ALLIANCE COLUMN.

Colonel Polk Interviewed About the Indianapolis Meeting.

Something Like the Sub-Treasury Bill Seems to Work in Russia.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Post has the following interview with Col. Polk on his return to the city from Indianapolis:

Col. L. L. Polk was being congratulated at the National on his re-election to the Presidency of the National Farmers' Alliance at the late Indianapolis convention. "The partisan press, as usual, misrepresented our meeting," he said.

"Was the Indianapolis meeting harmonious?"

"Thoroughly so; and it will be productive of vast benefit. There was no effort to enter the Order into any political party. The Ocala demands were endorsed unanimously by all of the thirty-four States represented, and also by the delegates from the F. M. B. A., which practically merges it and the Alliance into one harmonious organization."

"Is there to be no political action, then next year?"

"Well, the meeting of February 22d will decide about that. It will be a grand convention, composed of twenty-five delegates at large for each order or organization represented, and one additional delegate for every 10,000 members of each order. The delegates at large will be selected by the organizations, but the others by a direct popular vote. The convention will probably be held at St. Louis or Cincinnati."

"I don't care to anticipate its action, but something of importance will come out of it. The old parties seem to be on the verge of coalescing. Read the editorials in the Democratic newspapers favoring the return of John Sherman to the Senate. Doesn't that look like coalition? I suggest that the Democrats should nominate next year Cleveland and Harrison, and the Republicans Harrison and Cleveland. In that way Wall Street would be certain of compassing its ends, for both parties are under its domination."

SEEMS TO WORK IN RUSSIA.

The Charleston News and Courier has the following despatch from Washington, D. C.: Consul General Crawford, of St. Petersburg, has sent to the department of State a report on the system now in use in Russia (resembling certain plans incorporated in the platform of the Farmers' Alliance in this country) of making advances on farmers' grain stored in ware houses or delivered to officials of the railways of the country.

Mr. Crawford says the advances on grain may be made by any railway company on account of the Imperial Bank of Russia, authorized by the ministry of finance. They must not exceed 60 per cent of the value of the grain at the nearest market place, except in cases of loans of six weeks or less, when an 80 per cent advance may be obtained. The usual interest is 6 per cent., payable in advance with further small charges on account of a sinking fund and commissions to railroads. The loans range from six months to one year, and if they are not repaid at their expiration the grain is sold at auction by the railroad company. Grain may also be sold if in danger of deterioration, or if it is feared that the value will not cover the loan and expenses of storage. The railroad companies bear the entire responsibility for the loan by the bank, and are required to meet their liabilities within seven days of settlement of a loan or auction sale of grain. In calculating the percentage of advance the cost of transportation to the point of destination is charged as part of the loan. No distinction is made between farmers and middlemen in making advances, the loan being made only on the grain.

In conclusion the consul general says: "This scheme went into effect June 14-26, 1888, and at the present day it is generally adopted throughout the country, and business is carried on under it on a very large scale. I should also add that the scheme gives great satisfaction to the farmers, very many of whom declare it has been an essential feature of successful farming in Russia."

The Alliance in Louisiana is doing as well as it can under the circumstances. Its growth has been obstructed somewhat by unavoidable circumstances, yet the brethren are in earnest, and are determined to place the Order on vantage ground in the near future. It is a difficult State to organize, and those who have stood in the front have had a hard struggle. Within the past year a State organ, The Vidette, has been started, and a most excellent paper it is, which will doubtless aid materially in the prosecution of the work of reform. The Alliance in this State are fighting the lottery swindle, and as a result are meeting with all the opposition that a moneyed corporation can bring to bear. It is expected that the Order will succeed, which will place it on a high road to permanent prosperity.

That was a very good answer given a gentleman by ex-President Elias Carr, of N. C. when the man remarked that such legislation as the Alliance proposed would make him get only 89 cents for a dollar. Bro. Carr said that wouldn't be as bad as the farmer getting only fifty cents on the dollar for products of the farm.

At a mass-meeting of 20,000 workmen held at Dammen, Norway, resolutions were passed, demanding that the government should buy the land of the country, distribute it among the laborers and advance them the money necessary to work it.

There are 12,000,000 workmen in this country adding to its wealth at the rate of $7 per day, but they get less than $1 each. Who gets the other $6?—Knights of Labor Journal.

The largest steam shovel in the world is digging out phosphate in the mines at John's Island, near Charleston, S. C. Its weight is fifty-six tons. It can dig to a depth of ten feet below its track and to a distance of forty-five feet on either side. The dipper, which can swing through two-thirds of a circle, has a capacity of 1 1/2 cubic yards, and about two dippers full can be handled in a minute.

A friendship between a rat and a dog is the latest curious story of animal attachments. The dog, who lives in Northamptonshire, England, is a sworn enemy of all rats except one, and has made a good record for ridding his master's premises of them. His favorite, however, is allowed to feed around the kennel, and when his master attempted to kill this rat a decided demonstration on the dog's part warned him to stop.

For many years the grave of Oliver Goldsmith has been sadly neglected. The English have talked a good deal about him being the "best beloved of authors," but they have done but little for his memory. But a recent letter from London says: "Oliver Goldsmith's grave in the Temple Churchyard, London, has at last been given a little attention and has been renovated and repaired, the old lettering of the inscription being recut."

Shoe Sizes.

