

"BEWARE OF JEALOUSY."

A man of the name of Gilbert was arrested on Monday, and brought before the police magistrate of New-York, charged with the murder of Maria Gilbert his wife. He offered to make confession to the officer; but his examination was deferred until to-day. A number of witnesses came forward and gave their testimony, the substance of which is as follows: Several weeks since, the deceased came to the Boarding house of Mrs. Wall, in Water st near Catharine st. The account she gave of herself was, that she runaway from her husband who was a printer, and lived in Troy. She had remained a considerable time with Mrs. Wall, when her husband arrived, and came to see her, which he repeated frequently, never however, without a violent quarrel between them. It would appear that he was urging her to return to Troy, and that she refused to comply with his request. Within a few days, their difference had become more serious. Yesterday he came to Mrs. W's when several persons were there: his wife was sitting upon the lap of another man, when he looked in at the door and said, "Maria, come here." She went into the passage to him; no words or altercation were heard, but a piercing scream from her immediately caused those in the room to rush into the passage, where Mrs. Gilbert was found lifeless upon the floor; the knife with which her husband had stabbed her, lay by her. Gilbert was walking to and fro in a wild and hurried manner. He said to those who addressed him: "I have killed her, and I am willing to die for it." The weapon had been well directed as it pierced the heart of the deceased and caused instantaneous death. It was a butcher knife, ground to a point and sharpened with evident design to make its work effectual, as even the back had been ground to a very keen edge. An inquest was to have been held this morning: the verdict was not yet known. Mrs. Gilbert was a native of this city, aged about thirty; she had been married five years, but had no children. All the witnesses agreed in a belief that Gilbert was perfectly sober and in his senses, when he committed the murder.

N. Y. American.

By reading we enjoy the dead, by conversation the living, and by contemplation, ourselves. Reading enriches the memory, conversation polishes the wit, and contemplation improves the judgment. Of these, reading is the most important, which furnishes both the other.

Jests from the Chinese.—A man sent a note to a rich neighbour he was on friendly terms with, to borrow an ox for a few hours. The worthy old man who was no scholar, and happened to have a guest sitting with him at the time, that he did not wish to expose his ignorance to. Opening the note, and pretending to read it, after reflecting a moment, turning to the servant, "Very good," says he, "tell your master I'll come myself presently."

Ming Fung, one of the Judges in the shades below, sent up an Imp to this world of light to fetch him a doctor of repute and skill. "When," says he, "you come to doctors before whose doors there are no complaining ghosts, that's the man." The imp takes the charge, and up he ascends to the regions of light. Every doctor's house he passed had lots of angry injured ghosts thronging about, wailing and complaining of their wrongs. At last he comes to a house where he sees only one single ghost sitting backwards and forwards before the door. "This is my man," says he, "This must be a successful practitioner, and have a great name, no doubt." In return to his inquiry, the answer was, "Sir, this gentleman set up business but yesterday."

A young student could not fill his sheet of Theme. The examiner put him in a low class, and ordered him a correction. Showing his papers afterwards to a friend, 'Twas that half sheet vacant that ruined me,' says he: 'I had committed no other fault.' 'Oh no, no,' says his friend, after looking at the papers, 'tis all very well as it is; if you had gone on as you began, and filled the sheet, and shown it up, you would have been beaten to death.'

The annexed advertisements are copied from a late number of the London Morning Herald.

Matrimony.—A gentleman of family, 29 years of age, and who is almost immediately going out to India, wishes to meet with a lady willing to be united to him, and share his fortune. She must have the immediate command of £.000; if possessed of more, the surplus will be entirely at her own disposal. By a union with the advertiser, the lady will be mistress of a most comfortable and respectable establishment, and will have the entire into the best society the country affords. The most satisfactory references will be given, and secrecy and honor will be observed.—Letters (post paid) addressed to No. 256, Post-office, Bristol, will be attended to."

To Noblemen, Members of Parliament and Gentlemen.—The advertiser, a solicitor of good education, appearance, and address, who is well versed in the law on elections, qualifications of voters, &c. is desirous of being employed as a Private Secretary or Amanuensis, or as an Agent to any gentleman or nobleman who is likely to be engaged in a contest at the approaching election, possessing talents for writing, and capable of addressing a meeting with effect. His services in the latter capacity would be truly valuable. Personal applications, or letters free of postage, addressed to S. H. at No. 4, Leicester Place, Comberwell New Road, will be duly attended to.

At the Court at Concord, Mass.—Sally Reed for an assault committed on her husband, John Reed, of Bedford, by "pounding" him with a large mallet on his "knowledge box." She was sentenced to 3 months confinement in the common jail. At her request, she was permitted to go to Cambridge jail "for the benefit of the sea air." Application was made for a divorce, by her husband, who had received so many striking marks of her attachment, which was granted without alimony.—Bost. Pat.

An impertinent poet, having begun to read to a certain person a poem of his own making, asked him which of his verses were the best; he answered "those thou has not yet read, for they have not made my head ache."

A gentleman walking early in Chesnut street Philadelphia, with a friend, was jostled by a baker running his rounds of business. "An insolent fellow!" exclaimed the gentleman—"Oh no!" said his friend, "that is the best bread man in the city."

