HARRIS LITHIA WATER.

Asheville, N. C., April 24, 1893.

An extended clinical use of the Harris Lithia Water prompts me to the statement that I regard it as one of the best, if not the best, Lithia Water known to the profession. In the condition of Phosphatic Urine, its action is marvelous. Its use in the Rheumatic and Gouty Diseases afford me more comfort than either the Buffalo or Londonderry Waters.

The Princess Chimay.

London, April 18.—A dispatch to The Times from Paris says that the secret of the withdrawal of the Princess Chimay Caraman, nee Ward, of Detroit, from the Folies Bergere, is found in the fact that friends of the family had resolved to place her children in the front row of the theatre. A crowd of the Belgian friends of Prince Chimay had arranged to come from Charleroi. They were to simultaneously raise the cry "to the madhouse." Some of the Belgian friends of the prince proposed to provoke a duel with Rigolo. This challenge the companion of Princess Chimay need not of course have accepted, nevertheless the tragic side of her adventure, the correspondent of The Times concludes, may have been nearer than was generally supposed.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

DEMOCRATS MAKE EXHIBITION OF PARTY DISCORD.

The Question of Forcing the Majority to Action or Acquiescing in Their Course of Inaction—Mr. Bailey Indignant at Being Charged With Wearing the "Red Collar"—He Explains his Position—Mr. DeArmond Leads the Opposition—The House Witnesses a Democratic Family Fight.

Washington, April 17.—The dissensions of the recent democratic caucus were brought into the house today and were threshed over again to the evident edification of the republicans.

Mr. Bailey, of Texas, produced a newspaper article, accusing him of wearing Mr. Reed's collar and of acting under Mr. Reed's suggestion in acquiescing in the republican policy of inaction. Denouncing the statement as a lie, Mr. Bailey repeated the reasons for his course heretofore given by him.

Mr. DeArmond, of Missouri, in reply to Mr. Bailey, declared that the verdict of the caucus had been an indorsement of his policy of fighting the republicans at all points.

Mr. Burke, of Texas, offered a personal explanation similar to that made by Mr. Bailey.

The expected alignment of the democrats by a vote, on Mr. Dingley's motion to adjourn until Wednesday, was averted because all of the democrats opposed the motion on account of Mr. Dingley's refusal to yield for the consideration of a resolution of inquiry concerning the policy of the government in the Union Pacific foreclosure suits, which Mr. Bland, of Missouri, vainly attempted to bring up. Much feeling was displayed by the two democratic factions and after the house had adjourned, fruitless attempts were made to have their troubles considered in another caucus.

When the house met the president's message urging congress to take action for representation of the United States in the forthcoming international exposition at Paris which had been sent to the senate Wednesday was read.

Then Mr. Bailey, of Texas, rose to a question of personal privilege and had read an editorial in a Washington paper headed "From Maker to Wearer." The article declared that "the leadership of old, Mr. Reed" was "the leadership of old, Mr. Reed" and said that Mr. Bailey was wearing Mr. Reed's collar and that the democrats would have done as well to elect Mr. Reed as their leader as to choose a middle man.

Mr. Bailey denounced the article as "an infamous and malicious lie" and added "I denounce every man who has helped to circulate it as an infamous and malicious liar."

This declaration was applauded. Mr. Bailey continuing said he thought it necessary to again state his position. He said he was convinced that the democratic party did not expect nor desire its representatives to resort to useless and captious opposition to republican policies in congress. In support of this he read an article from The Atlanta Constitution, and a question from an inquiry with Senator Jones, the chairman of the national democratic committee. It was well understood, he added, that the democrats could not force the republicans to general legislation. Some of the democrats were so opposed to the republicans that they would vote to make laws for the republicans for democratic advantage, but he held that no legislation by the republicans was best for the country. He would vote for the motion by Mr. Dingley to adjourn because he looked not to the maker of a motion but to its substance, but if Mr. Simpson moved to adjourn for a longer time he would vote with Mr. Simpson. The republicans of the house had attempted to carry out their contract to restore prosperity to the country by giving it a protective tariff and maintaining the gold standard. He believed that the democrats should have them every chance to carry out their programme unless the democrats were less confident that the republicans would fall than republicans were that they would succeed. "I am a partisan" he said, "but I had rather have republican prosperity than democratic depression" (republican applause).

