WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 18, 1894.

THE HOUSE ADOPTS A NEW RULE TO THAT EFFECT.

> The Contest Over the Proposed Rule Animated and Rather Bitter-Mr. Reed and His Followers Jubilant - The Tariff Debate Continued Under the Former Unanimous Consent Rule.

> SENATE. Washington, April 16.—Senator Voorhees. chairman of the Committee on Finance, presented to the Senate a voluminous manuscript with the title, "Changes in text and rates of duty provided under the act of 1890, and under the administrative act of June, 1890, made by the Tariff bill as it passed the House, and also reported to the Senate, together with statistics relating thereto, and the rates of duty proposed by the Mills bill in 1888," and asked that the report be printed for the use of the Senate.

Senator Hill inquired whether the Mills bill was to be printed with the document. Senator Voorhees said that he did not know; the report merely gave the rates of Senator Hill said that ne should like to have the Mills bill printed entirely. Senator Cockrell suggested that it might be printed as a separate document, and Senator Hill expressed himself satisfied with that arrangement. Senator Mitchell offered a resolution that the Chinese treaty shall be considered in 'Let the resolution go over, under the rule," said Senator Sherman, and the resolution went over till to-morrow. Senator Harris—The unanimous consent agreement under which the Senate acted during the past week expired yesterday, by its own terms. The Senator from Rhode Island (Aldrich) and myself, recognizing he fact that it would expire at that time, have conterred with respect to the matter and have agreed to ask unanimous consent of the Senate that for the present week and until next Tuesday, the agreement of last week be continued—that is, that the Senate meet at 12 o'clock, take up the Tariff bill promptly at 1 o'clock and proceed with its promptly at 1 o'clock and proceed with its consideration until 5 o'clock without intermission. We ask that on Tuesday next at 5 o'clock what is called "general [debate" shall cease and, after that, the bill shall be taken up and read, paragraph by paragraph for amendment—the committee amendments being first dealt with. I desire to reserve, however, the right for a Senator on this side to be heard in the nature of general debate, after what is called "general debate" shall after what is called "general debate" shall have closed. I ask that on Wednesday of next week a Senator on this side shall have a couple of hours to address the Senate. Senator Aldrich-I think there will be no ojection on this side to an understanding that on Tuesday or Wednesday next some one representing the Finance committee of the friends of the bill, shall have two hours, or whatever time he pleases. Senator Harris-There is no difference between the Senator from Rhode Island and myself as to the meaning of the agreement. The object I have in view is to reach the consideration of the bill and the disposition of it at as early a day as possible. Of course, under the rules, debate on any amendment is just as unlimited as debate on the bill. ("That is right"-from Republican Senators

Senator Hillasked Senator Harris whether motion to proceed to the consideration of the free list would be inconsistent with the proposed agreement. Senator Harris-The free list is a part of the pending bill, and like any other part of may be taken up on motion if a majority of Senators desire it.

Senator Hill-That is not the question. Is here anything in the agreement to prevent motion being made and entertained that the Senate proceed to the consideration of that portion of the bill known as the free Does this agreement imply that the bill must be proceeded with exactly in the order in which it is read?

Senator Harris-It must be read in its ex-Senator Hill-And must be considered in Senator Harris-That would be the parliamentary method, entirely outside of 'the agreement Senator Sherman-That would be the rule n regard to any bill. Senator Hill—I do not think it a wise pro cedure to discuss the question of rates before disscussing the question as to whether not. In my judgment the best way to act on the bill is to determine, in the first in-stance, what articles shall be dutiable and what articles shall be put on the free list. After further discussion, Senator Harris' proposition was agreed to by unanimous consent, Senator Hill reserving the right to make the motion to proceed to the consideration of the free list

The tariff bill was then taken up and Senator McLaurin, of Mississippi, made his first speech in the Senate Chamber. He leclared that he gave the bill his unhesitatng support. Senator Smith, Democrat of New Jersey, next addressed the Senate, confining his argument chiefly to opposition to the income tax, and declaring that he should do everything in his power to defeat it. question on the passage of the resolution be considered ordered and that debate be closed in an hour and a half, the time to be con-troled by the Speaker of the House. At once there was opposition manifested on the Democratic side and so much confusion existed that the proceedings could not be distinguished at the Speaker's desk. After discussion Mr. Catchings changed is request so as to fix the vote at 4 o'clock.

