Deal gently with a loving heart. Let no rough touch be given: Remember that its minor chords Will send their notes to Heaven. Remember that a loving heart Can soon be sadly broken By cold neglect and cruel deeds And bitter words oft spoken. Deal gently with a loving heart: There emass not from above A puwer, richer, nobler strain Than the melody of Love. Then gently touch its every note With Love's own sweet caress.

Deal Gently,

And music low and soft and pure Will ever come to bless. Deal gently with a loving heart Whose thoughts are only thine. And o'er your path throughout life's The star of Love will shine. Let no cold thoughts or ernel vows. By loving lips be spoken; Remember that a fond true heart Can be by coldness broken. Oh! take a fond true loving heart As a treasure rich and rare.
