HAIR HELP

So many persons have hair that is stubborn and dull. It won't grow. What's the reason? Hair needs help just as anything else does at times. The roots require feeding. When hair stops growing it loses its luster. It looks dead.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

acts almost instantly on such hair. It awakens new life in the hair bulbs. The effect is astonishing. Your hair grows, becomes thicker, and all dandruff is removed. And the original color of early life is restored to faded or gray hair. This is always the case.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

If you have used Ayer's Hair Vigor, you will find it so truly superior to all other hair growths that you will want to keep a supply on hand. It is not only a hair restorer, but a scalp and skin conditioner. It will remove all dandruff, itching humors, and restore the scalp to its normal condition.

M. J. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., U.S.A.

To-Day.

Today, while the sun shines, Work with a will; With all your duties, With patience fulfill.

Today love the goodness That's better than gold. And the truthseeker, whose value Can never be told.

Today hold the kindness That thinks evil never; He who is kindly-to-day is, Is kindly forever.

Live to-day, in the beauty Of earth, sky and sea; For beauty fails never, To you or to me.

Today scatter brightness Wherever you go; Gladness comes with the giving; Waves grow as they flow.

Today is the summit Of day and life, The path of endeavor, The arena of strife.

Today is ours only: Work, work to-day; There is no tomorrow; But only to-day.

The Waste of Public Money.

In an article on "The Waste of Public Money," published in the Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia, former President Grover Cleveland sounds a warning to the people against the dangers that lie in reckless extravagance in public expenditures. Among other things he says: "If the aggregate mass of our people are at all blameworthy on account of the present advanced stage of public profligacy it is largely because they overlooked and tolerated its small beginnings, when at all times they should have been vigilant and uncompromising. A self-ruling people, responsible for every misapplication of their government, should above all things constantly remember that nothing multiplies itself more abundantly than national extravagance, and that neither an individual nor a popular government can easily correct or check habits of waste.

"While easygoing indifference and toleration produce bitter fruit, an infinitely more dangerous and threatening condition is presented by the fact that many of our citizens have passed beyond the stage of mere indifference and, by accepting the bribes of selfish and personal advantage which public waste and extravagance offer, have been stimulated to find excuses for their existence. This is disclosed in the manner in which familiarity with these pernicious agencies, and especially participation in their spoils, dulls the popular conscience and distorts the people's conception of good citizenship.

"Those elevated by the people to public places are apt to subject themselves to any contagion among the people—even to the surrender of individual conviction and the abandonment of individual conception of sworn duty. No elected official cares to invite political martyrdom by refusing to obey the behests of the influential constituents, and conscientious scruples are overruled by the plea that a public servant must be obedient to the will of those he represents.

"Another astounding occasion of public waste and extravagance has grown out of the abuse of our nation's tender regard for those who suffered in its defense. Through the efforts of unprincipled pension agents and attorneys a lavish administration of extremely liberal general pension laws has resulted in numerous undeserved allowances, and these have been largely increased by thousands of pensions granted by special laws to those who have failed for want of merit under general statutes. These beneficiaries have thus learned that earnest support of a party leader, or a pledge of partisan return for especial Congressional favor may be relied on as promising substitutes for pensionable disability.

"The lessons of extravagance and paternalism must be unlearned; economy and frugality must be reinstated; and the people must exact from their representatives a watchful care for the general welfare and a stern resistance to the demands of selfish interests if our government is to be an enduring and beneficent protection to a patriotic and virtuous people."

A Business Directory.

There is no danger that a business announcement will fail to attract attention because it appears in a newspaper which contains a great deal of advertising. On the contrary, people look for information to the newspaper which is used by many business men. The value of every advertisement in THE HEADLIGHT is greater because of the number of advertisers. THE HEADLIGHT'S advertising columns are regarded by the people as a business directory.

Be sure you are right, and then you won't get left.

A Good Cough Medicine.

