Is Life Worth Living?

That depends upon the liver. If the liver is inactive the whole system is out of order—the breath is bad, digestion poor, head dull or aching, energy and hopefulness gone, the spirit is depressed, a heavy weight exists after eating, with general despondency and the blues. The liver is the homoeopoeic of the health; and a harmless, simple remedy that acts like Nature, does not constitute afterwards or require constant taking, does not interfere with business or pleasure during its use, makes Simmons Liver Regulator a medical perfection.

Is Life Worth Living?

There is much in life to live for—What seems less is often gain; Pleasure's rise may grow and blossom, In the sterile soil of pain.

There is much in life to live for, If we live it as we should, In the true, the changeless trusting, In the evil finding good.

There is much in life to live for, If we strive but to continue Our ambition to the gaining, Of the deathless and divine.

There is much in life to live for, Much that will make full amends For the losses, ills and trials, Met in God's wise providence.

There is much in life to live for, Much that will make full amends For the losses, ills and trials, Met in God's wise providence.

There is much in life to live for, In whose thorn-crown's sacred splendor Earth's saddest crowns grow dim.

There is much in life to live for, Yet even death no victory wins, For when life's last breath has left us, Then our true life begins.

Why There Are Old Maids.

One cause for so many old maids is due to the girls themselves, says the New England House Wife. What young man of the middle class cares to marry a girl who would let her father wear a coat with buttons of gold and linen collar that is torn and ragged? Such a girl does not deserve a husband, and she will be likely to join the grand army of old maids.

If there be anything on earth the young men fight shy of, it is a slovenly girl. The father or the brother is the evidence, and when you see them walking to their work with their clothes torn and looking like men who had to put up with a slack wife, mother or grown up daughter and sister, you need look for nothing better if you marry into that family.

You know a lazy girl or two of this kind, don't you? Think of those you can single out, two or three girls this article will hit. If so, for their own sake send this to them. Let them do a little plain sewing, and promise that hereafter their father or brothers will not walk the streets ragged and battered, a disgrace to them and an indication that they are too lazy to be the wife of any good young man who has to work for a living to make a home, and needs a loving, industrious helpmate to share the joys and burdens of life with him.

What is Wealth?

Does wealth consist in money, houses, lands, bank stocks, railroad bonds, etc., alone? We think not. The young man starting in life with no money but with good digestion, good sleep, good health, and with ability to work in some profitable employment, has what the aged capitalist would be glad to exchange all his millions for. What compensation is money for sleepless nights and painful days or the misconduct of dissipated children?

Which brings the greater happiness—the glitter, show, jealousies and falsity of fashionable life, or the heartfelt friendships which prevail so largely in the homes of the industrious poor? In how many of the palaces of our millionaires will you find greater happiness in the parlor than in the kitchen? How many millionaires will tell you that they are happier now than when starting in life without a dollar?

On the tops of mountains we find rock, and ice, and snow. It is down in the valleys that we find the vineyards. Let no man envy those richer than himself until taking all things into account—age, health, wife, children, friends—he is sure he would be willing to exchange.

Tough On the Physician.

The Greensboro Record has an amusing story of a negro man who was tried at the last term of Rockingham criminal court for stealing a shirt from a prominent physician of Reidsville. The case was pretty plain and it looked as if the defendant was about to get in for it, so he went on the witness stand in his own behalf. He stated that he did have the doctor's shirt on his back on the Sunday specified, but that he did not steal it—only borrowed it.

"Why," said he, "when I lived in Greensboro I worked for a doctor there, and every Saturday night I took his shirt and wore it on Sunday and on Monday I put it out to wash, and he never 'kicked' up no fuss about it. I didn't think my new boss would care about such a thing."

He was acquitted, but before he came from the witness-box Colonel Morehead whispered to the Solicitor to ask him what doctor in Greensboro he referred to and he answered promptly, but the Record would not give his townsman's name.

Avoid Cosmetics.

Ladies, slim cosmetics! Most of the common preparations contain poisonous chemicals which exert a deleterious action on the skin; and at the best no paint, powder or wash can supply the natural beauty of a fine complexion. They are palatable and a palatable food is an abomination. Pure rain water and good health are essentials to a healthy skin. The former is plentiful; the latter can be regained and kept by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which purifies the blood, removes pimples, blackheads and roughness, strengthens impaired digestion, and wards off pulmonary diseases. Without pure blood you cannot have a clear complexion.

