The captain of the British merchantman Nasmith made application to the commander of a British man-of-war his inquiry a perfectly proper one.

Senator Voorhees—I have no dispose for assistance necessary to enable him to obtain a supply of water and was contemptuously refused. The merchant skipper proposed applying to Admiral Benham for aid. Whereupon the commander of the war vessel sneeringly answered that he might do as The captain of the merchantman then appealed to Admiral Benham, who assigned Lieut. Kilbourn to guard the water boat under the American flag. Vessels of all nations are seek-ing the protection of the United States flag. British sailors are openly cursing English officials, who, they declare, are sacrificing commerce to aid Da Gama. Evidence of the existing feeling in this respect is given in the fact that at the principal landing yesterday the British flag was trampled in the dirt by British sailors, whose officers expressed no word of disapproval of their act, which was accompanied by cheers for "Uncle Sam," from Texas to act in his place.

Senator Sherman, one of the Republican members of the Finance committee, declared that the tariff had not been considered at all before the committee proper. He had been informed that it was the custom to refer such bills, in the first place, to a sub-committee of those in favor of them, and he had no fault to find with the Finance committee for doing so in this instance. It is a matter of family arrangement, he said. If the other side desired to secure the services of the Senator from Texas who is famil-liar with the tariff question, we have no right to growl or object. It is sufficient for me to say now that the tariff bill has never yet been considered by the Finance ommittee, but it no doubt will be in due Senator Chandler-I want to know thether the Senator from New Jersey or the Senator from Texas is a member or whether both of them are members. Senator Sherman-Both of them can not be members. I suppose that the Senator from Texas is now perfecting the duty which had been performed by the Senator from New Jersey.

Senator Platt. Republican, of Connecticut, interposed with a remark that Senators were entitled to know whether call were dispensed with and another Senator Mills or Senator McPherson was a member of the sub-committee that was considering the Tariff bill. Senator Vest, a member of the Finance
