THE SUGAR SCHEDULE.

AGAIN THE SUBJECT OF A PROTRACTED DEBATE.

Speculations in Sugar Certificates During Debate on the McKinley Bill and Remarkable Changes Made in That Schedule. Effect of the Proposed Duties - Discussion of the State Bank Tax.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The Senate today entered on the second half year of the session, the tenth week of the consideration of the tariff bill, and the third day of the discussion of the sugar schedule.

It took a quarter of an hour after the stated hour of meeting to secure a quorum. The first piece of business done was the passage of a joint resolution appropriating $10,000 for the expenses of inquiry and investigation ordered by the Senate.

On schedule time all pending business was put aside and the tariff bill was taken up. The amendments to paragraph 182, offered by the Finance committee, changing the time when the repeal of the sugar bounty is to take effect, from July 1, 1894, to January 1, 1895, was agreed to.

Subsequently, by unanimous consent, that action was reconsidered and the amendments still remain open. Senator Vest recalled his controversy with Senator Aldrich before adjournment on Saturday when Senator Aldrich attacked the "positively, if not aggressively" that there was no sugar in the market in 1890.

Senator Vest fortified his own statement by showing from an Almanac of 1891, reading that in the year 1890, $1,000,000 worth of sugar certificates had been sold in New York. And it was while the large sales were being made, that the McKinley act was being manipulated in Congress.

On these and any other abstract points a rapid, confusing and generally unintelligible controversy was kept up for a long time between him and Senator Allison. Senator Jones, however, asserted very positively that under existing law there was not a pound of free sugar, but that $20,000,000 worth of sugar refineries and not a dollar to the treasury.

Senator Peffer asked Senator Jones what would be the average increase of the price of sugar per pound to the consumer under his present price. Senator Jones replied that he supposed the increase would be about 10 per cent; it might exceed that, or it might be a little less.

THE VOTE TO BE TAKEN.

STATE BANK TAX BILL TO BE VOTED ON TO-MORROW.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—An agreement to terminate the pending debate on the bill to repeal the State bank tax act has not been definitely reached, but will be, it is understood, at a meeting of the Committee on Rules to be held to-morrow morning.

The next speaker was Mr. Cobb, of Alabama, a member of the committee, who spoke in favor of the repeal of the law. He said that the proper way to test the value of the State bank system was to let the condition of the banks at the time the general Government saw fit to impose the prohibitory tax. When these banks were forced to go into liquidation in 1865, every bank in the North released its obligations to the single bill holder.

Mr. Springer, in charge of the Bank Tax Repeal bill, wanted to spend to-morrow in general debate, and Wednesday, up to 4 o'clock, in discussion under the five minutes rule. The members of the Committee on Rules, however, wanted to take the vote immediately upon assembling Wednesday.