ARP IN THE SURF.

He Chaperones the Ladies to the Island Where They Don Bathing Suits.

I had the honor of chaperoning ten women to the island yesterday and they were all lovely. I thought that I knew them all and I did until they came out of the undressing house transformed and transmogrified into water nymphs, and then I didn't know anybody, not even my own lifelong wife. I stood off at a respectful distance and ruminated. As they toyed and struggled with successive waves and screamed and shouted with hilarious glee over the older ones renewed their youth like the eagles and bid defiance to rolling years and rolling billows. Suddenly the dream of my youth came over me and I wandered away down beyond the curve of the beach and all alone in my primeval glory I laved and bathed in the green waters of the gulf of Mexico. It carried me back to the rude and erudite frolics of my boyhood when the springboard and the mill pond were my delight. Half a century has passed since I saw that mill pond, but it is there yet, and the water is still falling over the dam and singing the same old song—

"Men may come and men may go, But I go on forever."

The sea, the gulf, the lakes and rivers and brooks are the only living moving things in all nature that suffer no change from the iron hand of time. Such as they were at creation's dawn they are now. But I am not as brave as I used to be, and so I kept within easy reach of a long projecting rock that reached out some twenty feet in the water, and rose and fell with the waves. I was afraid of the undertow and grabbed the friendly rock as oft as the breakers came. Oh, it was glorious. But all pleasures must have an end and in due time the ten and I were invested in those usual garments of which we had been divested, and after picking up a few shells departed these coasts homeward bound. The ladies sang "Life on the Ocean," and "Go Tell Aunt Sallie," and "Who Killed Cock Robin," and other watery choruses, when suddenly a hat with gray ribbons flying took a notion to sail away into the vessel's wake, and we thought it was gone for good, but the pleasant Swedish boatman smiled and said: "I find them again," and so he had to round to and startboard and larboard and ship aloft and do other nautical things to get it. It was a happy afternoon and the five little children were the happiest of the lot.

A Fatal Railroad Accident.

A terrible collision occurred between two freight trains on the Carolina Central railroad Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, three miles this side of Rockingham, whereby Engineer Alexander Wells lost his life and Engineer G. L. Watson was fatally injured. Engineer Wells was on the east-bound freight, Engineer Watson on an extra going west. The latter, instead of waiting at Rockingham for the regular train, which had the right-of-way, pulled out, it is supposed forgetting that the regular was almost due. There is a sharp curve in the track, three miles from Rockingham, and at this point the two men met their doom. Each saw the other's headlight as he rounded the curve, too late to avert the horrible catastrophe.

The firemen jumped, thereby saving their lives. The two engines telescoped to the cylinder heads, and the tender of one was driven through a box car. Engineer Wells jumped but was so hurt in jumping that he was unable to move, and was scalded to death by bursting pipes. The engines and nine cars were completely demolished. It took two engines yesterday to pull the collided engines apart. Engineer Wells was from Laurinburg, and Engineer Watson from Raleigh. The remains of the dead engineer were taken yesterday to his home. Engineer Watson was not expected to live through last night. His skull was fractured, his leg hurt, and he was injured internally. Engineer Wells had been with the road 10 years. He was at all times faithful and was highly esteemed on the road.

LATER—Watson died Friday night. His remains were taken to Raleigh for interment.

Their Marriage a Business Transaction.

A wedding combining romance and business occurred at Morgantown, W. Va., Monday, at which Ephraim Walters, of Uniontown, Pa., aged 82 years, and Mrs. Mary Madera, aged 69 years, of Morgantown, were married. The affair was more like the completion of a business transaction than a wedding.

Walters' third wife died about two years ago; at that time the old man was very feeble and had to walk with a cane. He had then had a stroke of paralysis and was badly crippled. His friends thought he would soon follow his wife. To their surprise he became very sprightly and soon threw away his cane. Not more than six months elapsed until he began to talk of matrimony again. His children discouraged the idea as much as possible, but he was determined to get married. After looking about and finding no one to suit him, he placed an advertisement in the papers, offering $500 to any woman who would find him a respectable wife. He also offered $5,000 to any woman who would agree to marry him.

