OFFICIAL ORGAN OF WAYNE COUNTY

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Sept. 29, 1892

LOCAL NEWS.

Exum, Weaver and the Lease woman! Great Scott, what a trio!

Mr. Louis Lachman, of Wilson, was in this city Tuesday on a short visit.

A cold spell struck this section Monday night, making fires feel comfortable.

Mr. J. H. Hines has resumed his clerkship at the grocery store of Mr. Jos. Isaacs.

The Board of County Commissioners and Board of Education will meet next Monday.

The cotton crop in this county for this year is estimated at about half of last year's crop.

The only marriage license issued this week was to Robert Edgerton and Miss Pollie A. Edmundson.

Mr. Jethro Howell, of this county, left Tuesday for Murphysboro, Ill., on a visit to relatives and friends.

We are glad to know that Mrs. J. E. Earp who was critically ill last week is slowly but surely improving.

Our collector will call on our city subscribers next Monday for the quarterly subscription. Please settle promptly.

The Exum-Weaver-Lease combination will speak at Rocky Mount tomorrow. We shall be on hand to hear them.

Five colored prisoners, sentenced at last term of court for various offenses, were conveyed to the penitentiary Monday by Sheriff Grant.

A lady correspondent of Mount Olive, writes to us for a "receipt" for a mince pie. This we will most willingly furnish when we receive the pie.

The Fifth Ward Fire Company was re-organized last night at Creech's store. A commodious reel house has been constructed adjoining the store.

A meeting of the Democratic County Executive Committee will be held here next Saturday to arrange the dates for a canvass of the Democratic county nominees.

The handsome display in the show windows of the Einstein Clothing Co., is the centre of attraction. We are glad to know that this new enterprise is succeeding so well.

While stepping out of doors at her home on Pine street Monday morning, Miss Dicey Bridgers had the misfortune to slip and fall, breaking her left arm, just above the wrist.

The Fall opening at the popular dry goods and millinery establishment of Messrs. M. E. Castex & Co., will take place to day and tomorrow. It will be an interesting sight, no doubt.

Last Friday, in Johnston county, J. M. Barefoot, a well-known farmer, was drowned while seining with a party of friends. His wife and six children were on the bank and saw him drown.

Next Saturday is the Day of Atonement, the most sacred of all the Jewish holidays, and in consequence thereof our Hebrew citizens will strictly observe the day by fasting and prayer, and a general suspension of business.

The sudden death of Mr. Thomas H. Stanton which occurred at his home in Brogden township, Sunday evening, in the 67th year of his age, is announced to us from Dudley. He had been married five times and his last wife survives him.

The resignation of Mr. J. M. Hollowell, registrar of the First ward, having been accepted, Mr. J. M. Swearingen, was duly appointed in his stead. The First ward will register at Hinson's store, the Second at Lee's store, the Third at L. L. Grady's store, the Fourth at the Court House, and the Fifth ward at Creech's store.

A revival is being conducted this week at Pine Forest church, Fork township, by Revs. McFarland, of this city, and Vernon, of Mount Olive. Much interest is being manifested.

The "blacks and tans" held a closed-door meeting at Williams hall Tuesday morning which was presided over by Congressman Cleatham. From what we could gather, it is almost an assured fact that a county ticket will be brought out soon.

A dead owl placed Thursday night in Mr. A. H. Daly's yard, near Seven Springs, was shot at by him five times the next morning before discovering his mistake, and now every body in the White Hall section has something to say about that owl.

The Fall opening at the millinery establishment of Mrs. S. I. Griffin, which took place Tuesday and yesterday, was a decided success. The display was superb and reflected no little credit upon Miss Pattie Foote. Crowds of admiring ladies visited the establishment.

The marriage of Mr. Owen C. McKinney, formerly of this city but now of Manchester, Va., to Miss Flora Fields, of LaGrange, took place at the residence of the bride's parents yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. They arrived here on the Newbern train to spend a few days with relatives.

A deluded Third partyite asked us Saturday concerning the report started in Saulston township that Weaver would distribute clothes while at his appointments in this State. He had fully made up his mind to go to Rocky Mount to-morrow and procure an overcoat. The information we gave him blasted his hopes.

It has been the understanding in some sections of the State that Dr. Exum is to make every man who votes for him a present of a goat, but if his expectations are realized and he gets 105,000 votes, he can't possibly do it as from his own statement he only has 2,500 goats. And we all know (?) that Dr. Exum never tells a lie, if he can help it.

It is said that Weaver will speak here one day next week. If such is the case we trust that our people will give him a respectful hearing. We all know his odious record and deep-seated hatred for the South but it is no use to create a scene. Rotten eggs are plentiful hereabouts just now, but it is to be hoped that they will not be used on tyrant Weaver.