When Mr. Bailey finished he was applauded by those democrats who supported him in the caucus and a dozen members, Messrs. Dingley, Grosvenor, DeArmond, Bland and Simpson among them, were clamoring for recognition. Mr. Grosvenor said "I make the point of order that a discussion of the caucus should not be held in the house." Speaker Reed overruled the point of order and recognized Mr. Dingley who stated that the appropriation bills could not come to the house from the senate before Wednesday and moved to adjourn to that day.

Mr. Bland was waiting aloft a paper and Mr. Bailey begged Mr. Dingley to withdraw his motion, explaining "the gentleman from Missouri has a matter that is actually one of public business."

The republicans misconstrued Mr. Bailey's remarks and drowned his voice with shouts of laughter.

Mr. Dingley's motion was carried by practically a party vote, yes, 106; nays 84. There was something of a rustle on the democratic side when Mr. DeArmond, who has recently headed the opposition to the leadership of Mr. Bailey, rose to speak, also to a question of personal privilege. He prefaced his remarks by the explanation that he spoke more from a sense of duty than from inclination. Recent events had only confirmed him in his views, which were opposed to the views held by some of his distinguished colleagues. He continued his speech with a declaration that a large majority of democrats expected their representatives in congress to oppose republican policies. They had not contemplated that there would be a discussion of an accidental concurrence of democrats in policies born in republican councils for the overthrow of the democratic party. "That is where I started on this question; that is where I am; that is where I shall remain and I expect the people behind me to indorse that attitude," said he. He asserted that he had been heralded abroad that there was a disposition on the part of certain democrats to rebel against established leadership agreed upon by caucus. What had been done and what had not been done in the last caucus had been published by those who were deaf to its obligations of secrecy, but if all the action of that caucus was known no one could say that there was any rebellion against the desire of the party there expressed. "I claim that what I have done and what those who have acted with me have done is in exact accord with the decision of the last caucus."

Mr. Dingley said that all the democrats could possibly do would be to force the house to meet every day to adjourn instead of every third day. He concluded with a motion to adjourn. At 1:40 o'clock, with Mr. Bland endeavoring to get recognition for his resolution and several other members trying to catch the speaker's eye, the house adjourned till Wednesday.

On Track of the Somersworth Murderer.

Milton, N. H., April 17.—The team which was hired at Whittens livery stable in Berwick, in which the robbers of the Great Falls National bank are supposed to have escaped, has been found at the Phoenix stables here, where it was left by a man who boarded a train at 4:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The team was identified at Whittens this morning. It was learned that the man answering the description of the one who left the hire went to North Conway, where he purchased a ticket for Quebec.

This news caused a complete reversal of the theory which the police had held up to that time, that the two men were involved in the affair, because Joseph E. Kelly, a fellow well known about town, hired the team in question from Whittens' stable at 1 o'clock yesterday, and Joseph Kelly is believed to be the man who left the team at the Phoenix stable. After leaving the team, the man boarded a train for North Conway, where it was reported, at Milton, this morning he purchased a ticket for Quebec. Upon receiving this news, Deputy Sheriff James H. McDaniel, of Somersworth and Sheriff George W. Parker, of Dover, at once started in pursuit of the fugitive, and the Canadian officials were notified to be on the watch.

At the same time the local police began tracing Kelly's movements during the day, and yesterday afternoon they were practically successful, as about the only facts they could learn was that Kelly was a team at the Phoenix stables at 1 o'clock, saying he was going fishing. On leaving the stable he drove in the opposite direction of that which he had designated in outlining his proposed trip.

Amesbury, Mass., April 17.—Joseph Kelly, who is wanted at Somersworth on suspicion of having been connected with the murder of Cashier Stickney, of the Great Falls National bank, and the robber of the bank, is a native of Amesbury. He is 34 years of age and is well known to the police of this place, although his parents are estimable people. He was arrested on September 18th, 1892, on two counts, for breaking and entering, on which he was found guilty and sentenced to the reformatory at Concord. His father keeps a hotel at Salisbury Beach.