"Pray, Sir," said Lady Jekyll one day to Whiston, "why was Eve made of one of Adam's ribs?" "Because, Madam," replied Whiston, "the rib was the crookedest bone he had."

Tan-Bark Wanted.
THE Subscribers will give three dollars per cord for good White or Spanish Oak-Bark, delivered at their Tan-Yard in Greensborough, payable in Cash or Leather.
HOSKINS & PATRICK.
Greensboro', May 4, 1826.—3tf.

Having purchased the Printing materials of the late Carolina Patriot, and presuming that the subscribers to that paper are desirous of encouraging a Printing Establishment in Greensborough, this paper will be forwarded to them, and they will be considered as subscribers, unless notified to the contrary, previous to the first day of June next.

T. EARLY STRANGE.

April 24, 1826.

DR. R. P. WILLIAMSON.

OFFERS his professional services to the Town of Greensborough and the county of Guilford—He hopes after receiving the best opportunities in his Medical education, and some experience in the practice, to do justice to patients that may be entrusted to his care. He has opened his Shop in the eastern wing of Slade's new building, where he can always be found, except when absent on professional business.

May 10, 1826.—3tf.

DR. J. A. FOULKES,

Having returned from Philadelphia, where he has been attending a course of Medical Lectures in the University of Pennsylvania, respectfully informs his friends and the public in general, that he intends commencing immediately, the practice of Medicine in its various branches, in the Town of Greensborough, the vicinity, and in the adjoining Counties, when his services are required.

He has purchased the House and Lot owned by Dr. Watson, as well as the whole of his Medicines: These, with the addition of those he purchased in the City of Philadelphia, will make, it is presumed, a Shop not inferior to any in the State. Persons from the country, can be supplied with Medicines on reasonable terms; Physicians whose assortment may be broken, will on application, be supplied at a moderate advance on the prime cost.

Those who require his professional services, may rely on his promptness and exertions to serve them faithfully—he can promise no more; the tests of his medical skill can only be applied by a candid and generous public, when they become sufficiently acquainted with him.

Greensborough, April 24, 1826. tf

CHEAP HATS.

The Subscribers after returning their sincere thanks for the encouragement received heretofore, beg leave to inform their customers and a generous public, that they have on hand, and will keep constantly for sale, a complete assortment of

Fur & Wool Hats,

Made of the best materials the country affords, and in the most fashionable style; which from the extensiveness of their business, they will sell as cheap as any other person, for Cash, or a short credit to those who are punctual. Jury and State Witness Tickets or Country produce will be received as Cash.

WILLIAM ADAMS,

PETER ADAMS.

Greensboro', April 24.—3w.

Improvement on Saw-Mills.

If any person should want a Saw-Mill built or repaired, on a principle that cuts from twenty-five to one hundred per cent faster with the same quantity of water, can by writing to the Editor of this paper, post paid, be served with a man endowed with such abilities on the shortest notice. The person alluded to came to this place well recommended by the first characters in this state and the state of Virginia.

Greensboro' May 3. 2—n.

JOB PRINTING
EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

SCIENCE.

High perch'd on Age's stately towering rock,
Fair science lends her friendly crook,
And guards her children o'er the foaming flood,
To freedom's home, a land unstain'd with blood.
And lot in western wilds, with master hand,
She's rear'd her fabric in each genial mind.
What honey'd streams of transport round her plays;
Bright rapture calls—taste soars through all the maze;
Wisdom mounts, in all her beauteous pride,
Aloft—beholds her influence spreading wide;
Now warms the thought aspiring soul,
That wings its flight from pole to pole.

Sparta.

Cooper the Novelist.—Blackwood's Magazine thus speaks of Mr. Cooper the American Novelist: "Cooper, the American Novelist, a man of unquestionable genius, and himself a Naval Officer, (whether like our author an officer of rank, we know not,) has given us some spirited, even splendid, pictures of naval life. His individual characters are all somewhat exaggerated, which is a great pity for they are well conceived and contrasted; but his descriptions of all sorts of manoeuvres, in all sorts of weather, and at all hours of day and night, are at once truly nautical, and truly poetical. We never were more interested in our lives than in his account of the escape (after a running fight) of the American frigate and sloop from one of his Majesty's squadrons. The bearing down of a 9½ gun ship through a stormy and clouded night, is magnificent. Cooper exults, as he ought to do, in the glory of the American stars, yet he is not unjust to our navy, and there is nothing about him of the braggadocio. He has doubtless been both in battle and in wreck, and is a man that would dispise a cork jacket. We hope he has not a wooden leg—but if he has may be dot and go on for a half a century—he seems a man worthy of having sailed with Decatur.

Sentiments of Mr. Penn on Marriage.
Never marry but for love, but see that you love what is lovely.

If love be not thy chiefest motive thou will soon grow weary of the marriage state, and stray from thy promise to search out thy pleasures in forbidden places.

Let not enjoyment lesson—but rather augment affection; it being the basest of passions to slight what we sighed to possess.

They that marry for money cannot have that true satisfaction of marriage, the more essential requisite being wanting.