Stocks in New York Yesterday-The Grain and Provision Markets of

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.-The stock market to-day was rather unsettled in its temper, but there were evidences of more support to prices than covering of shorts. The movements of importance, however, were still confined o a very few stocks. A great deal of literature was put out, having for its object the annulling of excitement over a possible war between the Reading and Pennsylvania companies, and, to some extent, it was successful; as while Reading, on very large transac-actions, was held comparatively firm, Coalers were again remarkably dull, without quotable change. More was heard about the expected iccrease in the dividend on the Western Union.
Industrials were less prominent, but General Electric and Lead, preferred,

The rest of the market throughout the day was dull. A drive was made at the list late in the day on a rumor of large orders for gold re-ceived from Germany. The whole list lost the day's gain. Sales of listed stocks amounted to 217,000 shares, and 34,000 unlisted.

HOISTED ON HOFFMAN'S ISLAND AND THE INFECTED STEAMERS.

More New Cases of Cholera and Beaths Reported-The Records of the Past Two Days-Cholera Among the Crew of the Normannia-Her Passengers Cooped Up With the Crew.

NEW YORK, Sept. S .- A despatch received here from quarantine at 9:30 o'clock this morn ng announces that the quarantined steamers Normannia and Rugia have hoisted the vellow flag again and that the same signal is flying at Hoffman Island. There signals indicate that there are more cholera officers and the commanders of the steamships mentioned that the yellow flag, after yesterday, was not to be hoisted unless as notification that additional cases of cholera were discovered. The record for yesterday was eight fresh cases among the crew of the Normannia and two more cases among the steerage passengers of the same ship. Consequently, since the cholera arrived here there have been thirty-one cases of sickness from the disease and eight deaths from the same cause at this port. It will be noticed, however, that this is not an alarming state of affairs considering that there are about twenty steamships detained either at upper quarantine or anchored in the lower bay at the cholera anchorage. It will also be seen that the dreaded scourge has been almost entirely confined to the crew of the Normannia and that the stokers of that vessel seem to be the greatest suffers. Eight of that steamer's crew, all strong hardy men, were removed from the vessel yesterday afternoon and transferred to Swinburne Island. The doctor would not say that these men were suffering from cholers, but admitted that they had diarrhee, and other symptoms that were very suspitious. It is safe to assume that the transfer of these men to the pest island would not have been made had not the health officers been morally certain

Corbett was fresh and bright, receiving his friends' congratulations. He said the result did not surprise him because he knew when he went into the ring that Sullivan was not his equal in skill or endurance. "Sullivan used bad judgement from start to finish. Whenever he hit him with his left he fell short. When he hit with his right he generally missed Corbett. Corbett is the world beater

Alf Kennedy said: "It was a fine fight. Corbett's activity carried the day over Sullivan's age. Sullivan is a back number. He was too old to fight. None of these men have any license to go in the ring, when they are past 30 years of age, against a clever young man with speed and endurance."

Many of the sports will have hard work to get out of town. being broken.

It transpires that Sulliyan, after his defeat last night, began undoing all the careful work of training which he and his trainers had been doing for weeks past. Defeat and chagrin, coupled with the absence of any motive for training, doubtless, led the man to resume his convival habits. His deep sleep this morning was the result of potations. When be awakened he was taken over to the Gymnastic club and there kept until the time arrived to resume the homeward journey at 8:30 o'clock. The great giant presented a pitiable spectable. The cut on the nose had been closed, but the eyes were blackened and his whole face is swollen terribly. While he tried to smoke the sodden butt of a cigar he taked in a maudling voice of his downfell. Sullivan lays greatest stress on the fact that he could not reach Corbett.

The shifty, lightning kept Sullivan circling in order to face him. This frequent whirling, the sands of white and eager faces banked upon all sides, all tended to confuse and daze the big man of Boston. The lightning, flashtike science of the young man was a revelation to Sullivan, who, in his best days, had never possessed such pugilistic elements. "But I did not run away," the big fel-low almost sobbed. "Lock us up in a room—just lock me in a room with him and see what I could do with him. But he licked me. I give him all the credit he wants. He licked me square enough, but let him go through what I have. Let him knock them all out do any better than I did. Yes, he licked the champion and now he's champion. Let him take care of it as

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 .- Hubbard, Price & Co. say of cotton: It has been a contradictory market to-day. The apparent influences have been bullish. Spinners in Liverpool bought 3,000 bales after the close yesterday, and 12,000 additional to day. This makes the total takings for the last three days 40,000. Despite this fact, futures have declined and at the close were 2-64d lower than yesterday. The New York market has sympathized to a moderate extent only. It opened 2 points lower than yesterday, advanc d to yesterday's closing figures, and by 1 o'clock was back to the opening quotation. The absence of buying power is obvious, and a constant stimulus is needed to restore values. During the afternoon the market sold off a few points more, but just before close a rally ensued and the entire loss was quickly recovered, the close being firmer, I to 2 points better than yesterday.

REMARKABLE DRIFT OF A WRECK ON

Suspended. WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Unofficial advices received at the Department of State from Venezuela this morning were that Gen. Crespo has finally triumphed and the dictatorship has been overthrown. Gen. Crespo has, its said, been called to Caracos to assume the reins of Government and graphic department is watching with unusual interest what is considered one of the most remarkable drifts of of Nantucket Mass., was, it will be re-remembered, pierced through and through in the middle by the Trave, the two parts of the Taylor drifting in different directions. The stern of the Taylor is now known to have gone ashore August 7th last on Wells Beach, about fifteen miles north of Ports-mouth, N. H., while the bow is continuing its southwesterly course along the Atlantic coast, and from the last reports which have been received is at this time about fifty miles southeast of the entrance to Delaware bay. From present indications, based on winds and currents prevalent at this season along to the entrance of Chesapeake bay. It is therefore thought, as a matter of precaution, that vessels bound in and out of Chesapeake bay should be warned of the danger due to the possible presence in that locality of this obstruction to navigation. It is possible, however, the bow may drift down and ground off the coast of Hatteras, passng by the entrance to Chesapeake bay. In this event the bow of the Taylor might for months continue to be a menace to navigation in that locality, although, of course, buoyed, under instructions from the lighthouse board. Should the wreck be found to be worth towing to land in order to claim salva age, it is likely the Merritt Wrecking tactics of the new | company, of Norfolk, or one of the Red champion worried and dazed him. The Star tugs from Philadelphia will un-Californian circled and circled and dertake the work. It is not generally believed the wreck is worth saving. The causes which led to lights and the mazy swimming of thou- the two ends of the Taylor drifting in entirely different directions for hundreds and hundreds of miles can-
