OUR DEAD AT WINCHESTER.

The Grayes of North Carolina Soldiers the Only Ones Unmarked-The North Carolina and Stonewall Cemetery at Winchester, Virginia,

Charleston News and Courier, June 23. WINCHESTER, Va., June 21 .- Our Memorial Day this year presented a feature of interest to South Carolinians in this, that the lot containing the graves of their Confederate soldiers, in addition to the decorations that usually adorn it, was found to have at each grave a new neat, white marble headstone with the name, regiment, company, State and date of death of each soldier. This work was just completed the day before, and the contrast is very marked between the weatherbeaten wooden boards, that have done service for upwards of twenty years, and the glistening marble with which they have been replaced. The money for this purpose was kindly and patriotically raised in Charleston, more than one half having been collected by the News and Courier, and special thanks are due to Miss F. E. DeSaussure, of your city, for her active interest in this laudable work. Doubtless it is not as well known to the people of South Carolina as it should be, to what extent they are interested in this cemetery, where now repose all that remains of the thousands of Confederate cemetery, where now repose all that remains of the thousands of Confederate soldiers whose lives passed away in the hospitals and on the battlefields in and around Winchester from 1861 to 1865

I will not at present send the names of the sons of Carolina who sleep their last sleep in this beautiful cemetery, but there are one hundred and forty-nine of them. They died far from friends and home, and they have been buried in a lot purchesed by the efforts of our people, and set apart lor them and known as the South Carolina lot. CHICAGO, July 23 .- It was rather a quiet day in wheat and conditions at the opening were mostly bearish. There was some evidences in the pit of nervousness among some of the July shorts. There was a disposition among the longs also to get out of the July deal and their offerings let shorts down easily. July opened at 94tc, sold to 94c. hung for a time around 941(a941c, advanced to 94fc, dropped to 93f, back to 94c, later sagged again, this time touching 93%c on late easy cables and closed at 931c. Corn opened quiet and developed no special feature during the day. There was at times good demand for July, which resulted in some advancee, as offerings were only moderate, but long futures were offered freely and the tendency was to weak ness. July shorts seemed disposed to even up and at one time that month was 4c over September, the general difference being from 3tc to 3t. July started at 53tc and closed at 54tc. Oats were fairly active. July started at 35fc, sold at 36fc, off to 35fc and closed at that. Provisions were rather quiet and with a downward tendency in spite of the early strength in corn.

EX-TREASURER BARDSLEY'S SINGU-LAR CONFESSION.

He Implicates Others and Makes i Appear That he is a Much Injured and Ruined Man Though a too Confiding Nature.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.-Two weeks shore dead. The third child could not be found. Mrs. Larson imagines that pleaded guilty to the many charges against him the court fixed to-day as the time to pass sentence upon him. Public expectation has been wrought up by the promise that when he was brought into court Bardsley would make a full and free confession of his malfeasance. By many it was thought that in his statement, or confession, Bardsley would implicate men high in business and official life. Men whose names have only been hinted at, but who were supposed to be his con-federates; such expectations proved groundless for Bardsley's confession practically confessed nothing that has not been made public through the columns of the daily press. The "confession" was more in a line of defense of his own conduct and was exceedingspecious and fair-seeming, giving in detail his various transactions. It bristled throughout with figures and ested. showed where every dollar he has been accused of misappropriating, has gone to. The charges to which he has pleaded guilty, of loaning public funds at interest and to speculating with them, be frankly be acknowledged, but he emphatically denied that he had been benefitted by his transactions to the extent of a dollar. The National Bank Examiner, Drew, came in for a severe scoring at the hands of Bardsley, and he laid it to Drew's door that he sunk his money in the Keystone bank. Bardsley said that it was through Drew's plausible statements of the bank's condition that he had deposited his money there. He fur

As Bardsley read his voice was clear, distinct and audible in every part of the court room. Twice he faltered and was compelled to cease reading, when he spoke of his family, but otherwise he read firmly to the end. A summary of Bardsley's itemized statement shows a net balance due the city of $191,061 and a net balance due the Seate of $1,002,769. making the total on city and State of $1,194,630. This balance is accounted for as follows: Clearing house due bills from Keystone bank, $92,500; receipts of the President of the Keystone bank for 100 bonds of the Baltimore traction company, $1,000 each, $100,000; notes taken from Granville B Haines for cash given him to assist the Keystone ban# $25,000; 750 shares of stock in the Farmers' and Mechanics' bank $100,000; cash in the Farmers' and Mechanics bank in connection with the 750 shares of stock $808; cash in the hands of assignees$ 5,000; total $1,155,808. WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24, 1891.

CIAL.]-Many of the counties in the State have failed to respond to the request in Governor Holt's proclamation, that they appropriate a fund for county exhibits at the Southern Exposition. Failure on the part of some was due to non-progressive spirit, but on the part of others to the belief that no power exists to make such an appropriation. Attorney-General Davidson to-day, settles the disputed points. He adopted and reiterates the opinion of Attorney General Kenan, expressed some years ago, during the State Exposition, and says the Commissioners, is conjunction with the justices, have full power to direct the application of county revenues "for any good and lawful purpose for the use of the county." Dinner for Two. Appetite for One!" Said a dysdeptic to the waiter, ordering for self and friend. And suppose he had had an appetite, it would have agonized him, subsequently, to gratify it. O! the abominable pangs that even a little meal causes the confirmed victim of indigestion. Purgatory on earth—no less. Altogether unnecessary, though Begin at once, systematically, a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, ye unfortunates with refractory stomachs. In saying this we merely echo the recorded experience of thousands who have used the great stomachie to their lasting benefit. For the inaction of a sluggish liver, and for tardy or irregular action of the bowels, both tardy or irregular action of the bowels, both very apt to accompany dyspeosia, this fine reg ulator is equally efficient. Maiarial complaints kidney trouble, rheumatism and neuralgia de part when a resort is had to the Bitters.