It speaks well for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy when druggists use it in their own families in preference to any other. "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past five years with complete satisfaction to myself and customers," says Druggist J. Goldsmith, Van Etten, N. Y. "I have always used it in my own family both for ordinary coughs and colds and for the cough following grippe, and find it very efficacious." Sold by M. E. Robinson & Bro., J. F. Miller's Drug Store, Goldsboro; J. R. Smith, Mt. Olive.

LABOR'S LONG WAR.

Arp Wants to Know When the Conflict Will Come to an End.

Labor and Capital. When will the long protracted struggle cease. A way back in history there was a war that lasted thirty years, and this war has lasted longer than that and seems to grow more bitter as the years roll on. In the good old times it did not affect the south, but like a pestilence it spreads and there seems to be no remedy. All of the women—most all of the men, outside of the capitalists—have heretofore sympathized with the toilers in their demands for less work and better pay. They have bitterly denounced the heartless managers who would wear out the life of a child before it gets grown—who would keep them caged in factories from early morn till lamp-light, with not an hour for recreation. No May day, no play day, no ball game, nor marbles, nor fishing, nor frolic of any kind for the boys; no hunting wild flowers or blackberries for the girls, no youthful pleasures, no recess, no Saturday; but from year to year it's "Work—work—work, in the dull December light. And work—work—work, when the weather is warm and bright."

How sad it is to see them toil as if in a treadmill, and to hear them sigh as they glance from the windows of their daily prison, and with longing eyes, whisper, "Oh! but to breathe the breath of the woods and flowers sweet. With the sky above my head and the grass beneath my feet."

And this is sad, pathetic, and but for heartless legislation and legislators, would have long since been remedied. It is the good side of human nature that arouses sympathy for the poor, and Leigh Hunt never wrote a sweeter line than that of Abou Ben Adhem's plea for entrance into Paradise: "Write me as one who loves his fellow man."

In ruminating about the wants of the poor I have often thought that the greatest want and the best boon to a toiler was a home. Home—one of the sweetest words in any language. Its best definition is in the heart, for language fails to express it. Indeed there are some languages that have no word for it—no synonym. The French has none and substitutes only an abode or dwelling place. The best definition is found in the old Sanskrit, the sacred dialect of the Hindus and Persians. The word is Kshema, and means a permanent place of rest and security. Would that all the poor, all the toilers, all the women and children in the land had that—a permanent abode—a place of rest and security. No landlord to call for rents—no expiring lease, no uncertain title; but a home where the good wife can plant her own vines and adorn her own yard with flowers and feel that they are hers and her children's. Why didn't Mr. Carnegie think of this and give homes to the poor, instead of books. Fifty millions of dollars would have given comfortable homes to one hundred thousand poor families—and given a permanent place of rest and security to at least half a million of the toilers. The time was when a Methodist preacher was not entitled to a home no more than a Roman Catholic priest was to a wife. He must abide for a year in any house that was cheap and vacant. He must be the exemplar of humanity and unselfishness, for they said that the Savior was born in a manger and his softest bed was hay. But there is some more scripture that demands the best of everything for the priesthood, and that says: "Touch not My anointed, and do prophets no harm."

A better civilization now provides a good comfortable parsonage in almost every town and village and I am glad of it, not so much for sympathy for the preacher, but for his good, long suffering and patient wife and her growing children. Woman loves her home and loves to adorn it with fruits and flowers. When the Methodists get strong enough to build a parsonage they should not stop at the finishing of the house, but have a permanent committee of ladies to plant vines and roses and make grave walks, and establish a garden with such things that do not pass away and perish with the year. Plant fruit trees, make an asparagus bed and don't forget the strawberries and raspberries, and here and there plant some of the old time garden herbs, such as sage and balm and parsley and calamus for a sweet breath and mint for the children's couch. Fix the place up for a home and when the good wife leaves it, of course, she will leave it clean and leave it with regret, and her successor will be happy and talk about her to the neighbors. If I was a bishop I would allude to this at the general conference, and lay much stress on what John Wesley said, that "Cleanliness was next to Godliness." That is not in the Bible, but might have been and done no harm.