The ten year-old son of Mr. L. B. Price, of Indian Springs township, named Cleveland, smothered to death in a pile of seed cotton Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. His little brother put some apples in the cotton, and Cleveland in his endeavor to procure them dug a hole in the cotton and worked himself in head foremost, whereupon the pile collapsed with the above fatal result.

The local Young Men's Christian Association is perfecting arrangements for a grand fair and bazaar to be held in the Arlington hotel next Thursday and Friday nights. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Association will handsomely decorate the hall and also provide all the delicacies of the season. The articles contributed will be artistically arranged and placed on sale for the benefit of the Association.

A little one-year-old son of Rev. M. T. Best died at Grifton Monday morning after a lingering illness. The remains were brought to this city Monday night and conveyed to the residence of his brother, Mr. M. J. Best, on Slocumb street. The interment was made in the family burying ground in Stony Creek township, Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. M. M. McFarland, officiating.

The registration books for the November election will be opened this morning in the various wards of the city and in every township throughout the county. This is not a new registration and only those who have changed their residence within the past two years must register anew. Those who have been twelve months in the State and ninety days in the county will be entitled to vote but must register before.

Goldsboro's Gala Day.

The greatest political demonstration ever known here was witnessed in this city Thursday, when at least five thousand people from this and adjoining counties turned out to see and hear the next Vice-President of the United States. The special train bearing Gen. Stevenson and party arrived here at 11:30 a. m. amid the booming of cannon. They were met by the Goldsboro Rifles, a committee of ladies and gentlemen, six hundred pupils of the Graded School, and two hundred mounted men, composed of Democratic township clubs in the county. The Second Regiment band, of Wilmington, headed the procession, which on its way to the speaking, was at least two miles in length. All along the line of march the streets were packed and the cheers were deafening.

Mr. Stevenson, after being introduced by C. B. Aycock, Esq., opened his speech promptly at noon. A few minutes later it began to pour down rain and the large audience had to repair to the Opera House. His speech lasted one and a half hours and was mainly in commendation of the Cleveland administration and a talk on the tariff and the Force bill. He reviewed the carpet-bag rule in this State and said the Force bill meant a return to the condition of affairs in the dark days of reconstruction. Mr. Stevenson was loudly applauded throughout and his speech reclaimed many backsliders from the Democratic faith.

The next speaker was Maj. W. M. Robbins, of Statesville, whose well-pointed remarks concerning the rotten records of the Third party leaders caused continued applause. He also paid his respects to Turn-coat Butler and implored his deluded followers "to stand by somebody who stands somewhere." He spoke for little over an hour dispensing sound Democratic doctrine interwoven with his usual witty remarks.

Gov. Holt was the next speaker. His speech was mainly an appeal to those who had strayed off from the Democratic fold, "to worship strange gods," to return and help save North Carolina from bayonet rule, negro domination and protective tariff. In conclusion he impressed it upon his hearers to vote the straight Democratic ticket from Grover Cleveland down to township constable.

At 3:15 p. m., Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson, accompanied by several members of the State Executive Committee, left for Rocky Mount, where another grand ovation was given them that night.

Weaver in His True Colors.

General Weaver was a member of the House of the 46th Congress. He posed there as the leader of the Greenback party. He thought he held the balance of power and wanted to be Speaker. He was defeated, but General Weaver made a record which he must answer for now. The Congressional Record, first session, 46th Congress, page 958, "shows up" General Weaver. The question was should the sections of the revised statutes, authorizing the use of soldiers at the polls and the surrounding of polling places with deputy marshals and supervisors, be repealed. General Weaver voted no. This candidate of the third party for President voted in favor of surrounding the polls with armed soldiers and United States Deputy Marshals. Examine the Record as indicated. It shows that even General Garfield favored the modification of this military law, but Weaver voted for it to continue in force. And such is the man a free North Carolinian is asked to vote for.

The Epitome for May, 1889, a leading medical journal of New York, says editorially, "For years Pond's Extract has been distinguished for its purity and reliability. Of unvarying strength, clear and pure as a crystal, this distillate has been more than popular. Surgeons, physicians and dentists unanimously accord it highest praises. As a styptic and astringent its particular virtues stand forth very prominently; but we believe that a large proportion of the profession fail to give it the attention it deserves. Its antiphlogistic property renders it peculiarly useful in inflammatory surgical affections, as erysipelas, diffuse swellings, strains, sprains, bruises and the like. In simple inflammatory affections of the throat, ulcerative tonsillitis and stomatitis it acts promptly and pleasantly. As an embrocation in muscular and subacute rheumatism it affords great relief."
