Our Fall and Winter Stock

IS NOW READY, and is generally conceded that we have outdone ourselves this season in the attractiveness of

Our Dress Goods Department, to which our shelves and counters will bear testimony. They are loaded with all the NOVELTIES of the season, all of which goods will be sold at Lower Prices than ever before known in the history of the Dry Goods trade in Goldsboro.

Our Stock of Clothing is Immense.

Years of experience have taught us where to buy, how to buy and what to buy. When you see the display we are making in this line you will promptly admit that it is easily ahead of anything of the kind we ever attempted. The prices are as captivating as the styles. You will be astonished at our prices in comparison with other clothing dealers, and you will be equally surprised at the fine workmanship of our garments.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS

of every kind, and the most varied stock ever shown here, at astonishing low prices. All the goods we sell are strictly reliable, and in no instance will we be undersold in any line of goods we carry. We make

THE MERRY SIDE OF LIFE.

STORIES THAT ARE TOLD BY THE FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Both Happy—Who Knows?—One Admirable Trait—stereotyped—Retrenched Too Soon—Etc., Etc.

In search of fortune for my love I started off to roam; We're married now, and bless our lot—I got a girl abroad, she got The clerk I left at home.—New York Herald.

WHO KNOWS?

Tom—"Whose umbrella is that you are carrying?" Jack—"I'm sure I don't know. It's one you lent me the other evening."—Yankee Blade.

STEREOTYPED.

She—"Dear me, this is so sudden. Give me time to think." He—"Well, perhaps I have been a little impatient, but I know you were getting impatient."—New York Herald.

UNEXPECTED.

Frank Frankleigh—"Yes, Miss Antique, to be frank with you—" Miss Antique (with a chirp)—"Oh, Mr. Frankleigh, of course you may be Frank with me—but this is so sudden."—New York Weekly.

ONE ADMIRABLE TRAIT.

"Mr. Goslinghead is very smart, don't you think?" "No. Why he never even opens his mouth." "But that's just where he's so smart!"—New York Sun.

ACCEPTED HIS OFFER.

"Can't I sell you that monkey, sir?" said the fancier. "No, indeed, you can't. I'd give ten dollars not to have him." "Thank you kindly, sir. Where shall I send the bill?"—Judge.

LUCK OF A STAY-AT-HOME.

Rosalie—"How did that awfully plain girl make such a good marriage?" Grace—"Why, she stayed at home one summer, and every man she ever met called there, because everybody else was away."—Frank Leslie's Weekly.

RETRENCHED TOO SOON.

Clara—"Why did you break your engagement with George? He used to bring you such delicious candy!" Dora—"Yes, used to; but since I accepted him, he's been bringing me the twenty-five cent kind."—New York Weekly.

TWO SIDES TO THE STORY.

Jaggles—"When his wife died the old fellow fell in love with his housekeeper. His family looked upon it as a domestic affliction." Waggles—"While the housekeeper, no doubt, regarded it as a master passion."—New York Sun.

PREPARING FOR CONTINGENCIES.

"One question more," said Van Steek, after selecting an engagement ring. "Well, sir?" replied the jeweler. "If this engagement should result in marriage, I suppose I could have this stone taken out and a genuine diamond of the same size put in?"—Puck.

A LOVELY HOUSE.

Little Boy—"Oh, ma, this new house is just lovely. Me an' Sis has been havin' such fun." Mother (who has followed the last load of furniture in a drenching shower)—"I am glad you like it." Little Boy—"It's grand! The roof leaks all over, an' me an' Sis has been playin' Noah's Ark."—Good News.

NOT EXACTLY THE SAME.

Mr. Hucklestep (at the reception)—"I am surprised to see you looking so thin, Mr. Leezer. My son George spoke of you the other day as feeling quite rugged." Miss Hucklestep (so artlessly)—"Why, no, mamma. Don't you recollect. What George said was that Mr. Leezer told him he was feeling pretty rocky."—Chicago Tribune.

TOO BUSINESSLIKE.

"I tell you," he said despondently, "women are altogether too businesslike nowadays." "What's the matter?" "I proposed to the heiress yesterday." "Did she accept you?" "No. She took out her notebook, wrote my name and address in it and said she would consider my application."—Washington Post.

SEMI-COMIC.

"I heard a queer story about that mountain over yonder from your native driver to-day." "What was that?" "A young lady and gentleman went out for a walk on that hill; they went up higher and higher, and—never came back again." "Dear me! what became of the unhappy pair?" "They went down on the other side."—

THE LORD AND THE LADDIE.