Mr. Burows, Republican, of Michigan asked if the previous question were then or-dered would it not cut off amendment or Mr. Catchings responded that it would and that was his purpose in moving it.

Mr. Burrows then asked to be allowed to offer as a substitute for the rule reported. the rule in force in the Fifty-first Congress as presenting the views of the minority.

This was agreed to and the rule was read

"On the demand of any member, or at the suggestion of the Speaker, the names of members sufficient to make a quorum in the hall of the House who do not vote, shall be noted by the clerk and recorded in the journal, and reported to the Speaker with the names of the members voting, and be counted and announced in determining the resence of a quorum to do business.' Clause 3, Rule 15, Fifty-first Congress.) Mr. Catchings then moved that the previous question be ordered on the passage of the resolution, and the vote was—yeas, 140;

nays, 120; so the previous question was Mr. Burrows stated that the rule reported by the committee and the substitute offered by him both contained the principle of ounting a quorum, differing only as to detail. Not desiring to embarrass or delay the adoption of the principle by the House, de-siring rather that the Democratic majority should have an unobstructed opportunity to endorse the Fifty-first Congress, he would withdraw, the substitute. The debate was opened by Mr. Catchings in a brief explanation of the rule, saying it was the result of action of the caucus of last Friday.

Mr. Springer said the proposed rule con-templated no change of the Constitution. It was only a proposition whereby the House could do the business for which the members had been sent here. Mr. Kilgore rose chiefly to express his unalterable opposition to the adoption of the rule, of which the gentlemen from Maine (Reed) was the parent. Mr. Reed said: "I do not desire to address the House again upon the general subject. This scene here to-day is a more effective address than any I could make. The House is about to adopt the principle for which we contended in the Fifty-first Congress, and is about to adopt it under circumstances which show conclusively to the country its value. Bynum rose to a point of order that Mr. Catchings had exceeded the limit of time remaining to him.

The Speaker—The time is being kept at the desk, and the chair will call the gentleman's attention to the fact that his time has expired when the limit is reached. Mr. Bynum-The clock shows that he has been speaking more than three minutes.

The Speaker (sharply)-The chair keeps the time for the House This colloquy was greatly enjoyed by the Republicans. The vote on the passage of the resolution was announced at 2 o'clock to have been yeas-212; nays, 47. So the resolution was agreed to. This announcement was greeted with loud applause on the Republican side and many of the members surrounded Mr. Reed and congratulated him upon the final triumph of the principle for which he had so long contended. Several ex-members also proffered their congratulations. As he arose a few minutes later to take his way to the rear lobby the galleries broke out anew in applause, which was not rebuked. A basket of roses was placed on Mr. Reed's desk, and again there was a burst of applause.

The Republicans all voted for the resolution and most of the Democrats. The Populists took no part in the proceedings, none of them being re-orded. The negative vote was cast by Democrats entirely. The daily journals of proceedings since last Thursday were then approved pro

The pending question being on the motion of Mr. Springer to discharge the order of arrest of absentees made by the House on March 26th Mr. Reed offered as a matter of interest affecting the interests of the whole House a resolution declaring that order of arrest to have been in violation of the Constitution and rules of the House, and therefore void After some debate the chair ruled that the resolution did not constitute such a question of privilege as would operate to oust the motion of Mr. Springer. The matter, doubtless should be investigated, for it was one o great importance, but it could not supersed at this time the motion of the gentleman from Illinois. The vote was then taken under the new rule by yeas and nays, Messrs. Dockery and Cogswell being appointed tellers and they took their places at the clerks desk. The most noticeable thing about the call was that, in order to let the tellers keep tally. the roll call required three-quarters of an hour to complete. The vote resulted-yeas, 226; nays, 5. The previous question was therefore ordered, and the motion was adopted by a riva vore vote.