Yes, the kindhearted people have generally been sympathizing with Financial and Commercial.

New York, June 18, 1901.

Increased activity in the retail distribution of reasonable merchandise and a decided improvement in crop conditions throughout the country have been features of the business situation during the past week. In the industrial field troubles have caused some slackening of activity in a few departments, but there has been no serious interruption of work in important branches. The possibility of extending labor strikes is, however, a cause of uneasiness in some industries. The improvement noted a week ago in the textile trade has been maintained, and the situation in this branch of manufacturing is gradually shaping for complete recovery from recent depression. The building and allied trades are active. The wheat harvest has begun in the Southwest, and will become general during the next fortnight. With good weather until after the harvest the wheat yield will probably exceed all previous records, and the acreage and condition returns with reference to corn, cotton and other crops foreshadow very satisfactory results of the agricultural season in all parts of the country. Business failures during the past week, according to R. G. Dun and Company, numbered 179 in the United States and 23 in Canada, against 162 in this country and 21 in Canada during the corresponding week last year.

Market prices have declined and recovered 1 of a cent per pound as a result of speculation and variable crop advices, but the crop situation as a whole has improved, and there is very little activity in the trade. Manchester advices have been more encouraging, and there has been fair buying for export; but domestic spinners have continued to operate conservatively for actual wants. The cotton goods trade is still unsatisfactory, but it shows improvement as contrasted with recent conditions. The export demand has led to advances of 1 to 1 of a cent per yard in some makes of brown goods. While home trade cottons have not changed in price, there is a steadier feeling all along the line, and the announcement has been made that the anticipated reductions in prices of bleached goods will not take place. Domestic buyers are showing more interest, although their operations are still generally in moderate sized lots. The wool trade is very quiet. Manufacturers appear to be in no urgent need of fresh supplies, and are awaiting a concentration of larger stocks of new wool in the seaboard markets. Interior prices are firm, and in many cases above the parity with ruling quotations in the Eastern distributing centres. The woolen goods trade shows further improvement, and prices of some of the more staple lines, the production of which is well sold ahead, have been advanced 5 per cent; but the general range of values is unchanged. The situation and outlook, however, are more encouraging to manufacturers than at any previous time this season.

The Bankruptcy Law.

Washington, June 17.—The semi-annual reports of the operation of the Bankruptcy law for the period ended March 31, 1901, has been submitted to the Attorney-General by E. C. Brandenburg, in charge of bankruptcy matters in the Department of Justice.

It shows that during the period 9,516 voluntary petitions were filed, as against 8,000 for the preceding six months, 12,129 for the six months ended March 31, 1900; 10,124 for the six months ended September 30, 1899, and 9,652 for the six months ended March 31, 1899.

The report shows that a large percentage of those taking advantage of the voluntary feature of the law are old insolvents seeking this means of resuscitating themselves in the business world.

Her Hat Ablaze in Church.

New York, June 17.—While the Rev. Francis Xavier Pauley of the Church of the Annunciation in Williamsburg was delivering the benediction at the close of yesterday's vesper service a young woman sitting in a front pew leaned too far forward and her hat caught fire from a candle. Somebody shouted fire. There were a thousand persons, most of them young women, in the church, and there was a wild scramble for the doors. The pastor kept on with his benediction while his assistant, the Rev. Father Hahn, seized the burning hat from the girl's head and threw it on the floor before any harm was done. Two missionary priests walked down the aisles and soon restored order.

How to Avoid Malaria.

The State Agricultural Department gives out the following: A careful and observing citizen of the state says: "It is settled by the medical faculty that malaria is communicated by mosquito bites. It is reasonably well settled by experience that if the castor oil bean is planted near a house or its leaves placed in a room that mosquitoes will disappear. It will be a cheap and probably a pleasant experiment if those living in malarial sections will plant a few castor beans. They can be had of any seed house and are besides a great improver of the soil. The agricultural department will be glad to hear reports or results of such experiments."
