BALTIMORE, Jan. 19 .- Not since the foundation of the Maryland Confederate society has there been such a notable gathering at their annual banquet as was present at the Carrollton hotel tonight. The occasion was of the greatest historic interest to all living participants in the civil war. Some of the guests of the evening were: United States Senagressmen Wheeler, Hooker, Mallory, son of the Confederate Secretary of the Navy; Allen, and Speaker Crisp, Gen. Wade Hampton and Gen. Charles M. Shelby. The lecture to-night, which preceded the banquet, was notable, because, for the first time, the story of Lee's surrender was told from the Confederate stand point, and no better orator could have been selected. Col. Charles Marshall. one of the prominent members of the Baltimore bar, was a witness of the closing scenes in Wilmer McLean house at Appomattox. As the military Secretary of Gen. Lee, he accompanied his chief at the meeting with Gen. Grant to arrange the terms upon which the army of Northern Virginia was to be surrendered. Col. Marshall was Lee's adjutant general as well as his military secretary. Gen Lee was born eighty-seven years ago to-day. Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia have set the day apart as a

Of this the people outside of the cities and towns, railways and stock corporations, in other words the agricultural classes, paid, all told, less than $550,000 for all purposes privilege taxes. The expenditures were for public and State schools, and over of this went to the country districts. for taxation has largely decreased in the rural districts and increased in the cities and towns and in other properties, the rate of taxation on property for general purposes has regularly decreased, until executive officers, creating a fund not at all connected with direct taxation. are enough to pay the entire expenses of partment of the State Government and over half the salaries of all the judges. Since 1870 a constant and successful endeavor has been made, not only to reduce the burden of taxation on the people and to lessen the expenses of adminstration, but to place the burden where it is lease felt and can best be born, and distribute the moneys where they will do the most good for the masses and for objects of charity. In 1868-70, taxes for public schools to the amount of over 350,000 were collected and less than $40,000 was actually spent for the edu cation of the children of the State, at the same time the rate of direct taxation being very high. The Legislatures since 1870 have regularly reduced the rate of direct taxation and so appropriated the moneys colled that last year nearly $800,00 was expended directly for the education of the children, of both races, in the State. In honor of "Lee's birthday" the Capitol and the banks were closed to-day. The State flags were displayed on the Capitol. There was no parade or other observance of the holiday here. Sheriff B. L. Wall, of Anson county, brought five convicts to the penitentiary

Fine mica was found in Johnston county this week, and specimens brought here are pronounced of good quality by Walter James, a negro youth who outraged a woman six months ago, and for whom Governor Carr offered $200 reward, has been captured at Darden. The woman died two days after the crime was committed. Sheriff Page is sending out posters in all directions regarding the ex-convict Orange Page and the woman Mary Smith, who broke the neck of Rosa Haywood. At the penitentiary it is learned that Page is from Edgecombe county and was sent there in 1885 to serve ten years for robbery. He is a desperate criminal. His age is 40 years, that of the Smith woman 30. Hyacinths are in bloom in yards here.

It is the first time this ever occurred in January. Under the present law the penitentiary authorities, upon the release of a convict, send him as far towards his home as his good conduct money will take him. If he has no money he is at least sent out of the county where he is Mention was made of the capture of a white man, supposed to be a tramp, who had entered the house of the court crier of this county, one night recently. The man gave the name of John Smith. was found at the penitentiary that he is John Brown, and had already served John Brown, and had already served three terms there.