Mrs. Madera heard of the offer and a correspondence was arranged between them. She agreed to marry him for a certain sum of money, made payable to her at the time of the marriage. A satisfactory arrangement was made and the wedding day set. Mr. Walters came to Morgantown Monday morning, and after placing himself in the hands of a barber for an hour, met his bride, then got a marriage license and signed the written agreement, which makes her the possessor of $5,000. The groom is very wealthy, and the bride has kept a millinery store in Morgantown for a number of years.

Two Narrow Escapes from Death.

P. W. Beck, head miller in J. A. Kennedy's Mill, on Monday, while trying to put a belt on while the machinery was in motion, was caught by a revolving shaft that whirled him around in a space 18 by 25 inches, at a speed of 120 revolutions per minute. It tore all of his clothes off him, and threw him out with only a part of his hide; but all of his bones.

John T. Koonts, fireman at Michard Mills, happened to a painful accident last Tuesday. He was under the mill soaping the drum on the line shaft, to keep the belt from slipping, when his arm was caught under the belt, throwing him over the shaft and striking his head against the sharp edge of a sill on the ground cutting a frightful gash in his forehead. There was a hook to hang the belt on when not in use, which caught in his mouth tearing it very badly. His body and limbs were also bruised. Fortunately no bones were broken.

National Capital Matters.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7, 1894. When the Democratic senatorial caucus adjourned this afternoon at 5 o'clock those who had been endeavoring to get some action that would make it possible to pass the so-called pop-gun tariff bills and strike the differential duty of one-eighth of a cent a pound on refined sugars from the sugar schedule, gave up all hope. No organized effort will be made to push these bills, nor will there be any cloture rule offered in the Senate and the endorsement of the Democratic caucus. This much was determined by the refusal of the caucus to act affirmatively upon propositions which had in view both cloture and the passage of the pop-gun bills. After a long discussion the caucus did, however, agree upon certain measures of proposed legislation to be presented for the consideration of the Senate and pushed to completion if possible. These subjects are as follows:

A bankruptcy bill; a bill for the construction of the Nicaragua canal; bills for the admission of the Territories of Arizona and New Mexico, and the consideration of the House joint resolution providing for the election of United States Senators by the people. Also such other measures, including appropriation bills, as the "steering committee" may deem important. This committee was instructed to report to the caucus the order in which these subjects of legislation shall be considered. While the committee has not discussed the matter fully, it is known that the bankruptcy bill will be selected as the first measure to be taken up in the Senate, it having already passed the House and been reported to the Senate with several amendments; and after a full discussion of the subject of cloture this afternoon it was seen that the sentiment of the majority was against it and Mr. Daniel withdrew the resolution he had offered, and for the time being, at least, there will be an end to the discussion along that line.

So far as the supplemental tariff bills are concerned, it was admitted that they could not be passed, for the Republicans during a short session could easily talk any measure to death. These bills do not appear in the list of subjects agreed to. This conclusion was reached at the session of the caucus Tuesday and they were not referred to to-day. The recommendations of the President and Secretary Carlisle were only touched upon in an informal manner. The recommendations were neither endorsed nor condemned. The finance committee was asked to prepare such a currency bill as they deemed best and report it at an early day, and the steering committee was instructed to make it one of the favored subjects for legislation. The bankruptcy bill was the only one upon which a vote was taken, the result being 21 to 4 in favor of pushing it through—a vote so nearly unanimous that no record was made of it.

The other matters were incorporated in the order of business without objection. Those absent from the caucus were Senators Butler, Gray, Fry, Brice, McPherson, Hill, Mitchell and Blackburn. All of these are out of town except Mr. McPherson, who is ill. Mr. Voorhes remained but a few minutes and then went up town to one of the departments. In the previous caucus he told his colleagues very plainly how fruitless any effort to pass the tariff bills would be, and having expressed himself fully and freely he did not appear to take any interest in the discussion to-day. There are two or three Democratic Senators who declare their intention of calling up the tariff bills in the Senate, but a member of the caucus, in a position to speak with authority, says that this will not be countenanced by the party. The whole situation has been canvassed from every point of view and the final, irrevocable conclusion reached that there can be no "tinkering" with the bill that went into effect on the 28th of August last, for the first effort in that direction will be the commencement of a contest that will imperil other matters in which the party is vitally concerned and which the leaders hope to see enacted into law before the end of this session.

