Washington, April 12.-Secretary Aler thinks the worst of the flood dangers have passed in the Mississippi valley and that with the force the war department now has in the field, coperating, as it is, with the local relief committees, there is small danger that great suffering will be permitted to go unchecked and unrelieved. PEARPUL RAILWAY ACCIDENT

Two Passenger Trains on the Souther Railway Near Charlotte Rush Together Three Persons Killed and Others Injured. Engines and Cars Demolished—A Sicker

Charlotte, N. C., April 11.-The difference of a minute in watches or train orders today caused the loss on the Southern railroad of three lives, injuries to six persons and the loss of thousands of dollars to the railroad. The most frightful railroad accident that has startled this section of the state since the great wreck at Bostian, near Statesville, in August, 1891, occurred this morning at Harrisburg, a small town about thirteen miles north of this city.

Train No. 36, the north bound Florida Train No. 36, the north bound Florida special on the Southern, and train No. 11, the south-bound local passenger, collided, killing three persons and wounding six. The killed are: T. Clingman Benton, of Charlotte, aged 35, postal clerg on No. 11: Titus Eudy, of Forest Hill, Concord; Will Donaldson, fireman on No. 36. Wounded: W. B. Tunstall, of Danville, engineer of No. 36, badly scalded on the head, arms and face; J. C. Kinney, of Thomasville, engineer of No. 11, scalded about chest, back, arms and neck—will die; James Lovell, conductor of No. 11, cut on the face; Fitzhugh Lee, colored, porter on No. 11, legs hurt: William Clemens, of East Durham, N. C., sightly hurt; R. E. Gallagher, express messenger, hurt on the gher, express messenger, hurt on the head and arms, also badly bruised. HOW IT ALL HAPPENED.

The accident occurred at 11:15 o'clock. Train No. 36 was manned by Engineer Tunstall, Fireman Donaldson and Conductor Gentry. It left Charlotte late, but had orders to have the right of way and meet No. It at Harrisburg. The train consisted of an engine, mail car, two express cars full of vegetables, baggage car, second and first-class coaches and two sleepers.

The track for a mile or so approaching Harrisburg is perfectly straight, except at one point, where there is a small curve and a considerable cut. The side track at Harrisburg can be plainly seen for more than a mile approaching from this Captain Tunstall, who was, of course

Captain Tunstall, who was, of course, on the lookout for No. 11, kept his eye on the distant siding, expecting every minute to see No. 11 run into it, but, seeing that the track was clear and no train approaching, and having the right of way, he steamed ahead at the rate of forty-five miles an hour, but by reason of the topography of the country losing sight of the siding as he neared it. No. 11, the local passenger, left Concord late. It was manned by Engineer J. C. Kinney, Fireman Ed Lee and Conductor James Lovell. It had orders, so one of the trainmen says, to meet No. 36 at Harrisburg at 11:14. It had slowed up, preparatory to running into the siding, and was only a hundred yards from the north end of the switch when No. 36 dashed into the cut.

The two engineers faced each other with faces blanched with the fear of a horrible death. Engineer Tunstall applied his brakes and immored. death. Engineer Tunstall applied his brakes and jumped. Almost at the same instant that the headlights faced each other the deadly crash came. The crash was heard for miles around, and the noise was like that of a sharp crack of thunder. FEARFUL SCENE AT THE WRECK

There were ninety-six passengers on No. 36. As soon as they felt the jar of the air brakes they knew something serious was wrong. Several of them were thrown forward in their seats, but none of them were hurt. The instant the train stopped they jumped out to see what had happened. The scene that met their eyes beggared description. There were the two great engines piled one above the other, so that the headlight on one-No. 11-was up amongst the telegraph wires: the two up amongst the telegraph wires; the two express cars of No. 36 were splintered into a 'thousand pieces, hardly a piece as big as a man's arm being left. In less than three minutes' time the postal car of No. 11 was on fire, and but for the use of the chemicals at hand, and the heroic work of Postal Clerk John Hill Carter, both trains would have been in flames in a few minutes' time. But the first thought of those who hurried from the trains to ascertain the cause of the stoppage, and lescribed, was for those who were in the cabs and forward cars. What of them, where were they? Th eager questions were soon answered by sights that made the heart sick and ense of faintness to overcome one.

CLERK BEN'ION'S AWFUL DEATH. Out of the rear part of the postal car No. 11, which was demolished by the engine of No. 35, hung Postal Clerk Benton, head downward. His body was out of the car, but his legs were pinioned in under the engine, and so close to the boller that he was being burned by the heat and steam. He begged piteously to be extricated. "Cut my legs off," cried he. "I am being scalded to death." Heroic efforts were made to rescue him. Three jacks were placed under the engine, and the passengers worked hard, but there, for an hour and a half, he hung with his body out of the car and his legs pinioned next to the hot boiler. The only relief that could be given him in this frightful situation was the keeping of his body wet with cold water. A bucket brigade was formed and bucket after bucket was thrown on him, but it could not counteract the effects of the steam. He lived fifteen minutes after being taken out. During that time his agony was frightful. He refused to take any spirits, saying that he would soon be dead and that it was not worth while. When asked whether he wanted to be taken to the hospital or his home, he said: "I will be dead, it will not matter." He told the bystanders about his wife and children in Charlotte, and, with their names upon his lips, expired. THE TWO OTHER VICTIMS.

The body of Fireman Donaldson, of No. 36, was found in the centre of the wreck. It was a sickening sight. His head was mashed perfectly flat, and his body was a mass of pulp. One arm could not be found for some time. John Eudy was found about the centre of the wreck, under the mail and express cars. He never spoke, but died a few ninutes after being taken out.