COMMERCIAL NEWS. Stocks and Bonds in New York-The Grain and Provision Markets of Chicago. New York, April 17.-There was a falling off in the transactions at the Stock Exchange. The total sales of stocks amounted to 180,435 shares, against 220,000 shares yesterday. Opening figures, as a rule, were lower, professional operators having sold the list on the belief that considerable gold will have to be exported shortly, notwithstanding the condition of foreign trade which shows a heavy balance in our favor. The railway troubles at the West were also used by the traders, but they did not have much effect. It was currently reported that the employes of the Missiouri Pacific would strike and that the men on the Northwestern roads would go out in order to assist their confreres employed by the Great Northern road. The impression made Great Northern road. The impression made on prices was insignificant, however, and when the bulls in Chicago Gas took hold of their favorite and marked it up, the shorts in the general list began to curtail their lines. This operation led to a somewhat firmer tone for a time, and especially for General Electric and Sugar, which rose to 424 and 981 respectively. Toward the close the positive engagement of $500,000 gold for shipment to Europe by Saturday's steamers was announced and the Grangers, which were the favorites with the bears all day, again developed weakness. St. Paul touched 62, a loss of nearly a point, and the other issues fell off proportionately. At the close a steady tone Reading was firmer on the belief that the matter of the reorganization will be taken hold of by the Drexel-Morgan interest. Net changes for the day show losses of 1 to 1 per cent. Railway and miscellaneous bonds were higher. Sales of listed stocks were 155,000 shares; unlisted, 25,000. CHICAGO, April 17.-The trade in wheat to-day was almost entirely of a local charac-ter and was not at all conspicuous or showy, save a determined fight against the advance from 60 to 61c for May, which was made by Pardridge, who appeared personally in the pit and sold freely. The opening was easy, but was followed by steadiness, gradially developing into firmness and strength finally giving way to a tone of easiness with a softening of prices near the close which was just a shade under that of yesterday. Corn was firm, even strong to-day. There was a good general demand, the country ing evidently on the long side. Oats received strength from corn to-day The trade was tight but a very firm unde tone permeated the market. Provisions suffered at the hands of un known parties who were selling through brokers. The cash demand for meats and lard was very quiet. Domestic markets were lower and foreign firm. Receipts

The Sun's Cotton Review. EW YORK, April 17.—The Sun's cotton retowns, as well as more or less long liquida-tions, caused a decline early in the day but this was recovered later on, owing to a pre-diction of decidedly cold weather in the Southwest, covering of shorts, and bull manipulations. The speculation was still quite moderate and the spot trade in this ountry and abroad is generally unsatisfactory. A New York firm said: "It is becoming evident to those who choose to beieve it, that the movement from the interior is at the expense of a movement that naturally would have occurred later, but which is now being realized on account of the disappointing of spot holders who have seen an almost continuously declining market with a free movement, and indications of further weakness. It is, of course, disheartening to those who have been led to expect, for some time past, a decided falling off from last year, which, so far, has been hope defeated. But if there is any reliance to be placed in the information of people who have responsible corre spondents, then it must be that the supply in the interior is being so rapidly exhaust as to give us a very small movement later on. The noticeable feature to-day has been the buying of May contracts by two or three prominent business buyers here, which indicates either that they are either prepared months against cotton that they are carrying. It may be that the spot situation getting so strong in this country that we may hereafter act more independently of liverpool than we have been doing up his time. We learn from a telegram cided falling off in the movement there is expected soon. Houston has been receiving aily for some time considerably in excess of last year. Memphis contin freely of her stock, the loss since Friday last