INDICTED FOR BRIBERY.

The Grand Jury at Frankfort Find True Bills Against Hunter, Candidate for Senator, and Three Others.

Frankfort, Ky., April 17.—The Frankfort county grand jury has returned true bills against Dr. W. Godfrey Hunter, the republican nominee for the United States senate; ex-Congressman John Henry Wilson, of the Eleventh district; Captain Noel Gaines, and his brother-in-law, Thomas Tanner, of Frankfort. Those named have been indicted for conspiracy to bribe. Hunter and Wilson are republicans; the others democrats. The indictments were filed in court at 10:20 o'clock.

The news at once became public and created the greatest indignation among the republicans, all of whom denounced it as a conspiracy among Frankfort democrats to defeat and humiliate Dr. Hunter. They claimed that the indictments against Gaines and Tanner, the democrats, were returned simply as a device to prevent the public generally from gaining the impression that the grand jury had been made an engine of political persecution, and that they would be dismissed at the first hearing on account of insufficient evidence.

According to previous agreement, a formal ballot was taken today and one vote was cast for each of the candidates, Hunter, Blackburn, Martin, Boyle and Stone. It is not believed here that the indictments will force Hunter to withdraw. The bolting republicans, however, are grateful, and are urging a call for another caucus.

To Urge Action on the Arbitration Treaty.

Washington, April 17.—Senator Davis, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, said today that he would exert himself to the utmost to secure a vote on the Anglo-American arbitration treaty next week. "I gave way" he said, "in order to give the bankruptcy bill a chance, but I do not feel that the situation demands further yielding. I shall move for an executive session early Monday," he continued "in order to take up the treaty and shall press the matter to a finish."

The senator declined to express any opinion as to the time that may be required. There is a possibility that Senator Daniel, who is one of the staunchest opponents of the treaty, may wish to be heard at some length.

Let The Whole World Know The Good Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Does

HEART DISEASE, has its victim at a disadvantage. Always taught that heart disease is incurable, when the symptoms become well defined, the patient becomes alarmed and a nervous panic takes place. But when a sure remedy is found and a cure effected, after years of suffering, there is great rejoicing and desire to "let the whole world know." Mrs. Laura Winger, of Selkirk, Kansas, writes: "I desire to let the whole world know what Dr. Miles' Heart Cure has done for me. For ten years I had pain in my heart, shortness of breath, palpitation, oppressed feeling in my chest, weak and hungry spells, bad dreams, could not lie on either side, was numb and suffered terribly. I took Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and before I finished the second bottle I felt its good effects, I feel now that I am fully recovered, and that Dr. Miles' Heart Cure saved my life."

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold on guarantee that first bottle bears 75c, or money refunded.

GENERAL GRANTS REMAINS

Taken From Their Former Resting Place and Transferred to the Mausoleum.

New York, April 17.—The body of General Grant was removed this afternoon from the temporary tomb which has sheltered it for nearly twelve years to the imposing mausoleum which is designed to be its permanent resting place. There was no elaborate ceremonial, and beyond the attendance of the guard of honor, the removal was attended without special incident. The interest of the public in the event was attested by the presence of several thousand people, although the hour for the removal had not been previously announced.

Colonel Frederick D. Grant arrived at the tomb at 2:35 o'clock, accompanied by his son, U. S. Grant. Directly in front of the temporary tomb a sort of rough frame addition, a roofless inclosure, had been constructed and Colonel Grant and those directly interested in the event gathered there. The iron gate of the little tomb was at once opened and the undertakers' men began work.

The cover of the steel case which had held the casket was removed last Tuesday. This cover had been held in place by several scores of rivets, and a great deal of time was required to remove it. The first work today was to remove the lid of the cedar box. There were four wreaths and a sheaf of wheat on this lid. There they had been for nearly twelve years, but they were in a remarkably good state of preservation.