THE INJURED MEN. Captain Tunstall was picked up on th embankment unconscious, and was found to be badly scalded on the face, arm and head. He regained consciousness after being carried into the ambulance car. being carried into the ambulance car.

Captain Kinney was pulled out from the wreck alive, but so badly scalded that he was not expected to live through the night. It was thought that he had inhaled the steam as he begged constantly for something to cool him inside; that he was on fire. He became unconscious shortly after reaching here, and tonight his recovery was pronounced impossible. his recovery was pronounced impossible From the rear part of this engine From the rear part of this engine the colored porter, Fitzhugh Lee, who had gotten on the engine to flag at Harrisburg, was taken out from where he was fastened down by the timbers of the mail car of No. 36. He had to be sawed out. From his knees down he was fastened. Fireman Ed. Lee, of No. 11, was not hurt, but his clothing caught on fire and it was nearly all torn off him in order to save him. He came to Charlotte clad in a blanket. He was unnerved by the shock of the collision and the sight of his enof the collision and the sight of his en gineer's sufferings. gineer's sufferings.

A NEW TRACK BUILT. A large force of hands was put to work removing the debris. Engines were pull-ing at each end of the pile to reduce it so the work of clearing could be better car-ried on. This work was kept up all day and night. Another force of hands was put to work building a track around the wreck. (Correspandence of The Messenger.) Mount Olive, N. C., April 12. Nearly every trucker who had strawberries covered them up Saturday funately it did not frost and the weather is much warmer here today. I think leave supplies for five days at a time if the weather continues to be warm some berries will be shipped from here by the 19th of this month. The prospects are now that there will be a good crop of strawberries and it reported about ten days ago that the huckleberry crop was killed; but I find that there will be a big crop of the "big blues," which are a little later berry than the common black hucks.

SENSATIONAL SURPRISES

The Order of the Day in the Kentucky Legislature—Rumers of More Developments . The Hunter Men to Attack Governor Bradley-TheGovernor to Respond on the Floor of the House.

Frankfort, Ky., April 12.-The senatorial situation is sensational in the extreme and rumors of such damaging nature have followed so fast upon each other's heels since Saturday that the scene is almost kaleioscopic. The latest rumor that has gained currency is that within the next forty-eight hours a sensational resolution will be introduced in the house by the Hunter republicans, censuring and denouncing Governor Bradley in the most severe terms for taking and having a part in the alleged bridery charges which have been brought against Dr. Hunter. The latter's followers openly charge that Governor Bradley, as well as the silver democrats, had a hand in the instigation of the bribery charges, which are now being sifted by the Franklin county grand jury, and that in this last move he allowed his venom to get the better of his judgment, and that it will work his downfall. This rumor reached the ears of Governor Bradley this morning and the scene about the state house was sulphurous for a time. The latter's friends vehemently deny that he had any connection with it and say if a resolution is introduced Governor Bradley will immediately go upon the floor of the house and make a speech that will follow sensations from end to end, It is said that an effort will be made to dissuade Governor Bradley from this step, as it is feared that serious trouble might result from it, as the governor minces no words when angry in debate.

the Hunter republicans who are implicated with their leader in the alleged attempt at bribery, were summoned before the grand jury this morning on the recommendation of Attorney General Taylor, who said that he did not went to see the grand jury become a mere engine for political persecution. Representative W. A. Baird, a sound money democrat, from Davies county, was also served with a subpoena, and it was stated that he was to be questioned as to whether or not he had been offered money by the Hunter managers. The situation here is grave. The feeling runs very high and personal alter-cations are looked for at any time.

There was a murmur of surprise when the senate filed into the house for a joint session. When the roll was called the Hunter republicans answered promptly to their names, but the gold democrats, bolting republicans and free silver democrats declined to answer, thus breaking a quorum Representative Burnsm, of Madison county, a Hunter man, denounced the tactics of the opposition in round erms, saying that there were 125 members of the general assembly on the loor and only forty-five had answered The continuation of such tactics, he said, was a disgrace to the state. A ballot was ordered which resulted forty-four votes being east for Hunter No quorum being present, the general assembly adjourned. The Hunter men were busy this afternoon collecting their scattered forces for a final effort tomorrow. They announce that they will win on the joint ballot unless all signs fail. Many legislators are of the opinion that matters have reached a crisis and that the since the session begun, will culminate tomorrow in the election of either Hunter or the compromise democratic candidate, Henry L. Martin.

Washington, April 12.-Funeral services over the remains of the late ex-Senator Daniel W. Voorhees, of Indiana, were held at St. John's Episcopal church shortly after noon today. The church could not accommodate those who desired to pay their last tribute of respect to the Indiana statesman. The members of the senate were present in a body and among the others in attendance were many prominent in official and social life. The honorary pall bearers were Senators Morrill, of Vermont; Turple, of Indiana; Jones, of Arkansas; son, of Washington; ex-Senator Butler, of South Carolina; Judge Lawrence Weldon, Hon. Richard J. Bright, of Indiana, and Senator Cullom, of Illinois. The flowers were profuse, one of the most prominent floral pieces having been sent by his old associates in the senate. The simple burial service of the Episcopal church was conducted by Rev. Mackay-Smith. After the ceremony at the church the funeral cortege moved to the Sixth street station where the family of the late senator. accompanied by Senator Wilson, of Washington, left with the remains at 2:20 o'clock over the Chesapeake and Ohio road.