A third of an inch gives us a full size in length of a shoe; a sixth furnishes the intermediate point between two sizes, the saving of which is desirable, if practicable; a small fraction of breadth goes a good way in securing comfort, and in girth of ball or instep an infinitesimal part of an inch is sometimes an all of freedom; a quarter of an inch is a good deal of letting down or elevating at the heel, and the difference of a sixteenth is readily perceptible at the sole. For these reasons sudden and extreme changes in size or weight of shoes are injudicious. Even the "paper sole" (which ought never to be worn in any place) should be replaced by one only a little thicker at first. After the summer shoe the proper thing is one of medium weight before the winter article is in order, and even that doesn't now mean a thick, cumbersome shoe, as it once did.

Very few shoe salesmen have a stock of patience that will hold out beyond the trying on of the sixth pair of shoes for a roman customer. The lacing or buttoning of this number is considerable labor of itself, then with each new one tried there is the usual amount of preliminary talk about style, price, etc. "Over there is a woman," says a dealer, "who has tried on nine pairs, and she feels worse than the clerk about it. She probably has a peculiarly shaped foot, and none of the shoes, thus far, feels comfortable to her. In such a case if the clerk shows weariness he loses his customer."

The alleged preference of women in quest of shoes to be waited upon by male rather than female clerks is probably due to the fact that the former can tell them more about shoes and leather than the latter. Many a pair of shoes is sold by the aid of a little judicious shoe lore, even if partly unintelligible to the buyer. In the matter of patience there isn't much difference between the sexes.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

To Temper a Watch Spring.

The country watchmaker more than his city counterpart is called upon to temper a soft spring. This, explains the Horological Review, can be done by preparing a lead bath, that is, a quantity of lead in an iron pot, raising it to such a heat that the lead is red. Into this plunge the spring, and keep it in for a sufficient length of time; then when hot enough quickly plunge into cold water or hard oil. It is necessary next to give it the right temper, which is done by dipping the spring into a small vessel of boiling linsed oil for a few seconds and then into cold oil.

WISE WORDS.

A bad advocate spoils a good cause.

The poorer a man is the oftener he goes to law.

There is nothing so sought and so little valued as advice.

When a woman hates a man it is a sign she once loved him.

Suspicion is a canker that corrodes not only the suspected but the suspicious.

Nature set the mark of her abhorrence upon egotism when she created the sexes.

The head is frequently made the scapegoat of the heart, and in fact usually suffers from its burden.

The uglier a show manager is, the more he insists upon having his picture printed on all the bills.

Women will love men they cannot respect; but with men their respect must go far in advance of their affections.

If a man is good it is either because he has to be or because he enjoys it. No man was ever good from a sense of duty.

There is one good thing that may be said about faults; it is always the man you dislike most who has the most of them.

When a woman cannot reform a man his salvation is impossible. When she can not destroy him his destruction is not possible.

Men make laws for the protection of the brute creation in order to relieve themselves of responsibility and to escape the unpleasantness involved in personal action. It is so much easier to raise the hand and point to a law when appealed to than to rise bodily and bring the offender to justice.

Most personal questions are like old-time ghosts that rise periodically to be laid again. There seems to be but one infallible method by which the ghost of a defunct question can be disposed of and waited down the river to its proper place of rest; that is, by giving it a companion on its journey—the soul of the unfortunate in whose breast the question was agitated.

Chemical Preservation of Wood.

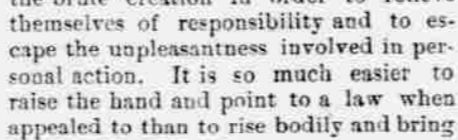

Numerous experiments have developed the fact that the application of a solution of sulphate of copper will greatly add to the life of wood. If done effectually it is calculated that it will double and treble the lasting quality of wood exposed to the weather.

The best method of preparation is to displace the sap of the wood by thorough air drying, and then exposing the wood to a bath of sulphate. Careful examination shows that it is not the mere presence of excess of the sulphate that produces the improvement; but the combination of the oxide of copper with the cellulose of the wood. For example, if linen or cotton cloth be impregnated with cupric solutions, and afterward rinsed in water until all the metal salt is removed, it will be found that the substances or materials will remain uninjured for long periods if buried in the earth. Wood thus treated becomes harder than any common dry wood, and its elasticity is unimpaired. Economy in many ways is not yet closely studied. There is no doubt a great future in the science and practice of rendering wood more resistant to climatic decay and destruction by fire.—Clay Journal.

Ranching in Florida.

Ranching though the least known, is the oldest industry in Florida. For a great number of years cattle raising for the Cuban and West Indian markets has been an occupation of the active Floridian. From Punta Gorda and Punta Rasa, ports of Charlotte harbor, about 10,000 head of cattle are annually exported to Cuba. They are not fattened, and, indeed, are only rounded up just before exportation; consequently the beef is wretched stuff, and the $14 or $15 paid for each of the heaves may be considered quite as much as they are worth. The pasture is poor and the breed still poorer; and, although there is a movement afoot to improve both, there can be little doubt that as the southern countries are settled, herds will diminish in size and the range of pasturage be greatly restricted. Ranching as a business will gradually die, and dairy farming will reign in its stead.—McMillan's Magazine.

Mistaken Gallantry.

She—"Get away, you ruff fellow! I am Madam Saudoffe, Baranum's celebrated dwarf!"

Poured a Lake Upon the Flames.

The officials of the Fire Department estimate that during last year 19,821,750 gallons of water were used by land engines in extinguishing fires. Added to this were 14,913,000 gallons of river water used by the fire boats for the same purpose, which makes a total of 34,734,750 gallons. To give an approximate idea of this enormous quantity of water one can truthfully state that to extinguish the fires that have occurred in this city during the year the department engines have used up a whole lake, larger and deeper than any of those in Central Park.—New York Herald.