Directly on top of the casket was placed the lead casing was a neatly plaited wreath of oak leaves. Colonel Grant, who was in the outer enclosure, had asked for this several times and when it was reached it was lifted out carefully and wrapped up. Colonel Grant explained that his daughter Julia, then a little girl, had made the wreath herself at Mount McGregor.

As soon as the casket had been lifted out, the cedar box was carried over to the mausoleum. The casket was placed in the sarcophagus at once, without any further ceremonial. The leather casing was sealed and then the massive cover of the porphyry sarcophagus was lowered into place by the use of a derrick.

Henry Holden Scheen, of the Lee Rifles, of Virginia, called on General Dodge tonight and stated that besides the Rifles, Virginia will be represented at the dedication of the monument by two colored battalions of the First and Second Virginia volunteers and the Richmond Light Infantry Blues, Major Sol. Cutchins, one of the oldest organizations in the country, having been started in 1783. They will leave Richmond Saturday night and arrive here Sunday morning. His health permitting, Governor O'Ferrall, of Virginia, will come, under escort of the Richmond Blues.

Grand Marshal Dodge today sent a special invitation to Colonel John B. Mosely, requesting him to serve on the grand marshal staff.

EFFORTS TO DELAY WAR.

What the Allied Powers Have Done—The Pope Asked to Intervene—Perils in Prospect for British Iron Industry—Japan and the Gold Standard—Spain Making Additional Loans.

(Copyrighted by The Associated Press.) London, April 17.—Easter being the great festival of the Greek church, it was hoped that actual hostilities, since the reported failure of the raid of the insurgents into Macedonia, would be postponed until next week, especially as the concert of the powers, having failed in everything else, succeeded beyond all hopes in holding back Turkey from plunging into war, while proving to Greece that Turkey is still able to mobilize an enormous and efficient army. Whether this is a good omen for Europe and for civilization, it has certainly had the effect of making Greece hesitate; but trade is at a standstill in both countries and the people are already suffering. Greece is spending about $100,000 daily in the support of her armies and Turkey is probably spending more than that amount. It is impossible for the Greeks of things to continue much longer and the news received today from Neozores, of fighting apparently between the regular troops of Greece and Turkey, appears to indicate that a crisis has finally been reached.

A dispatch from Sebastopol says that four large steamers there have been converted into armed cruisers and they will be sent to join the fleet in the Dardanelles. Large quantities of French shells and cartridges arrive by every steamer reaching the Bosphorus from Marseilles. Among the Greek waters arriving from the Dardanelles, it has certainly had the effect of making Greece hesitate; but trade is at a standstill in both countries and the people are already suffering.

The Roman Catholics of Greece and Crete are trying, through their priests, to induce the pope to intervene with Turkey and Greece, seeking that the powers have failed, in order to prevent war. But it is said his holiness is not inclined to interfere.

The Princess of Wales, from Copenhagen, is making arrangements to have nurses sent from London to the frontier of Greece.

A column article in The Times points to the perils in prospect for the British iron and steel industries. The article, which is based on the duke of Devonshire's address at the annual meeting of steel companies in Glasgow, says that the steel industry is in a very bad way. It is pointed out that for the first time in the history of her iron trade, Great Britain has felt a scarcity of ores and the demoralizing effect of the imports of American pig iron in 1896 was only counteracted by importing 1,000,000 tons of hematite ore from Spain and other countries.

M. Leroy Beaulieu, writing to The Journal des Debats, says he considers Japan's adoption of gold standard to be the most complete refutation of the bimetallic theory that a depreciated monetary standard gives a country an advantage in international trade. He adds: "A country adopting silver would shut itself out from the movement of general civilization."

The Spanish government has decided to avail itself of the authority granted at the last session of the cortes to obtain advances of $20,000,000 at 5 per cent. from the bank of Spain for the Cuban war expenses, guaranteed by the Cuban 5 per cent. bonds of 1890, and $30,000,000 from the Hispano-Colonial and other Madrid and Barcelona banks for the expenses of the war in the Philippine islands, guaranteed by lien on the customs of the Philippine islands. Both advances are also guaranteed by the Spanish treasury.