At a small lock, about twenty-five miles from the town of Aberdeen, a certain Lord B. was watched while fishing by a shepherd for a period of over two hours, during which time his Lordship did not catch a single fish. Getting rather annoyed, he addressed the boy: "I say, my little lad, do you know if there are any fish in the pond?" "Well, yer Lordship," the boy replied, "if there is any they must be awfully sma', 'cause there wis nae watter there tae it rained yesterday."—Boston Globe.

HE KNEW HIM.

The tailor never did know how he managed to get the young man to pay his bill, but it came to pass in two or three years that he did, and one day, perhaps a month after that happy event, the young man came to see him.

"What will you charge me," he inquired, confidently, "for a suit of clothes? Something real nice, don't you know?"

The tailor calculated for a minute or so.

"Well," he said, "I guess about $375."

"What?" and the young man's mouth flew open.

"About $375," repeated the tailor calmly.

The young man leaned up against a pile of cloth to regain his composure.

"How much for cash?" he inquired in a subdued tone.

The tailor brightened up.

"Oh, about $40 or $50," he said cheerfully, and the young man walked out.—Detroit Free Press.

WAS TAKEN WITH THE FAMILY.

An excellent story of one man who did not believe that marriage was a failure is told in Missouri at the expense of the once famous Governor of that State, Claiborne F. Jackson, who, so the story runs, married five sisters. After one wife had died and been mourned he married the second of the sisters, who also died. He then courted and won the third sister and she also followed the first two. He gained the fourth sister with the same unhappy result, and then applied to his many time, or to be exact, fourfold father-in-law for the fifth and last of his girls. Some of his affluities were widows ere he transformed them from weeping Niobes to willing brides, but a little thing like that could not deter this persistent Benedict. The father of these girls was very deaf, and when the request for the hand of the fifth was made, the following dialogue is reported to have passed between them:

"I want Lizzie!"

"Eh?"

"I want you to let me have Elizabeth."

"Oh, you want Lizzie, do you; what for?"

"For my wife."

"For life?"

"I want to marry her."

"Oh, yes, just so; I hear you, boy."

"I'm mighty glad you do," muttered the Governor.

"Well," responded the old man, "you needn't holler so that the whole county can hear you. Well, yes, you can have her. You've got the whole of them now, my lad; but, for goodness sake, if anything happens to the poor, misguided girl, don't you come back after the old woman. You hear me now?"

And the Governor promised solemnly that he would not.—New York Herald.

SCIENTIFIC AND INDUSTRIAL.

The average man has 2,304,000 pores in his skin.

About eight species of whale are known on the California coast.

An opal weighing one pound and a quarter has recently been taken out of an Idaho mine.

The Krupp works in Essen, Germany, contain 2542 furnaces. These consume 1665 tons of coal and coke daily.

A horse will eat in a year nine times his own weight, a cow nine times, and an ox six times and a sheep six times.

In speaking of the solidification of a body by cooling, Professor Dewar says that water can be made to become solid by the evaporation of a quarter of its weight.

San Francisco, Cal., has an earthquake-proof hotel. It is constructed of iron and in the form of two hollow squares, one within the other, arranged so as to brace each other.

It is said that a natural deposit of a material capable of use as a polishing powder for metals has been discovered near Waleha, New South Wales, and that it is being introduced on the market.

Not earthworms but ants are the soil-tillers of parts of Sumatra Africa. Ant hills exist by millions, each covered by soil so fertile that a common saying is that an ox can be pastured on an ant hill.

Sleeping in the light of the moon when it is near the full is said to be injurious, especially near the tropics. It has no effect where the direct rays do not fall on the head or eyes of the sleeper.

Among birds that have the power of imitation the parrot is the best; but, as a matter of fact, its voice is decidedly inferior to that of the mynah, a species of sterling. Curiously enough, the male bird speaks in a high, clear tone, like that of a child, while the female has a gruff voice.

An English scientist has made a calculation about the time it will take to fill the world with all the people it will hold. The present population of the globe is supposed to be about 1,457,000,000, and he estimates that the maximum of the inhabitants that can be sustained on the entire land surface of the earth is 5,941,000,000, and that this figure will be reached A. D. 2972.

The cableway at the Deer Park group of mines near Descanso, Cal., was broken in a singular manner recently. It has a single span of 4450 feet. The tension is twenty ton, and the loads are 120-pound sacks of ore from the mine on the mountain side to the mills below. Just after an extra hard shake in the series of earthquakes there it parted. It is supposed that the vibrations, coming from each end of the line, met in the centre and caused the break.

Castle Garden, New York City, well known as a depot of immigration, is to be transformed into an aquarium at a cost of $150,000. There will be a tank for smaller fish, and a special feature in the shape of large pools or ponds for sharks and other large, dangerous fish.
