. Battle Esq., and Attorney General Davidson passed down on the noon train on their return from Washington city. They hope to get the bond cases before the court some time in January. Mr. Battle says President Cleveland is perfectly confident of his re-election.

Durham—The Irrepressible.

Under this caption, Colonel L. L. Polk, of the Progressive Farmer, writes some very complimentary things about our people and our Exposition, as follows:
"North Carolina is a big State and is full of big things and one of the biggest things of its size to be found within her border, is the wide-awake city of Durham. When we speak of it we must use our biggest adjectives. When her enterprising people make up their minds to do a thing they open their safe doors, take out their pocket books and go at it with such determination and unanimity of purpose that no such word as failure enters into the calculation. The Exposition last week was a splendid success. The industrial parade would have done honor to any city and was by far the best we have ever seen in the South. We regret that we have not the space for particularizing. That liberal and public spirited gentleman, Capt. E. J. Parrish, gave up his splendid warehouse for the Exposition, the citizens gave away over $2,000 in cash premiums and the business houses, factories, warehouses and workshops closed their doors, and everybody worked in Durham style to make the occasion a success. The Progressive Farmer earnestly congratulates President Lockhart and all the management and all the citizens of Durham on their success and it desires to say that in no one thing did they display more wisdom than when they selected five young men as directors and placed upon them the responsibility of organizing the Exposition. "Come without money and without price" was the big-hearted invitation extended to the public and such a crowd has never before entered the gates of Durham."

Attention, Democrats!

Remember you cannot vote unless you are registered.
Remember if your name is upon the town registration book and not upon the county book you cannot vote. Do not be misled upon this point.
Remember, that the Radicals are encouraged by the assistance rendered them by the assassins of temperance reform and will make a strong effort to defeat the white man's ticket in Durham county. Register so that you may vote and avert such a calamity.
Remember it is not safe to take it for granted that your name is upon the book. You may be mistaken about it. Go and see about it, and if it isn't on the book have it put there and see that it is placed upon the right book.
Remember that delays are dangerous; that if you get to putting off a thing the first thing you know it is put off until it is too late. Go to-morrow and register or see that you are registered. Make it your first business for to-morrow.

Next Monday Night.

Hon. Chas. M. Stedman has an appointment to speak in Durham next Monday night, October 22d. Let arrangements for the speaking be made at once and let us give our Lieutenant Governor a cordial greeting and a large audience.

Thank You, Brother.

The Scotland Neck Democrat says: "THE DURHAM DAILY TOBACCO PLANT, has more real push, we think, than any paper in the State. Saturday's issue came out 8-page. A column of red on almost every page with like cross columns, showed how hard the paper is working for Durham. It deserves liberal support."

One of the Handsomest.

The Raleigh News & Observer, this morning, in its account of the opening day of the State Fair, says: "The exhibit of the Blackwell Durham Tobacco Company, which falls upon the view immediately upon entering the hall, is one of the handsomest and most tastily arranged exhibits in the main hall. It reflects in an eminent degree the energy and progressiveness of the Company and the enterprising men who compose it."

Court.

There was no session of the Superior Court yesterday afternoon, on account of the sickness of Judge Shipp, who has a very bad cold, but he was well enough to open court at 9:30 this morning.
During the morning session the following cases were disposed of:
State vs. Tom Lanthicum, assault with a deadly weapon, verdict not guilty.
State vs. Pendergrass and Hinton, affray, verdict guilty. Judgment, fine of $1.00 each and costs.
State vs. Moses Leathers, false pretense, submission, and judgment suspended upon payment of costs.
State vs. Daniel Watkins, larceny, (stealing chickens from Mr. Andrews.) Argument of counsel not concluded.

Sam Jones on Personal Religion.

Nashville American.

of your town, State and the world into hell, where he belongs. Kingdom within; and the Lord Jesus Christ is prince and king, reigning within the heart and soul of the true Christian people. I wish we could get everybody in Nashville to feeling right and seeing right and then we could get them to doing right and know Christ and see like Christ and love like Christ, and make them church members worth their weight in gold to their church. Christianity is Christ-liking. A heathen prince visited our country and came in at New York and went out at San Francisco. When he said good-bye at San Francisco he remarked: 'In all Christendom I have seen no man like Christ.' That was the most fearful criticism that a heathen could pronounce upon a Christian country.
"A word or two now on the practical way of living like Christ. I know Jesus Christ is divine. If nothing else would convince me his entire unselfishness would. He was the only unselfish being in this world and I know Christ was God because he was unselfish. I will tell you why. Amid all the broad acres of land in this world Jesus Christ never staked off one acre and said: 'This is mine, no trespassing here.' Amid all the mansions and dwellings of this earth Jesus Christ said: 'The foxes have holes and the birds of the air have their nests, but I have nowhere to lay my head. Amid all the banks and moneys of this world, when they

CAME TO JESUS CHRIST

for his tax he put his hands in each pocket and not a cent was there; and he said to Peter, 'Go down to the lake side and catch a fish and take the piece of silver from his mouth and pay your tax.' He sat last night with Mary and Martha and got up early this morning and ate a simple breakfast. He spoke a kind word to each one as he walked out of that home, and before he got many steps he met a poor blind man and said to lim as he rubbed clay and spittle on his eyes, 'Go wash in the pool.' The poor fellow groped his way in darkness and lifted the water from the pool to his eyes and bathed the clay from his eyelids, and then brushed the water from his eyes and looked out to see rocks and rivers and mountains that his eyes had never seen before. Jesus went on, but the crowd gathered with the blind man and said to him, 'We see your eyes dancing in your head; you can see; give the credit to Christ and say he is of the devil.' But he says, 'I know not about that, but I know that whereas I was blind, I now can see.' Jesus paid no attention to them and passed on a little further, and a poor diseased woman touched his garments and he said, 'Go thy way, thy faith has saved thee.' Further down the streets he met a deaf man and said, 'You shall hear hereafter,' and then passed on his way, doing good to this one and that one and the other one until he met a procession in the road. He halted the procession and inquired the cause, and a

POOR MOTHER SAID, WEEPING.

"My poor boy, my only support, is dead and we are going to bury him." Jesus said to the corpse, "Speak," and he lifted him up in the bier and took him by the hand and said, "Put your arms around your mother's neck, give her the kiss of love and tell her that her only son has come back to her in her old age to comfort her in the years to come." Jesus sat down by the roadside in the evening and leaning his head upon his aching arms, thought of himself the first time since the morning. "I have been thinking of the blind, the deaf, the diseased, the sick woman; my mind has been on other people." The man most like Christ is he who says glory be to God. I had rather do a good deed than to own the town, I had rather be merciful and kind than to be the richest man in Nashville, I had rather have the poor for my friends than to have the millionaires feast with me at my place of public resort.

ANY CHRISTIANS IN NASHVILLE?

"Have we got any Christians in Nashville? I never said we didn't have, but taking Christ as a Christian, have we got them? Sister, if you would live like Christ from this morning until your death, do what you think Christ would do. Blessed Christ, give us thyself and we will be like thee, and to be like him is the ultimatum of all our prayers and all our efforts.
"I have tried this morning to talk earnestly to you, and I want to hear you say you are in earnest about getting to heaven. I am in earnest about getting there, and I want to meet many of the good people of Nashville in the better world; but we have got to quit doing some things that we are doing, and do some things that we are not doing, or all of us will not get there. That is candid, so far as the Bible and my honest convictions are concerned. God help us to quit everything wrong and do everything that is right."

At the conclusion of the sermon.

in response to invitations, about a score of persons came to the front and asked the prayers of the meeting in their behalf.