Representative Woodard has the largest increased majority—3,000—of any man elected to the Fifty-fourth Congress. It is a universally entertained belief, contrary to facts, that his is a black district. The census of 1890 shows a black majority of 226, but the last registration shows 1,000 white majority.

In Wake county, one of the bondsmen of one of the newly-elected county officers when asked for his schedule, replied that he had a piece of land worth $800 and that he was able to let it for $800, and that he was able to qualify for $1,000. He had added the value of his farm to the amount of his mortgage and thought he was worth $1,200.

A white woman named Emma Clark and a colored boy, David Taylor, were jailed at Charlotte Saturday, on the charge of arson. The woman, insured her furniture a few days ago for $1,500 and before leaving for Statesville hired the negro to set the house on fire. Wake county has again a Democratic sheriff. J. P. H. Adams, Rep., being unable to give bond, the county commissioners declared the office vacant and elected Sheriff M. W. Page, the present incumbent. In Cumberland county, G. W. Lawrence, the treasurer-elect, declined to make the bond, and asked the Board to appoint J. B. Troy, the present Democratic treasurer, and his opponent at the election.

Catarth Cures by Thousands by Dr. Hartman.

The symptoms of chronic catarth vary according to the stage and exact location of the disease. The first stage of catarth of the nose and head produces discharge from the nose, sneezing, pain in the eyes and forehead, weak, and sometimes watery eyes, occasionally loss of memory. In the last stage the discharge ceases, and dry, offensive scabs form in the nose; polypi growths sometimes form in one or both nostrils, and the pain in the head and eyes is much less. Unless something is done to prevent the catarth will follow the mucous membrane into the lungs, where it will be followed by cough, night sweats, rapid loss of flesh, and the other dread symptoms of consumption.

To all such people Dr. Hartman's treatment comes as a great boon. It is only necessary to send name and address to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and complete directions for first month's treatment will be sent free. Not only is it more successful in curing catarth than the treatment of the catarth specialists, but it is in the reach of every person in this land. A medicine which is the principal part of Dr. Hartman's treatment, known as Pe-ru-na, can be bought at any store, and is a remedy without equal for catarth in all forms, coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption, and all climatic diseases of winter. Each bottle is accompanied with complete directions for use.

Religion Turned His Head.

Ransom Reynolds, of Honeycutts, suddenly became demented a few days ago. He had been attending the revival meetings of Rev. A. B. Crumpler and became considerably worked up over the doctrine of sanctification. His mind has not been accounted strong for some time, and it is supposed that his attendance upon these religious services so excited him as to unbalance his tottering reason. He was brought to Clinton last week and confined in jail until Tuesday, when he was carried to the State Hospital at Raleigh.

Religion Turned His Head.

Ransom Reynolds, of Honeycutts, suddenly became demented a few days ago. He had been attending the revival meetings of Rev. A. B. Crumpler and became considerably worked up over the doctrine of sanctification. His mind has not been accounted strong for some time, and it is supposed that his attendance upon these religious services so excited him as to unbalance his tottering reason. He was brought to Clinton last week and confined in jail until Tuesday, when he was carried to the State Hospital at Raleigh.

FREE HOME TREATMENT.

Catarth Cures by Thousands by Dr. Hartman.

The symptoms of chronic catarth vary according to the stage and exact location of the disease. The first stage of catarth of the nose and head produces discharge from the nose, sneezing, pain in the eyes and forehead, weak, and sometimes watery eyes, occasionally loss of memory. In the last stage the discharge ceases, and dry, offensive scabs form in the nose; polypi growths sometimes form in one or both nostrils, and the pain in the head and eyes is much less. Unless something is done to prevent the catarth will follow the mucous membrane into the lungs, where it will be followed by cough, night sweats, rapid loss of flesh, and the other dread symptoms of consumption.

To all such people Dr. Hartman's treatment comes as a great boon. It is only necessary to send name and address to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and complete directions for first month's treatment will be sent free. Not only is it more successful in curing catarth than the treatment of the catarth specialists, but it is in the reach of every person in this land. A medicine which is the principal part of Dr. Hartman's treatment, known as Pe-ru-na, can be bought at any store, and is a remedy without equal for catarth in all forms, coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption, and all climatic diseases of winter. Each bottle is accompanied with complete directions for use.
