RICHMOND, VA., Nov. 30,-Our market closes this week dull and sluggish. All grades of leaf, with the exception of fine cutters and wrappers, are lower than we remember ever to have seen them at this season of the year, yet at present low prices the manufacturers show no disposition to take hold and add to their present stocks of leaf. They all say they have sufficient to last them for many months to come. Our home demand virtually amounts to nothing. There are several good orders on the market for the finer grades of wrappers and cutters. Outside of these we might class our market among the things that have been. We anticipate more demand and better prices after

"PROOF OF THE PUDDING IS CHEWING THE BAG!"

Why can Lockhart pay more for the farmer's Tobacco?

Because his expenses are much less than other houses.

He has no paid drummers or canvassers to worry the farmers.

He pays no rent on Warehouse, and thereby saves from $1,500 to $2,500 a year in rents. He has also just completed a large four-story house storing and handling one million pounds of Tobacco. He saves by this $1,000 a year.

You see from the above a saving of from $2,500 to $3,500 a year in expenses which enables him to pay more for your Tobacco. Why has his business increased so rapidly?

Because he always watches the farmers interest and always makes the biggest averages. Why is it that he doesn't advertise more?

Because he believes that the only proper plan to advertise is to pay well for the Tobacco while the sale is going on.

Does this plan take well with the farmers? I should judge that it does from the fact that he sold twice as much farmers' Tobacco this year as he did last. His sales were four million and a half pounds, but he wants to sell six million this year.

When you load your wagon drive straight to Lockhart's, and don't listen to any falsehoods that drummers and street talkers may tell.
